Thread: Why has this section turned into all about botting

Shmurd? - July 25, 2016, 10:22 pm

I think Pokemon botting should have its own sub section as it's pretty lame that it is the only thing talked about on this thread stop being lazy and wanting to sell accounts and play the game legit! (Unless of course you have a disability or on house arrest etc) Being Antisocial isn't the way to go!

I Am JT - July 25, 2016, 10:25 pm

Well I think it having its own sub would probably be a good idea to keep the mess out of the main sub. You have to keep in mind it's HF where a large majority of people who play games want to cheat at them and with this gaming being as popular as it is it was only a matter of time.

>>> Unless of course you have a disability

I don't want to sound like an insensitive asshole, but some things are not meant for people to play. Some things are just not meant for others. Do you think a morbidly obese player could be in the NHL? No. Are they going to make accommodations? No. They don't go by a case-by-case basis. If they allow one person to location spoof, then they might as well allow others too.

This excuse of this game discriminating people with disabilities has to stop. It's absolutely fucking retarded.

You're comparing a professional, competitive league that has players competing for totals of billions of dollars to a simple video game. Do you not understand the difference between the two or?...

OP, this is Hack Forums. Don't expect many people here to have a virtuous approach to anything that's being discussed here, especially video games.

Because the forum is called hackforums and thats what people are looking for, a shortway to become the best.

I think Pokemon Go botting is a great thing. People found exploits and they are using it to their advantage. Is there nothing better than that? It's still on the topic of Pokemon Go so I don't see why it shouldn't be allowed. Now some people would like to play the game for what it is but there are some, as another user has said, that want a "short way to become the best."

I won't sit here and say I'm legit because it's a lie I do use hella hacks on my phone however I use them actually out my house in public areas I do location spoof sometimes while at home but I still enjoy the main concept of the game go out and socialize maybe some of you can get laid from this and while botting is cool for what it is be honest when you look at the Pokemon Go section EVERY POST is botting related

It'll die down after Niantic gets their security in tact.

The game will be epic when they implement a social aspect and battling as well as shiny Pokemon ETC but if everyone finds out about botting it'll be lame with all the cheaters but for now while it's not actually multiplayer just a shared single player world it is what it is Considering making a non-hacking lounge. The sub is destroyed at this point and it is a struggle for me to find conversations / threads about people playing legit.

Fistsworn - July 25, 2016, 10:53 pm

Meh I play the Game legit. But also Bot to maybe make some cash...

I'd use this. I am one of these annoying botters but I also play the game legitimately on a separate account and discussion of legitimate play is pretty scarce here so might be a good idea.

I've seen one or two people make a thread for it, but didn't seem to work.

I just hate seeing the same people making multiple threads for coordinates.

The point I made was a valid comparison. They're both two different entities, yet they share similarities. Get your head out of your ass, stop being a smart ass, and actually read what I typed.

Yeah it's annoying man like I won't be a hypocrite but cmon every single new post is about the same thing lol maybe we can get on I to move all those threads and any future botting related threads to their own sub cause I like legit talk more
