PHP Currency Exchange Panel

Start Your Own Currency Exchange Service!

Hey guys. Today I am selling a PHP & MySQL based Currency Exchange Script. My system provides a simple way for you too keep track of all your orders and have customers submit orders without all those PM's and Skype messages. The user submits an order, and pays and leaves their payout info. Then you pay them out and change the status of their order. This system has a lot of potential for aspiring exchangers or already established exchangers to organize their business. This is a very fast, beautiful, and secure script.

Features

- Admin Panel
- Easy FAQ Editor
- Manage exchange rate
- Secure login system
- View your orders
- Manage your orders
- Add and remove currencies
- Customization
- Flat UI
- Submit orders
- Easy Setup
- Fast, stable, secure panel
- Support Included

Yet another great product from this guy. You won't regret buying this.

citsejaM - August 4, 2016, 5:57 pm

I like it, but why in the actual world would you put html content in the FAQ Editor??
Why not add a question|answer in the database and display it in the FAQ page.

You can do that if you want.

1) Does the Admin need to process exchange requests MANUALLY?

2) Are the exchanges like Members<-->Admin, or is it also Members<-->Members?

1. Everything is manual. If it was automated, it would cost a lot more than $30.

2. Its Members Admin.

mcubpf - August 9, 2016, 5:09 pm

Sure. I'd argue that this should cost way less than $30 then...

I thought it would have at least one of these 2 features.

Admins would rather process requests through email then, instead of your script.

Anyway, GLWS I guess.

It is personal preference in my opinion. This website is clean, secure, and organized and I strongly believe its much more organized than email, but you're entitled to your opinion.

UPDATE: Price lowered to $20.
