If you need to switch to a location besides that one you started botting with, stop the bot and wait a realistic traveling time before you switch locations (For example logging into your account on your phone). The most you will need to wait is around 12 hours.

There really aren't much changes on the User's end. Most of the changes to the github were made to improve the stability of the bot and add some quality of life changes to the command line prompt.

I updated that post take a look.
Didn't finish my c# learning stuff so it would take me way to long to code it correctly,
But I think this can be added as another file, kinda like the setting file or the pokemon to keep file using the same layout as shown.

You can edit the setting for how much of an item you keep in the settings.cs

For those complaining about recycled pokeballs. It seems that the bot is just keeping it at 20 pokeballs.

If it runs out of pokeballs, it'll farm it back to 20. I have yet to run out of pokeballs so I can't confirm that this will happen.

Does someone know, what are the best settings for 'moving speed' and 'distance in kilometers'? I think my pokemon trainer is moving to fast coz he gets from 1 pokestop to another in less than 20 secs and in real life I should walk for like 5,6 minutes to get there.

I'm also wondering this, which is why I'm not risking logging into botted accounts on my real phone. Once I get confirmation they don't ban all accounts on a device will I risk it. We haven't seen a real ban wave yet so nobody knows what to expect.

That's normal, in the config did you leave the min cp to not transfer the pokemon at a 1000? Basically it will transfer any duplicates you catch that are under 1000 cp. I also noticed that too but it just needs to find pokemon I guess, I do got the speed set to 1 km/h but it eventually catches again. Give it some time.

Delete the Coords.txt file in PokemonGo.RocketAPI.console/Debug/Bin

Then check to make sure that your MinimumCPtoKeep setting isn't too low.

Then change EvolvePokemonWithEnoughCandy to false.

Finally, if you're using a Ptc account, you sometimes need to re-verify it.

That's correct. I would recommend maybe 50?
20 Has been fine with me, as long as you're botting in a place with lots of pokestops, it will constantly be getting more as it goes. Besides, once you level up you get greatballs and ultraballs which it will use instead.

Go to PokemonGo.RocketAPI.Console, then open the file Usersettings.setting in Notepad.

It will look a bit more confusing in notepad though, since it's actually an XML file.

Go to the bottom of the thread in my signature. I have a picture of my settings, as well as a picture of the bot running with those settings. Works just fine for me.

EDIT: Just realize I posted this three times. HF was acting really weird for a moment and wasn't posting right. Sorry.

Thoughts on '200' instead of '1000' for keepmin?

What would changing the evolve settings and making the duplicates higher? Im guessing it would evolve everything but it would keep the 2 highest pokemons ?

It depends on your level. By using 1000, it will keep any pokemon with a CP above 1000. Id only use 200 if you're at a very low level.

The other settings will make it keep a maximum of two of the same pokemon. If I have five rattatas and enough candy to evolve one of them, it will evolve one, then transfer two. (Keeping the strongest ones of course)

Make sure bot is closed.

You're using a caps Lock T for "True" right?

Open PokemonGo.RocketAPI.Console.exe.config

Line 46: Mine is set at 85

Line 49: Mine is set at 1100 (I'm level 25) You could lower yours to 800, or keep it at 1000 if you're botting all night/day.

Line 55: True

Line 58: True

Then press Ctrl+S, that will save the changes you've made. Open your bot and you're set to go.

opt: Close bot, Open Configs, Then open ConfigPokemonsToKeep.ini Delete everything, Go here: http://pastebin.com/vsSadybf Copy and paste ONLY the Pokemon names into ConfigPokemonsToKeep.ini, save. Doing that will keep "Rare" Pokemon.

opt: Close bot, open configs, Then open ConfigPokemonsToEvolve.ini Delete everything, Go here: ConfigPokemonsToEvolve.ini Copy and paste ONLY the Pokemon names into ConfigPokemonsToEvolve.ini, save. Doing that will evolve into "Rare" Pokemon and force evolve some Pokemon.

I may be wrong, but the only logical way to run multiple accounts is to duplicate the file, and then re-edit all the files. Unsure if that's how it's done, but that seems like a logical way to do it

DO this in your duplicate file.

If you're using Google. But I think you'll need to make a new Google Account, not sure.

Open configs folder > GoogleAuth.ini > Remove the code. Save > Start bot, enter Auth code like you did before.

Google.com/device

If you're using Ptc.

Open PokemonGo.RocketAPI.Console.exe.config
Line 28: Change >Google< to ptc.
Line 31: Change >Username< to your ptc user name.
Line 34: Change >pw< to your ptc password.

So far there is only evidence of users getting soft bans which last for an hour or two. Keep in mind this could mean we are being flagged for future bans so make sure you use an alt account. But no to answer your question you wont be banned for now at least, Just do somewhere populated near you like your closest City/CBD and you should have good results while it still looks somewhat legit.

Maybe it's because they're over 1000 CP? Or higher IV.

My KeepMinIVPercentage is at 90
My KeepMinCP is at 1300

I'm level 26, I think changing CP/IV might do the trick.

In short, Higher IV = Better. If you had a 3K CP with 100 IV, you're godly (Right?).

IV stands for individual value. Each Pokemon gets a roll on its combat stats from 0 to 15 when you find it (HP/atk/def). It goes from a min of 0/0/0 to a max of 15/15/15.

So having a perfect 15/15/15 roll is good, it means that at higher levels your Pokemon will have higher CP. At trainer level 40, a maxed 0/0/0 dragonite will be CP 3088 or so, while a maxed 15/15/15 one will be a bit over 3500 CP.

Have they added an "UnwantedPokemons" feature list to this? where you list all the pokemons you don't want and it still catches them but then transfers them right after that way you get more xp, would be cool.

You can add whatever Pokemon you want to the "PokemonsToEvolve" list and if you have enough candies, it will evolve it.

Same goes for the "PokemonToKeep" you can add anything to it.

To add to this, it seems like it ignores the setting and uses the default 1000 meters. I haven't seen it go for any over 1000 meters so far, 500-600 has been the max. Then it seems I get to the less dense part of city and get stuck because there are none close enough.

In settings, make sure "TransferDuplicatePokemon" is set to true. It should transfer duplicate Pokemons that have a lower CP than your highest (should also tell you BEST when it transfers).

Is there a way to make it continue catching Pokemon when there are no Pokestops available? Mine just goes through an endless loop of telling me my best Pokemon and recycling items when there are no stops in range.

Which brings me to my next question, where can I tell it which items/when to recycle? I'd rather it not recycle any of my Pokeball variants, especially when I have 100 empty inventory slots.

Sorry for all of the questions, just trying to get everything set up so I can have it run overnight without issues.

Quick question. I have my "KeepminCP" set at 1000. I have my "KeepminIV" set at 95. If I catch a pokemon that is above 1000 CP, but below 95IV, the bot will still keep it correct (and vise versa)? Also, it will keep Pokemon I dont have, regardless of their CP and IV right?

You will keep them if they are above your min CP or min IV, even if the CP is lower than 1000 but IV is above 95.
Keeps pokemon you don't have regardless of CP.

The reason it keeps lower CP Pokemon is because a setting exists to keep them if they are "perfect" I believe most people have it set at 85, but if you increase it to 90 you should see them disappear from your inventory (unless they are REALLY that good).
-edit- I've been tinkering with the bot since it came out so if you have any general questions feel free to send me a message and I might be able to help.

Yes if you make it 2 it will be able to store 2 of each pokemon and I'm not 100% sure regarding the to keep option but I believe it will save them if they are on the list regardless of the duplicate settings.

Step 4: Click Start

I think your issue is that your coords folder has different coordinates than you typed in your UserSettings.Settings

Most likely the same

Nope, you're good. They recoded the entire backend structure and changed the solution names.

If anyone is having trouble using the source, here's their wiki.

https://github.com/NecronomiconCoding/NecroBot/wiki/Getting-Started#working-with-the-source-code

They removed Ferox's copied API and are making people download the latest version from his github. There's where the missing files are coming from.

A couple suggestions that probably won't get added for a long while;

A hotkey(maybe R) that reloads the bot to update settings, but stays in the last location before reload to avoid being soft banned from teleporting back to designated coordinates.

Detect selected team from config file, fight opposing gyms by detecting CP and type and picking pokemon accordingly. Maybe an option that limits max CP a pokemon in the has in the gym to fight them.

How do I make it ignore certain pokemon?

Necrobot v0.1.6

I don't see where I can edit my settings for as far as the config goes? There's two config files but none of the settings are in either of them.

Any advantages in using the source over the precompiled version? I've been running the precompiled version without a hitch for a little while now. Super easy to edit the config and begin flourishing.

Still doesn't seem to be transferring the right guys though. MinCP at 400, MinIV at 90 and it is still keeping guys below both of those thresholds. Also isn't evolving anyone.

EDIT: Nevermind the comments about transferring. Looks like it waits a bit before transferring, but it does work. Still not evolving though.

EDIT2: I'm thinking my EvolveAboveIV was set too high at 95. Gonna drop it down to 5 after I finish this GPX route at Lilydale Lake. Only looking to evolve my Pidgeys for the XP so I don't care how strong they are. I'm just gonna transfer them all afterwards.

Usually source versions will be updated much faster to have the latest features. That goes for any program.

Probably soft banned. Check if it will let you collect pokestops, if not then you're soft banned for an hour or so.

Hey bud do a little bit of exploring in the file I am sure you have a brain. Why need to have everything handed to you in life? There is a file called config that you can click on in the .16 release. There will be two files in there. So lets try opening those two files in notepad ++ or similar and you will see what you are looking for. I was able to find this on my own by just simply putting in the smallest bit of effort.

I opened both of them, and they display the same things. Previous version (1.0.4.2) the config file displayed settings for you to add Google/PTC and set True/False values. I am not seeing that in either of those config files for .16.

Start the bot, then it will generate two new folders. (Config) and (Logs) go into the config folder and edit those two things in notepad++ or whatever you used to edit them. All the settings and the login information is in both of those files.

There's no point in flaming users and calling them autistic or whatever you're doing. Don't want to help somebody that's asking? Don't respond and go about your business. Nobody cares to read your snobby remarks. Keep it to yourself.

Download the latest release Release.zip.
Unzip the downloaded files, run the program (PoGo.NecroBot.CLI.exe), close it.
Edit .\Config\auth.json
Edit AuthType to be "google" for Google, "ptc" for Ptc
Edit your password and username when choosing PTC login
Save the auth.json file
Edit .\Config\config.json with your desired settings
More details on these settings can be found here
Put your latitude and longitude values in the DefaultLatitude and DefaultLongitude variables
You can find GPS coordinates here to fit your desired location.
Save the config.json file
Run PoGo.NecroBot.CLI.exe again
For "Google login", Necro-Bot has copied your device code onto your clipboard. Paste your code (Ctrl+V) into the Google website that pops up in your default browser to authenticate (if the website does not pop-up go to http://google.com/device)
Click next and next again and Bot will start.

Follow this and the bot will work easily

You're going to either have to wait and login at your location with your phone with GPS activated, so you can catch your starter Pokemon. Or spoof your GPS location on either your phone, or Bluestacks so you can catch your starter Pokemon. It won't let you catch it without GPS enabled, whether that be spoofed or not.

Once you open the bot it'll auto copy the code. Just right click and paste the code into the box.

I think it's because CP can be modified with power ups, but IV is set in stone, so eventually the only way you'll max your pokemon is having pokemon with high natural IV, because you can just power up the CP?

I believe you only need to add the desired Pokemon to that list. Open the config in Notepad++ and add an additional line below the existing Pokemon names.

I had the following settings:

"EvolveAboveIvValue": 1.0,
"EvolveAllPokemonAboveIv": false,
"EvolveAllPokemonWithEnoughCandy": false,

But that didn't evolve ANY Pokemon. Changing either one, or both of the above to "true" caused ALL Pokemon to evolve, not just the Caterpies, Weedles, and Pidgeys that I had in the list. This caused the Metapods, Kakunas, and Pidgeottos to evolve, wasting massive amounts of candies and in turn massive amounts of XP because I no longer had enough to evolve the C/P/Ws. Not to mention it wasted the candies for other Pokemon that I was saving until I got a high IV to evolve.

Yeah it's running slower because they put the default walking distance as 15km/h instead of 50. Change it back and you should have roughly the same results as it used to be.

I'm guessing softbans, yeah. Hard to tell. But their new default is also within the bounds to actually hatch your eggs, which I see as another potential reason.

When PrioritizeIVOverCP is set to true, the bot will sort by IV instead of CP when deciding which Pokemon to transfer out of a group of duplicate Pokemon.

This could be your problem. Check that PrioritizeIVOverCP is set to false.

You shouldn't be getting a Google Device code anymore. With the latest version you need to sign into your account using your Username/Password.

I'm in a rush so I can't get pics but...um
1) Go to your config folder
2) Open up authen.json with notepad or something
3) check if it's like this or best just replace it with this:

```
  "AuthType": "google",
  "GoogleRefreshToken": null,
  "PtcUsername": null,
  "PtcPassword": null,
  "GoogleUsername": "email@email.com",
  "GooglePassword": "pass"

4) replace WITHIN the quotations of googleusername and googlepassword to your account info. Don't take out the quotes because it's a string. You'll be fine. Hope that helps

Why do you have to use it in the jungle area? You could use it anywhere in the world. I'd recommend using some of the more populated cities.

The developers have given an update on their discord channel. Here is what it says Quote: @everyone Current Status: An API change has destroyed all Bots right now. No, that doesn't mean you are getting banned. We have to wait on @Ferox to make the Changes.

That is the reason that none of them are currently working.

That's for IV naming, it will rename them if they are above a certain IV level. You can turn it off in the config if you don't like it

You can change that setting in the config file. It renames the Pokemon to the IV level. It can be somewhat useful.

That won't fix it, the bot is reporting an issue with the API, not with the auth file.

Take a look into the config all the way down there are 4 places for Dratini, charmander, magikarp, and eevee pick the one you want and if i'm right when there spawns a pokemon like dratini is goes to it. (correct me if i'm wrong) and after waiting for like 10 mins there is not anything new like a new catch or error.

A little question, when the bot catches a pokemon this line comes in:

(Normal) Ekans Lvl: 15 CP: (315/353) IV: 57,00% | Chance: 38,66% | 99,42m dist | with a GreatBall (30 left). | Candies: 25

Oke I understand the name, change, which ball has been used, and candies. but what means in this case: lvl 15 and 315/353 is 353 the max CP it can get at this moment or approximately

That is dependent on the IV, so basically for that level, if it was 100% IV, it could've been 353 CP. But since you're only 57% IV, your CP was 315 out of a possible 353. Kinda confusing at first, but you'll come to understand the whole CP/IV system in time.

Dearrxx - July 28, 2016, 7:18 pm

if i'm right the CP depends on the IV % the higher IV the more CP the pokemon will have. And the max CP that is possible to get depends on your trainer level? (please if i'm wrong can someone send a good link which explains it :D) thanks in advance

This is true. The bot automatically re-names your pokémon to they're IV if it's higher than 95%.

If you catch a dragonair at 100% IV - Evolving it will give you a 100% dragonite. (one of the top 5 pokémon)

I'm not a massive fan of this bot, like I've got no pokeballs on a new account yet it keeps trying to capture pokemon. I forgot the name of the bots I've been using prior to this but they all went to PS's every second and felt a great deal quicker and effective. I'm not dissing this bot as it has some good features and looks like it is built to develop solid accounts but it just feels, slow.

I just use the same config for all my accounts, regardless of level. Once you hit level 30, you'll be catching Pokemon with a lot higher CP, so it's best to wait until that time before you evolve/level up any Pokemon you actually plan on using. Here's my settings, I'm averaging around 60k XP/h, and I just started a brand new account.

Is there a way to stop it from asking for key presses when it first starts up? Don't want to confirm everytime it boots up as I have a program running which restarts it once it closes/crashes

ImpulseRXN - July 28, 2016, 9:04 pm

Think I found a workaround to the 30 minute problem. Use BotStarter: http://www.ownedcore.com/forums/pokemon-go/pokemon-go-hacks-cheats/564941-botstarter-tool-keep-bots-running.html to re-open the program automatically after some time.

Make sure in config.json of NecroBot:

"StartupWelcomeDelay": false,

so that there isn't the need for a key press to enable to bot.

Happy botting guys! Sorry if I missed anything, this is just what I'm personally trying out :)

set that to false. Shouldn't ask you for the key press anymore :)

You can disable sniping all together, just look in the config file and change the setting to false. Enable it when you have more balls.

Whenever you enter in your Google username and password surround is by quotes, for example :

"emailhere@gmail.com",
"passwordhere"

subzer00 - July 28, 2016, 11:12 pm
You don't have to do the @gmail.com thing. Just do like a normal log-in.

Adding on to ranger's post, same is applied for the ptc log-in. You must enter in quotes and don't forget to use the comma after the username like so "username1", password: "password" }

Also wondering about this.

It looks like it always catches the same pokemons, i got 8 dratinis in a row.

I want to bot for xp though not the pokemon

Great guide, going to sell botted accounts to the locals in my area or offer a "levelling service" people are going crazy for this at the moment!

Will post back if I have any issues.

Edit: Just a thought if you want to configure it for XP, just go into the Config and change the values to keep and evolve and the CP and it should evolve all the lower pokemon even though they have a low CP the XP will still be helpful; just a thought.

Disable the pokesnipe in the config. That's what ppl were talking about in other threads. Not sure tho because I use Spegels newest release and I get 75-150k/hr. Open Config and look for something called pokesnipe etc idk and set it on false.

Same here, Also it's running out of pokeballs a lot. I think the older versions were better, too bad they don't work anymore.

You could try increasing the walk speed. The default speed is 50.0 if I am correct

Check the forums there is a batch file you can create that will restart the program after 30mins or you can use the program from reddit.

These settings delete pokemon with below 2000 cp and below 95 iv. It also deletes any/all potions + revives and carriers only all pokeball types + eggs + incense. Fair warning.

If you want to not have it snipe(Personally it reduces my xp per hour when off):

"SnipeAtPokestops": true, <----Change true to false in your config.

My current results with those settings(No lucky egg used):

I felt that the sniper slowed xp down, thanks man, when I get max pokeballs I'll turn on the sniper. Is it best to go for dratini or dragonite?
With the settings I have you can start off with zero pokeballs.

Oh nice, now it says 151k xp an hour with your code, thanks.

Does your bot crashes like every half an hour with this script?

I was running out of pokeballs too. I think it was due to "DelayBetweenPokemonCatch" and "DelayBetweenPokemonAction". Exchange the values or set them to be same. It's working for me.

my bot is currently freezing when I run 2 or more instances for longer periods of time..

The bot seems to be running a lot smoother for me today which is good. The Pokemon sniper is a good feature too, it seems to be working well.

Does anyone know how the bot snipes pokemon without get a softban since it has to teleport to those locations. I am just curious.

It's very easy to snipe without getting softbanned.
You're free to teleport to the location and encounter pokemon then before you catch it simply teleport back to your original coordinates.

Never jump from one coordinate to another, if at all jump between GPS Positions within the same city or area but never jump city to city or even to another country.
Decide for each day where you want to be 2-3 days in Sydney then wait few hours (when you sleep) and change the GPS Pos when you start again BEFORE you start the Pokemon Go App.
This is a quite good prevention against softban.
But as always these things could get you banned in long-term since Niantic will do something against this in few weeks.

I think this might be happening because your distance is like 1km and maybe its trying to go to the same pokestop in a short amount of time. im not sure tho.

sageathor - July 29, 2016, 5:20 am

Also - it appears that all of my bots stop right at 30 minutes. Right around 29:59 just completely stop, no error or anything.

NoOneCaresMate - July 29, 2016, 5:22 am

Kind of works lets see if it will crash at 30 as people say.

Mysticfury - July 29, 2016, 5:25 am

Does anyone else here have a problem with the application with no activity happening after 30min-1hour of use? It runs everything perfectly but all the activities stop working after 30min-1hour around that time frame is when nothing more happens. I'm not sure if it has to do with my .gpx file that I used . If anyone knows, any help is appreciated.

You should add a feature like "Do not go more than 1000 meters from start location" it could be awesome , because at this time it goes pokestop to pokestop, but it never stay in an "area"

Again , thank you very much for this bot OP ! Keep it up !

May someone tell me what I need to do to expand the command prompt thingy? IT won't let me and if I try to adjust it all the text stays the same and it doesn't change when I try to adjust it since it won't let me expand it. Is there a program that will allow me to maximize it and see more text available like some of the others have posted pics of their activities here?

Also if anyone know anyway to address this hanging issue when the app has no activity after 30min-1hour?

Ok it appears that the batch file restarts the application after 30 minutes. Issue is this update makes you press a key to continue. So you will still need to be present to press a key or find a way to disable this startup system.

Also mine stopped working after 30 minutes. Is there maybe a delay every thirty minutes to simulate a person shutting off there phone for a moment?
Go into the settings and raise the cap amount for that item. What's happening is that it reaches the limit set and discards the excess items.

Download the new version of the application. Otherwise you can disable the startup delay and use the previously posted batch file.

Ok so with the new update my Ptc account passed the 30-minute timeout mark. Scared me since it stopped at 29 mins before giving me this notification:

My google account is currently at 20 minutes.

Go to the 6th line in your "Auth" file. I'm assuming it's your google username. Make sure it's configured as:

My Ptc and my google account both made it past the 30 minute mark with the new update. If you have the previous version grab the update from HERE.

Thank you for the great bot!
I have one question: is the shown IV value accurate? Because when I try to calculate IV with some calculators, there always is a combination of possible IV. I get like 5 different %. And on this bot there always is a certain % shown. So how accurate is it?

If you have auto update enabled it should have downloaded the latest version. Also your config file is going to be messed up so double check that. If it didn't download just download it from here.

Change the fucking walk speed if you're only getting 20/40k an hour. Change it from 15 to 200.0, then change the delay from 5000 to 500.

"DelayBetweenPlayerActions": 500,

"WalkingSpeedInKilometerPerHour": 200.0,

"MaxTravelDistanceInMeters": 2000,

Soft ban MIGHT happen, but the bot can unban itself.

Did you restart the .exe file yet? Does it say you have the latest version? If it says you have the latest version then ur fully updated. the config file is in the same location. When you update it should change the extension of the old config / auth file to .old. After running the new version one time it will delete the .old config/auth files.

We're botting, our accounts are most likely already flagged. If perm bans do happen we'll get banned anyway.

No, that's fine. The default was 50km/h and i changed it to 15 which is 9.3 mph if you convert it from the metric system which gets confusing. But yeah that's perfect, just as long as you don't go a little over 10mph you should be good. I looked into this and heard people that bike and stuff the average is about 15.5 km/h (9.6mph). And a lot of peoplebike all the time and play Pokemon Go, etc.

Yup, that's why people need to keep in mind to change the setting for that for the following:

"SnipeAtPokestops": false,

I actually discovered this new feature about a couple updates ago when they added this and noticed the new pokestop locations and was close to getting my character softbanned for randomly for 15 min or 1 hour.

exc3ssive29 - July 29, 2016, 8:45 am

I made a new account just for testing purposes

Location: Central Park

Snipe at pokestops: true

speed: 200km/h

delay between actions: 500

I am getting up to 120k XP/hour ?

Config/config.

Change it.

Code "StartupWelcomeDelay": false,

After the error, the bot will continue.

Anyone knows how "Sniper" works?

addicted2xans - July 29, 2016, 11:06 am

Other than hatching eggs, the only reliable way to acquire high-IV rare Pokemon is catching them in the wild, because nests have been proven to only spawn Pokemon with dismal IVs.

So, I've come up with a nice (albeit cumbersome) way of sniping rare Pokemon (rather than just hitting nests like it does by default).

1. Trim the sniping section of the config file so that there's only one coordinate and one Pokemon listed. We'll only be sniping one Pokemon at a time so that's all we'll need.

2. Go to the user @nycpokespawn on Twitter (I can't post links/images or else I would). This is an automated page that sends out a tweet when a rare Pokemon spawns in New York City. It'll give you a Google Maps link with the coordinates, as well as a timer on when the Pokemon will de-spawn.

In your browser, the title of the page will be shown as "NYC Pokemon Tracker". When it changes to "(1) NYC Pokemon Tracker" that's how you'll know a new rare Pokemon has spawned, so you can refresh the page.

3. After refreshing the page, get the coordinates from the link in the new tweet and edit them into the space that we reserved in your config file. Don't forget to also put the name of the Pokemon in your config file.

(There's also @parispokespawn for our French speaking friends.)

4. Close your bot and re-open it.

5. After hitting five Pokestops, the bot should begin sniping and catch the Pokemon so long as the de-spawn timer hasn't expired. To ensure you hit enough Pokestops fast enough for the sniper to begin, try changing your walking speed and delay between actions speed in your config file.

Like I said, it's a bit cumbersome. But it gets the job done. I usually bot when I'm at work, so I'll just leave a tab open to the Twitter page in my browser and edit my config whenever I realize that a new Pokemon has spawned. You'll see that some days/times will be more active than others.

Anyone else have any other reliable sniping methods for rare Pokemon?

bodomable - July 29, 2016, 11:11 am

Guys im using default sniping locations provided in the config but it always says cant find any pokemon to snipe. Also pokemon names are included in the list just to be sure but it is not snipig. Can anyone help me about this?

Edit:

Seems like its working for me again.

R3gulate - July 29, 2016, 4:15 pm
Yea I was just constantly crashing. It's currently stable, though. It was crashing at the time THIS site was saying ptc was down. So I think it's an issue with connection to servers not the bot.

ParagonVex - July 29, 2016, 4:16 pm
I've noticed two things with this bot.

1) It doesn't do any of the introductory stuff, accepting terms and conditions, character setup, catching first Pokemon, etc.

2) It doesn't receive all of the items from leveling up, so when you do a first time login on a level 30 you basically get 1,000 items. Furthermore, subsequent use of the bot doesn't even recognize that you have that many items! What gives!?

Find a popular location like a mall, park, airport, college, ect. Find the latitude and longitude for the location and add that to your config file.

On my phone personally? Or restarting the bot? Because restarting it doesn't work.

@x2UP :
How about the necrobot sniping tools ?
It seems that other snipe program works well..
Is it the necrobot or the nest tha changed

Try signing out and back in on your phone. Just make sure to turn location services off. See if that fixes it.

It may just be the google servers right now.

So is it the servers? I can catch Pokemon but I keep getting 'looting failed' at Pokestops so it's not a softban..

breaker - July 29, 2016, 9:33 pm
So I login and can't see any pokemon or pokestops. Is this a ban?

It won't have one. When you sign into the account on mobile, you'll catch your starter Pokemon and choose your name then.

And the fact that necro doesn't do this starter shit is exactly why it'll be detected

Right in the Username and Password section. It should look something like this:

"GoogleUsername": "ReachForTheSkies@gmail.com",
"GooglePassword": "howdyhowdyhowdy"

It MUST follow the quotations too.

So I guess this bot currently shouldn't be used in the time being.

This is mainly because PoGo servers have updated or something similar that has resulted in:

> Constant softbans when visiting poke-stops
> Sniping unavailable when visiting location as apparently pokes have changes locations?

If you read back the past few pages it appears so.

I've messaged my friend and he's told me that it's been updated when they've done "minor text changes" unconfirmed though but most likely true as all of a sudden not working and mass soft bans along with no snipes at all kooper87 - July 30, 2016, 12:33 am

Used 0.3.3 today hoping it finally works but this bot is awful. It crashes every 30-40 minutes, every update you gotta re-do your auth and config files. With dozens of accounts, not worth using this bot. Exp/h is under 5k doesn't matter what distance and speed is set.

Finally decided to try another bot, this gets updated way too fast and doesn't even work that good. The first version worked the best, nice and simple.

I personally like the way Necro has run so far (despite this latest version's problems) over the rest. I do agree that the first version was the best, though. Perhaps Niantic is trying to put an end to these bots.

Gingerdream - July 30, 2016, 1:17 am

I honestly don't know what everyone is bitching about. Aside from having to change configs every update, this bot is amazing. I'm averaging 50k xp/h with 20km walking speed. Which is pretty damn good imo. I started a bot 9 hours ago and its still going, with no errors. lvl 1-26 so far TODAY.

Go to CONFIG

There, under ITEMS

You have something like this

```
ItemRecycleFilter": [
    {
      "Key": "itemUnknown",
      "Value": 0
    {
      "Key": "itemPokeBall",
      "Value": 500
    {

Change it to 1000 or so

Looks like your issue is with your pokemon storage. Either your settings for keeping pokemon isn't strict enough and you have it set to keep a lot of the pkemon you have, or your bot is fucking up and I'd suggest deleting and redownloading. Or loggingon your phone every few hours and manually transferring.

Because there is no such thing as "Pogo.exe" that you need to be opening.

Auto update is set in the config.json file within the Config directory. It is set on by default, but you need to restart your bot in order for it to work. It will also reset your auth.json and config.json, but they are backed up with the extension .old and you can easily copy & paste data into the new versions (auth.json doesn't change, but config.json is larger now).

Sniping doesnt seem to work, i put it right on a eggsecutor and it says it didnt find anything.

Gingerdream - July 30, 2016, 11:54 am
So this new version is pretty bad. Just updated and it's getting me softbanned on EVERY pokestop. I'm at central park NY, with walking speed on 20km, with sniping disabled. There's no reason for it to be getting me softbanned. I have another bot running in the same location and its spamming "No usable PokeStops found in your area. Is your maximum distance to small?".

It has the EXACT same config as the other bot that's getting banned at every pokestop.

Also, there's no way to prioritize keeping Ultra/great balls over Pokeballs now? Same with revives and potions. Just keep X amount of potions or X amount of pokeballs. Bot just discarded a shit ton of Max potions and revives. Gf.

That means the servers are being throttled. It's how they are trying to keep up with the overloading of their servers. You don't need to change locations, just wait a while and try again.

The entire thing is open source, so you can see exactly what it's doing with your password if you look through the solution.
And I think you can still use an auth token.

What I do is use an app password. I have to since I use 2FA.

If I were you I would delete that version you have, and then download the newest version that is out right now. Extract all of it correctly and then made sure that when you edit your configs, everything is perfectly correct.

This. Also, is there a way to turn off going to pokestops so it will just catch Pokemon?

flatline - July 30, 2016, 5:27 pm

I have an amazing config but I can't share it until I reach 50 posts, basically set all the delays to 1 and change the sniping locations. Up the speed drastically (eggs don't really mean shit).

Easily reaching 70k-90k EXP/H with lucky sniping locations.

If yall are interested in the rest of my config I'll come back @ 50 posts with a dropbox link.

Well yeah, if you're not worried about the possibility of getting banned you can get your xp rates way up there.

Some weird Management issue is going on with the bot at the moment. I advise people to not download anything from NecroBot until further notice.

Are you not related to them or something

FractumSeraph - July 30, 2016, 8:36 pm
Basically the guy that was running Necrobot wasn't doing it right according to some other developers, so they took over the whole thing and are trying to get people to use a different bot which the claim is the "New" necrobot.

Until Necro get his account back and confirms this, I wouldn't recommened downloading anything at all from github.

I've made an archive of mine. downloadable here: https://www.mediafire.com/?6q4kzzg4syamwji
After you start it, go to the Config.json file and turn off auto updates.

I'm not involved in the development. I will most likely be updating the thread with a new bot soon.

SIM-1866423 - July 31, 2016, 1:37 am

Oh... time to find new bot, ha? Still working, though.

kvpibvrv - July 31, 2016, 1:45 am

Well, idk but i opened one bot, and it's working good, then i wanted to run second one and it can't login

WienerNips - July 31, 2016, 2:03 am

Will be researching other bots and contacting the lead developer of Necrobot. Will most likely either create a new thread for whatever bot I choose as the next best or I will update this one if I get some info on what Necronomicon will be doing now.

Out of of the bots, this has the most features to make it seem as human like as possible. With that in mind, it will gain you less exp/hour but I believe that's for the best in terms of avoiding possible ban waves in the future.

Nice. Is there a difference between the updated NecroBot client and the PokeMobBot? Or do the two bots perform at the same rate?

Hey, I'm using Necrobot v0.4 and I have auto-update set to false because I saw a thread about the newest version of Necrobot being possibly infected. I don't think there's much of a difference between Necrobot and PokeMobBot in terms of XP/H.

It's more important to have the bot running with good settings in the config file.

I would recommend using PokeMobBot because it's still being updated and Necrobot's download has been removed. I will try out PokeMobBot later today ?

By the way it's like 3 AM at the Santa Monica Pier so I don't think a lot of people caught the Dragonite

Edit: There seems to be a a new version of Necrobot but I'd still recommend PokeMobBot

I've answered this before. As far as I'm aware, none of the popular bots are malicious. Some people left the Necrobot development and started their own project. Both projects are being updated.

I haven't been able to use the bot as of today (8-3-2016) It keeps saying that there are no usable pokestops nearby. I can guarantee there are easily 100 of them within 1000 meters lol.

I also have the max distance set to 10km

And my phone version is working just fine

they just rolled out an update in their api system, that make ALL current bots ineffective.

i hope this isn't the end for botting

Don't think there is anything to worry about. There will always be work around. Just have to be patient and wait for the updates to roll out.

okay good so im not the only one having issues with the bot

Just so everyone knows, Necrobot has been updated on github.
Everyone back to mindless farming and trying to get good at the market I suppose?

Is the latest version working? Even though it says updated it is saying there are no pokestops nearby

You're probably temporary IP banned.

They legit just stopped working, two accounts of mine got softbanned and the other 5 can't find pokestops. Updated API again?

You're temporary IP banned.
You can't run more than 2-3 bots on the same IP anymore, apparently.

Sick, how long does it last? Also, got a config for realistic xp gain? (30k/hr, 40k/hr)

I see you can run multiple bots at once, but how many is OK?

After 1,500 post on this thread you say "Why did you guys decide to copy another bot?".

What bot did they copy? Everyone enhances the source of another bot to make it better.

Ex. Different features, UI, and etc...

They copied pokemodbot and submitted a DMCA when they were the ones copying.

We have evidence of direct Code copy+pasting by Necro, we will prevail. <3"

Yeah so if they say it then it must be true right? /logic.

Fact is Necro was before them so i highly doubt that he needs copy pasting to improve his own bot. They had a clash between each other and kicked necro out now they are just trying to trash Necro because he's still doing a great job.
