Thread: [\[Video\] Pokemon Go - NecroBot Tutorial \(Updated 7/30/16\)](#)

FractumSeraph - July 23, 2016, 12:48 pm

I've gotten tons of request from users asking for instructions on setting up the Pokemon Go bot, so I've made a walk through.

[Video: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=PpTS3xTLd0U>]

You can download the bot here.

Frequently Asked Questions

My bot keeps spamming my Pokemon and showing words like Highest CP, what do I do?
(Click to View)

Delete the Coordinates file in PokemonGo.RocketAPI.console/Debug/Bin/Configs (Usually this fixes it, if not follow the steps below as well.)

Then check to make sure that your MinimumCPtoKeep setting isn't too low.

Then change EvolvePokemonWithEnoughCandy to false.

Make sure that you're botting in a place with pokemon/pokestops. Seems stupid to ask, but you may have mistyped your coordinates without realizing it.

Finally, if you're using a Ptc account, you sometimes need to re-verify it.

How do I stop the bot from recycling all of my items?

(Click to View)

Well first of all don't worry, this usually isn't an issue since the bot will automatically collect more for you. But if you still want to change this, you can go the the PokemonGo.RocketAPI.Console Settings.cs file and edit it there.

I'm not sure how to do it for Ptc because I've never used it. You can probably just edit the UserSettings.settings file like you did when you were first setting it up.

You must be editing the wrong file. Otherwise make sure you have two different folders for two different bots!

IanTichrist - July 26, 2016, 10:26 am

First off, thank you for the tutorial and making me aware of the bot in the first place. I had given up on the game but now I'm sucked back in.

The tutorial was good, although there were a lot of problems with the version of the bot I downloaded yesterday. After a lot of editing and frustration (and still problems occurring), I decided to go with an older version of the bot.

This version is working, although not perfectly.
My inventory tends to get full rather quickly. If it would have been like a couple of hours it would have still been okay, but it gets full in like 30 minutes, and I can't clean it manually that often.

The recycling thingy is working but it is working really bad.
I have adjusted the amount of items I want to keep, but the bot doesn't seem to take it in notice.
The bot only recycles pokeballs as far as I can see, and not enough of them either.
Last time I checked I had 100 pokeballs even though I had it set to 20.
Potions etc don't get recycled at all.

I've looked through the code but haven't managed to find anything so I thought I would ask here if this is a known problem from the older versions.
If so, anyone knows what I need to fix?

Thanks in advance

I had the same problem with the new version.
I downloaded the RocketAPI files separately and put them in the FeroxRev folder manually.

Managed to start the bot that way and it worked, although it didn't transfer pokemons back to the professor so got full pretty quickly.

EDIT: I fixed this. For some reason the UserSettings where not updating to what I changed it to within the Microsoft Visual Program so I went into the UserSetting file my self and changed the settings manually. For me the file was Located at NecroBot-master > PoGo.NecroBot.CLI > bin > Debug > Configs > Settings.ini

I hope this helps others who may run into the same issue. Just keep track of when the program starts and it states where your cords are if it isn't the correct cords you want quickly close the program immediately other wise you'll get soft-banned and have to wait a couple hours to do anything in-game.

Do you know how to adjust the variable of what ball to throw?

I seem to always recycle ultra balls and rarely use them .

Sams Dad - July 27, 2016, 8:43 pm

Looks so funny seeing the different on XP rates between bots. One of them is getting 1M/H, another 800K, a third 300K and then this gets 40K.

It's so odd how different the rates are; but I guess the higher the bigger a chance there is to be banned.

Find coords with many pokestops and start there... the bot will visit them collect from them. Be careful of spoofing great distances, Soft Bans suck so wait a few hours before you spoof to new coords. You can also decrease the amount of greatballs the bot will keep.

Seems to be some sort of issue with OAuth. For now I guess you need a copy of your refresh token from a previous version. Add it to the other .Jason file beside the config.

I can't seem to recreate the issue. Try running it as admin.

To everyone complaining about the newest update, it's because they changed how logins work. No more having to deal with device codes and auth tokens..

Open the Config folder, then edit the Auth.json file.

This is what mine looks like for Google accounts:

And this is for Ptc accounts:

The issues with your email in the auth most likely has to do with a special character(.,') or you forgot to put a , after the last "

It should read:

"youremail@gmail.com", <-----Note the comma!

That is all.

The password should read:

"Yourpassword"

If you haven't done the adding the comma part try that first. If it still gives you an error then you will have to wait until they update the code to accept periods in the name. Make a bug report.

hey guys, how come the bot is not picking up the pokeballs for me?

hoppang - July 28, 2016, 7:13 pm

mmm... how come it seems to always run out of pokeballs and i get the "no pokeballs - we missed a ___ with CP ___" message. How can I make it so I can get a net gain of pokeballs while catching pokemons?

gmmn2016 - July 28, 2016, 7:23 pm

hey guys, i have a quick question. my bot seems to be walking everywhere. am i suppose to keep him in 1 place and not move? hes' not visiting pokeshops at all gothan73 - July 28, 2016, 7:24 pm

the bot seems to now be using more pokeballs than it collects them because of the sniping, anyway to change this. also when will the bot use ultraballs just wondering

Noremac - July 28, 2016, 7:49 pm

Thanks for this, but I am having a huge issue of getting my bot to just farm pokestops, and not catch pokemon.

I turned UsePokemonToNotCatchFilter to true, and added all of them to the PokemonToIgnore list, but it made it so the program wouldn't even open, I just got a debug issue so he uses way more balls than he collects, and see the whole "you missed X cause no balls" message 500000 times can get pretty annoying

Try a location like downtown Toronto or New york and see if it works, I think you usually have to wait 5minutes if you teleport too far though

IV are individuals values, they are more important than CP. for example a perfect IVs pokemon can max out at 2000 while the same pokemon with lower ivs will maxout at 1700. its keeping the pokemon with the highest potential not highest current CP.

yea I looked up what IV was while I was waiting :P another hidden stat in the game, man they designed this game pretty awful with all this stuff they aren't saying.

so what you really want is a level 30 pokemon (which you can't tell in game) with a high IV % (which you can't tell in game)

yes and no, it's the same format but it should really be like

"GoogleUsername": "username",
```

"GooglePassword": "password"

there shouldn't be a comma at the end of password I believe.

Now the bot has updated and sniping is factory reseted so i didnt touched any thing, yes there is dratini in there and the coordinates are the ones provided in the config file.

Can it be because i am really far away from the sniping location?

I am still somewhat noob on this, but pokemon have a hidden stat called IV. it's basically the combo of it's attack/hp/etc

the higher IV, the highest it's CP can potentially go.
so the code is saying you want to keep all pokemon above X amount of IV (I think the default is set to 95%)

(Jul 29, 2016 07:24 AM)bodomable Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Now the bot has updated and sniping is factory reseted so i didnt touched any thing, yes there is dratini in there and the coordinates are the ones provided in the config file.

I am unsure on if that could be the case or not, I am still very noob on the the whole sniping. which is why I didn't mess with it at all (except I just added the snorlax to the list) :P

it very well could be a distance issue though they say that if you set UsePokemonToNotCatchFilter to true and add all pokemon to the ignore list it will work, I have found though that certain pokemon on the list crashes my program and won't let it run.

although the ones I use are

"caterpie",
"weedle",
"pidgey",
"rattata",
"spearow",
"zubat",
"doduo",
"goldeen",
"paras",
"ekans",

the soft ban is through an automated system, it can happen even without spoofing or hacking, you could get it by just getting in a car and driving.

so it's probably not something to worry about at all, I got it atleast 7 times when I was spoofing in order to get the country exclusive pokemon the program will automatically keep atleast 1 pokemon (the one with the highest IV value), unless you turned that to false.

so you can have your min cp value very high and still keep your best pokemon.

you could also have the pokemon listed in your PokemonNotToTransfer list which would prevent it I believe.

dratini and magikarp were from the snipe location

Did anyone figure out the way to fix the sniping issue where it doesn't locate pokemon? I wish I could snipe

Yep. Guess it's best to wait a couple of days while things settle down before going nest hunting.

Also, check out thesilphroad on reddit. Pretty informed discussion there.

I still think it's a bit of a bug on the bot system side. it says that Dratini turned to Eevee, the snipe function looks for both of those already, so the massive Dratini farm should have simply changed to a massive Eevee farm, but still failing to pick up any.

I also added the very common rat to the snipe function and I still couldn't find any pokemon

Hmm could be. Then again, maybe the location of the nest itself has changed so there's nothing there anymore.

Hopefully everything gets sorted out either way lickety-split.

Noremac - July 29, 2016, 5:09 pm

it could be alot of things really.

last night my snipe function was working perfectly fine where others were posting that it was not finding any pokemon (exact same locations). and now mine isn't catching anything. could just fix over time. maybe the ones that didn't have it working last night work now. who knows

It also looks like the nests didn't change locations anyway, just changed what pokemon it was.

Sydney Australia,

i just started there with pokemon ++, i found 4 dragonite in 1-2 hour also 2 Snorlax also golem and Bulbasaur last evolution and also the torutle last evolution it's really amazing spot for rare pokemons but you need to be fast use pokevision to find one then inside the app go there fast with the pokemon go ++

NOW i don't recommend going there for necrobot because i am stuck there and i only get 19k xp an hour, so i am prob gonna leave for 3 hours so i don't get a softban and restart in central park

ALSO++ best advice i can give to you guys is getting XP first and care about rare pokemons later so just bot in central park for max levels u can get it in 2-3 days i think if u have 150k+ xp an hour basically it goes to certain locations anywhere in the world to search for certain pokemon, both the locations and the pokemon you can modify (by default it looks like now it's searching for rare-ish pokemon).

idk how it works without getting you soft banned because the locations are crazy far for the sniping no idea what snipeserver is so I kept it at it's default of false, and it works fine to me.

only thing I changed was SnipeAtPokestops to true,

also by default you are only sniping rare-ish pokemon, so sometimes you won't find any at the snipes. I added some lower pokemong (magikarp, magenite, etc) to the snipe list to work on the medals they are sniping the coords that are in the sniping bracket of the code, but those locations are not where you are, they are all over the world.

you might have to add some more common pokemon to your snipe list to actually get some at the snipe locations most times. rare pokemons are..well rare it will run the search for snipe eventually yes, not all the time when the bot is running, just every now and again.

you can use the locations fine, I still don't understand how you can get pokemon from so far away, but it works fine.

you can also add your own locations if you know a place that has certain pokemon you want

only thing I changed was SnipeAtPokestops to true,

also by default you are only sniping rare-ish pokemon, so sometimes you won't find any at the snipes. I added some lower pokemong (magikarp, magenite, etc) to the snipe list to work on the medals

Not working for me, these are my settings.

Any ideas? Also, does anyone know about IV exactly? should i prioritize iv over cp? For instance, i have a cp 1600 snorlax with 80 iv and a 1000 snorlax with 98 iv. which one should i prefer? These are my keep setting for snorlax, although i also have my do not transfer list with snorlax and other rares on it. This is my setting. can someone give me a good example of why iv is good and is it preferable to take a lower cp with a higher over over vice versa? From what i am assuming, if you have a higher lvl iv, you are able to max it out to a higher cp, so better to take lower lvl iv in long run?

Keep the 98 IV snorlax. It's weaker right now, but it's max strength is heigher than the other ones.

If you upgrade the 80 IV one, it might max out at 2.2k. If you upgrade the 98I IV one, it might max out at 3K.

I'm usually somewhere close to 50K, although with different settings I;ve gotten up to 120K.

A lot of it also depends on the location as well.

Also, for evolving, i set my lucky egg setting to minimum 70 pokemon. but i also set a bunch of common pokemons transfer levels to 1000cp and 100 iv so that my pokemon inventory does not fill up, but i set the minimum amount of pokemon for pidgeys and rattatas to 25 and 30 each. will this keep a minimum of 25 and 30 rattatas and pidgeys regardless of their level or will it transfer any pokemon below the cp and iv level no matter what?

That's the problem. Even if you changed it to 250, you get more normal pokeballs from the pokestops than great or ultraballs.

So gradually, you'll end up with 240 normal pokeballs and maybe a few of the others.

The older method of specifying how many of each is much better.

Quick question however, is the walking spot not setup to go above an average human walking speed? The bot is walking 100 metres in 3 seconds in what would take a regular person substantially longer. Would this not lead to a quicker ban?

My layout is the same and i am still getting the same amount of xp, but the update part at the top was different, so not sure the other program was installed or not. Also, i set to 450mph and was soft banned right away. I recommend all to keep at 45. For evolving 90 pokemon at once, these are the settings I use, i tried doing 100 but fills up my pokemon slots, so doesnt rly work, unless you r ok with not having any extra pokemon, I recomend my settings for the 90 though, if you want you can choose to only keep pidgeys and rattatas for extra pokemon and probably do 100, but then youll get a lot of wasted candies, since other pokemon you catch a lot as well:

Also, i set to 450mph and was soft banned right away. I recommend all to keep at 45. For evolving 90 pokemon at once, these are the settings I use, i tried doing 100 but fills up my pokemon slots, so doesnt rilly work, unless you r ok with not having any extra pokemon, I recomend my settings for the 90 though, if you want you can choose to only keep pidgeys and rattatas for extra pokemon and probably do 100, but then youll get a lot of wasted candies, since other pokemon you catch a lot as well:

I set the evolve scale to 100, gonna see if it works, since 90 evolves only took a few hrs to get. Also, it is an extra 91 pokemon you can max out at with my settings. not accounting for my extra snorlaxes, and other rares, it leaves me with 14 free pokemon slots, considering if i had all 145 available pokemon. which is good since 8 of the slots can fit extra rares and 6 can be used to transfer pokemon automatically.

mageo5 - July 30, 2016, 11:45 pm

I have Player actions set to 3000 and Player catches set to 1200 and I have KM/H set to 100. Are these too fast? Also is there an option to automatically put eggs in the incubator right when they hatch?

From what we know the newest version has not been infected, but to prevent that from happening you should just cease all use of Necrobot.

Any idea why this bot refuse to transfer duplicate pokemon? It transfer some pokemon like zubat without any issue but not bulbasaur. I have a bunch of bulbasaur that are lower than the min IV of 80 and yet they still hang around my inventory.

PS, I am using default settings.

I believe they said the latest one (4.0) wasn't broken into. so it should be safe.

and we are botting, I am sure most of us knew the risks of bans/hackers.

It seems that the program is auto recycling my items when I have a small amount? I'm using the same settings that were in the video.

when i turn the server on for sniping the bot doesn't even attempt to snipe anymore . do i need to edit ports or something?

Noremac - July 31, 2016, 12:19 pm

this new sniping system is better than no sniping, but it relies on people providing coords which isn't that great...

don't get me wrong I am thankful for getting snorlaxs now. but I wish the old sniping still worked and you have people that are posting just "troll" coords where the pokemon isn't actually there once you have it configed just open the config on necrobot and turn UseSnipeLocationServer to true. that should turn it on.

also of course SnipeAtPokestop to true yes the config in necrobot, the line SnipeLocationServer. I have mine to "localhost" and I would get rid of it just to test it, you can always add it right back if it doesn't work

Is it safe to put autoupdate to true for necrobot now? or still unsafe? Also this pokefeeder thing how do you use it? Where should i download pokefeeder to and should i upgrade to newest necrobot?

Here are my configs. I want 100 pokemon such as snorlax, lapras, etc. and rares. Someone can tell me if these r good for sniping and how to download and use the pokefeeder. thanks.[/align] there should be the options in your config to determine how many you want to set TotalAmountOfPokeballsKeep

etc

it should auto default pick the better ones (if you set it to 200 and you have 100 pokeballs and 200 ultra, it will get rid of the 100 pokeballs and keep the ultras)

(Jul 31, 2016 05:25 PM)beastt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Mine automatically updated and is now only throwing great balls. Anyone have any idea why?
It depends on the CP.
If you catching a pokemon with 500 CP, it will use a normal ball. If it has 50000 CP, it will use an ultra ball.

leo4thewin - July 31, 2016, 5:43 pm

how do i run multiple accounts. trying to make one for a friends

Noremac - July 31, 2016, 7:10 pm

so here are my configs on my pokeballs

Spoiler (Click to View) "UseGreatBallAboveCp": 750,

"UseUltraBallAboveLv": 98,
"UseGreatBallBelowCatchProbability": 40.0,

however it always uses Ultraballs first if I have them, making me run out of them fast.

Anyone tried this for Amazon VPSs? It says "Connection refused. Your IP might have been Blacklisted by Niantic. Exiting.." on both VPSs I tried. Does this work with a proxy?

bowdown2jz - August 1, 2016, 12:51 am

So I started using NecroBot a few days ago, V0.33 i believe. There used to be an option to set the max amount of Pokeballs, Great Balls, and Ultra Balls to have in your inventory at any time. I think in the config file now, there's only an option for Balls in general.

I've tried tinkering with the catch probability parameters and the above cp/iv ones. Nowadays I always have maybe 200 Pokeballs but no great balls or ultra balls. Does anyone have preferred settings that don't cause Great/Ultra Balls to run out?

Can i have your config for the version 0.5.0 ?

Jontez - August 1, 2016, 3:52 am

I noticed that it uses greatballs instead of pokeballs even on low lvl pokemons. The config says to only use greatballs on pokemons over CP 750 ("UseGreatBallAboveCp": 750,) but just nu it throw a greatball at a charmander 11CP. Is it because of this line here ("UseGreatBallAboveLv": 0,) ? I dont think that one was in de V 0.4.0 version

Yes that's the exact reason.

I changed it to 85 for greatball and 95 for ultra.

Realised too late though... ultra went from 276 to 33 haha.

The reason your Pokemon aren't getting evolved is because of this line:

"EvolveKeptPokemonsAtStorageUsagePercentage": 0.9

Which basically tells the program to wait until 90% of your storage is full to begin evolving Pokemon, regardless of the minimum you set to start evolving.

uh...latest update transferred all my pokemons i mean ALL to hit 30 or 40?

most people average around 50k an hour. I am doing 80-90k at the moment but with some pretty obvious bot settings :P

just to put the mindset, 29-30 takes 350k xp, at 50k an hour it should take you less then 10 hours for that.

so you are looking at atleast a few days to go to 30

GetJawed - August 2, 2016, 11:06 pm

I heard that most people are selling accounts at level 30? What are your thoughts on that? 80-90k an hour? That's pretty impressive, almost double! I haven't messed with any of the settings really. I just copied over his and saved it. I started it out at level 6 and i'm currently level 13. So it's climbing fairly fast.

Any chance I could get those settings dm'd to me? ;)

I'm telling you what happened, and you can easily look up their notes when they said exactly that.

why it's effecting bots even with a slow run speed I don't know, that's a bit above my knowledge

most people average around 50k an hour. I am doing 80-90k at the moment but with some pretty obvious bot settings :P

just to put the mindset, 29-30 takes 350k xp, at 50k an hour it should take you less then 10 hours for that.

so you are looking at atleast a few days to go to 30
can i have your settings? i cant even pull 30k/ph

Damn. Just got home to see this, how unfortunate! I was looking forward to starting the bot back up. Any news / ETA?

Thanks Noremac by the way! Hopefully I'll be able to try out that new config soon :p

In case you missed basically EVERY thread/post, bots are not working right now.

Tha Mastha - August 4, 2016, 8:17 am hey,

i have the message that there are "no usable pokestop's found in your area, is your maximum distance too small".

I followed the link under the youtube video with your settings. I have been running it before, and changed a couple of things, but i never touched the max distance or the long/lat.

I already tried the long/lat for santa monica pier, but that doesn't seem to work etither, any other suggestions??

Bots are down atm, because Niantic updated their API...

takedown. - August 6, 2016, 4:01 am

Works like a charm, been getting around 200k xp/h bobjoe7 - August 6, 2016, 5:45 pm

hopefully the bots are updated soon nopiepls - August 7, 2016, 4:22 am new update is out and is working perfectly thank you very much!

GetJawed - August 7, 2016, 12:54 pm

Supposedly there is a new update out? I opened necro and it automatically updated, yet i'm still having the same error?

Can I have multiple NecroBot's running? If so, what steps would I take to do that?

FractumSeraph - August 9, 2016, 8:46 pm

I'm sorry I've been inactive for a few days now, but I won't be able to help with these bots anymore.

Landon - August 9, 2016, 10:30 pm

Anyone have a config that is best for catching lots of pokemon and even really good pokemon and also give decent xp? I have one that is ok it catches 170 Pokemon an hour but doesnt catch anything above 2200 and rarely does that. Thanks!

Hey Fallen,

Just wanted to say thanks for your support with these.
You have helped out big time :)

jirka.veritas - August 14, 2016, 2:14 am

Do you have any activ link for necrobot ?? :D

FractumSeraph - August 18, 2016, 10:43 am

GG Niantic

DooSaM - August 18, 2016, 10:47 am

Anyone have a human like configuration they wouldn't mind sharing with me? My account got banned :(I was thinking of just bitting another one on safer settings.

I have been using Herbert The Perverts. It is very humanlike and there has been updates for it.

I have probably used it now for three days without a ban.
