Thread: [#1 Fastest & Highest XP/H Haxton v1.1! \[Updated 8/9/16\]](#)

Herbert The Pervert - July 27, 2016, 12:09 pm

Haxton

A Pokemon Go Bot based on FeroxRevs API (massive refactor from necro) The contents of this repo are a proof of concept and are for educational use only

Features:

Teleport. Fastest exp per hour. Shits quick yo.

Builds:

Github Source: <https://github.com/d-haxton/HaxtonBot>

Latest Release Source: <https://github.com/d-haxton/HaxtonBot/releases/download/1.1/Release.zip>

Using compiled release?

- 1.Download the latest release Release.zip.
 - 2.Unzip the downloaded files
 - 3.Navigate to the PokemonGo.Haxton.Console.exe.config file
 - 4.Change AuthType to google or ptc based on your login type and enter your username and password with quotes around them.
- You can find an example below.

Spoiler (Click to View) For Google logins, use GoogleUsername/Email and GooglePassword.
For PTC logins, use PTCUsername and PTCPassword.

<!--Account type can be 'Google' or 'Ptc'-->
<add key="AccountType" value="Google" />
<add key="DefaultLatitude" value="40.758846660085474" />
<add key="DefaultLongitude" value="-73.98512810468674" />
<add key="DefaultAltitude" value="10" />

<!--Only needed if you chose Google as your account type-->
<add key="GoogleEmail" value="Google@gmail.com" />
<add key="GooglePassword" value="GooglePassword" />
<!--Only needed if you chose Ptc as your account type-->
<add key="PtcUsername" value="ptcusername" />
<add key="PtcPassword" value="ptcpassword" />

- 5.Edit PokemonGo.Haxton.Console.exe.config with your desired settings
- 6.The defaults settings are generic so you WILL have to modify these to match what you expect from Haxton.
- 7.Put your latitude and longitude values in the DefaultLatitude and DefaultLongitude variables
- 8.You can find GPS coordinates here to fit your desired location.
- 9.Save the PokemonGo.Haxton.Console.exe.config file
- 10.Run okemonGo.Haxton.Console.exe

Enjoy!

Coordinates Used are Tokyo Disneyland 1-1 Maihama, Urayasu-shi, Chiba-ken 279-0031, Japan

Latitude: 35.6328964

Longitude: 139.880394

For those who want the #1 Fastest & Highest XP/H

Gain!

To those of you saying this bot is bad or are just skeptical about using it, just look at this image from my bot and how long it's been running

If you're having problems logging in with Google do this: FOR GOOGLE USERS EXPERIENCING FATAL ERROR

Turn on 2-step verification by logging into your gmail. <https://myaccount.google.com/security>

After you have 2-step verification turned on, you need to create a new app password in google manager. <https://security.google.com/settings/sec...ppasswords>

Choose other device and name it anything you want. It will then generate you a 16 character password. Copy that and use that as your password in the configuration.

UPDATES

Spoiler (Click to View)-Update 7/29/16 at 2:22 PM est

Catch error should be resolved with other stability changes. Approximately 600 pokemon/h at current rate.

If your exp/h plummets update your LocationsToCycle.cfg in your UserSettings.

The bot will randomly pick one and stay there for 2 minutes catching everything then move onto the next.

More optimization needs to happen around this, but the default locations may suck. Idk

-Update 7/30/16 at 1:19 PM est

Updates are slow this weekend due to refactoring logic and code changes. This is a more permanent fix than our bandaid fix from thursday due to the api throttling. Overall these changes should net you a higher exp/h and give you more stability. Thanks babes.

-Update 7/31/16 at 2:41 AM est

Haxton is aware that necro is dead and/or having possible virus infections. While he believes these to be rumors that there is a Trojan within necro's bot, please use extreme caution when using their or any precompiled bot. Haxton offers his source code fully for anyone to view, if anyone finds a difference between Haxton compiled versions and what's on my source code, please shout to the world because it will not happen. Haxton hopes to have very good news for everyone in the next couple of days regarding the future of my bot.

But as always, stay safe botting. "Trust, but verify".

-Update 7/31/16 6:08 PM est

New build is out. Please grab the latest on source control or Here . With that said, in the spirit of all support for 3rd party builds that do not remain open source will no longer be kosher. If you are going to be making money from other people's work at least contribute back to the original project.

-Update 9/7/16 12:12 PM est

Christmas came early. <https://github.com/d-haxton/HaxtonBot/releases/download/1.0/Release.zip>

We are the only bot on the market currently with clustering. This means, you should literally catch as many pokemon as pokeballs you can get per hour.

We are still working on refining the algorithms to min/max, but currently it seems stable at about 800 pokemon/hr with approximately 270k/hr (minimum), without a lucky egg.

This depends on your location in relation to pokestops and how well our clustering and pathing is working.

For the love of god, please understand when the bot starts, it will catch A LOT of pokemon. Please do not say it isn't working if you have not ran the bot for more than 3 minutes

Please update your configs to go to your favorite botting location.

Enjoy.

?Replicant - July 27, 2016, 12:11 pm

Damn so how does this one transfer? I'm assuming the delays to catch is minimal evolves like everything and pops eggs

Abe Washington - July 27, 2016, 12:35 pm

3 minutes.. cmon. Show us longer.

SIM-1729678 - July 27, 2016, 12:38 pm

He just had a shitload of pokemon to evolve and auto-evolved them.. hehe got you pervert.. anyways still a decent bot. Worked fine for me but I still prefer PokeFast sorry.

How are you at 600k XP per hour if I may ask?

Sharjah - July 27, 2016, 12:46 pm

Does this work the same way was the other bots or is there a higher soft ban increase? And what's the xp/h?

Got 12 accounts running with this bot ranging between 200-300k xp per hour, only problem is one of them will crash every 15 minutes or so but it's not hard to restart them.

Thanks for making!

The teleport isn't recommended in the latest build until xyz fixes it.

About the burstmode, when it goes to pokestop, it scans for pokemons near it, then, it catches them all really really fast at the same time, use that and no tp.

If you're having problems logging in with Google do this: FOR GOOGLE USERS EXPERIENCING FATAL ERROR

Turn on 2-step verification by logging into your gmail. <https://myaccount.google.com/security>
After you have 2-step verification turned on, you need to create a new app password in google manager. <https://security.google.com/settings/sec...ppasswords>

Choose other device and name it anything you want. It will then generate you a 16 character password. Copy that and use that as your password in the configuration.

New Update 7/29/16 at 2:22 PM est

Catch error should be resolved with other stability changes. Approximately 600 pokemon/h at current rate.

If your exp/h plummets update your LocationsToCycle.cfg in your UserSettings.

The bot will randomly pick one and stay there for 2 minutes catching everything then move onto the next.

More optimization needs to happen around this, but the default locations may suck. ldk xyz :

@everyone catch error should be resolved with other stability changes. Approximately 600 pokemon/h at current rate @everyone new build is in #builds <- just click on it. I'm off to lunch. So if you're trying to yell at me right now I don't care (°°°)?(???

@everyone if your exp/h plummets update your LocationsToCycle.cfg in your UserSettings. The bot will randomly pick one and stay there for 2 minutes catching everything then move onto the next. More optimization needs to happen around this, but the default locations may suck. Idk ?

Active 2FA security and create app password for a new device.

Then remove the 2FA security and the bot should work :)

It's because when you use the 2 step verification process, then use the app password, you copy and paste the password it looks like such "abcd1234abcd1234" instead of "abcd 1234 abcd 1234". Goodluck. Haxton bot is the best, and I thank god it's back working again.

this is actually amazing i used necro and i got like 20k per hour

this one started with 800k with no lucky egg maybe because it evolved everything but then it afk at 150-200k

i know necro and haxton are basically the same, the only different is the settings, i am not good at this stuff so in necro i am not getting much XP because i am not making the settings as good as i can but in haxton they are almost default so i don't really do anything

I Recommend you edit lucky egg to be True because the first time you login it will evolve almost everything needed to be evolved

i am gonna do this until i reach lvl 30++ then i am gonna gather candy

Level 25, getting about 120-160K WITH Lucky Egg after the first few minutes (70-100K no egg) on default coords, 204 Pokemon an hour WITH incense, have switched to Santa Monica, Central park etc, not much difference about 20k+/- Obviously it's still a remarkable speed, but anything I should change to increase the speed?

My one goes around, gets a shit load of softbans at the same area and then says Niantic API is throttling and just constant soft ban over and over until I restart, unsure if Necro issue itself or my account.

Update 7/31/16 at 2:41 AM

Haxton is aware that necro is dead and/or having possible virus infections. While he believes these to be rumors that there is a Trojan within necro's bot, please use extreme caution when using their or any precompiled bot. Haxton offers his source code fully for anyone to view, if anyone finds a difference between Haxton compiled versions and whats on my source code, please shout to the world because it will not happen. Haxton hopes to have very good news for everyone in the next couple of days regarding the future our my bot.

But as always, stay safe botting. "Trust, but verify".

That's why you should read the settings before you use it.

As stated in about 100 or so other threads in this subforum, Pokemon Go's API changed a few days ago rendering all of the bots outdated and not working. The developers are working on fixing it, but in the meantime, no bot that you are going to try will work.

Update 9/7/16 12:12 PM est

Christmas came early. <https://github.com/d-haxton/HaxtonBot/releases>

We are the only bot on the market currently with clustering. This means, you should literally catch as many pokemon as pokeballs you can get per hour.

We are still working on refining the algorithms to min/max, but currently it seems stable at about 800 pokemon/hr with approximately 270k/hr (minimum), without a lucky egg.

This depends on your location in relation to pokestops and how well our clustering and pathing is working.

For the love of god, please understand when the bot starts, it will catch A LOT of pokemon. Please do not say it isn't working if you have not ran the bot for more than 3 minutes

Please update your configs to go to your favorite botting location.

Enjoy.

Not long, you can do the math yourself by dividing XP/Hour / XP required for X level.

I literally just saw a list posted the other day in the Necro thread but I doubt you will find it. Just make a thread asking for a list of all the crappy pokemon. I am sure someone has a list somewhere.

Stuck at "updating inventory" what can I do?

Physicist - August 7, 2016, 6:16 pm

Okay, idk if anyone would see this but I've tested shit out for this bot and that I kinda understand the whole "updating inventory" or "encounternotinrange" etc shit like that. Catch error occur because of your altitude that's what I noticed? I caught the pokemon when I actually entered the altitude right. This bot, to me functions like a teleporter to catch 20 pokemons in less than 10 secs kinda shit, therefore, alot of time, they woon't be able to catch the detected pokemon again.

SIM-1980240 - August 7, 2016, 6:45 pm

In the folder "UserSettings" there is a file called ItemListCount, open that. Change the amount of incubators you wanna keep and restart bot.

I ran this bot an monitored it for the last 6 hours. It has been doing an amazing job so far gaining me 220k/hr on average.

I just came across a problem after awhile the bot got stuck with max inventory of Pokemon and it continued to catch pokemon instead of transferring them.

Even after a restart it wasn't able to fix itself so I booted up NecroBot and it transferred fine then I switched back to Haxton <3.

You're just IP banned i think, it'll wear off for like 10-15 mins. I'm only running two bots max since whenever I do three they stop working after a bit.

I believe bans vary, mine have been around 15 minutes. If it wasn't a ban then most likely a soft ban.

That isn't an issue. You will visit that many pokestops you will be just getting random stuff. The bot tends to keep enough pokeballs for you to be able to catch pokemon.

I wouldn't worry about your items.

I've always ran a single bot. It works to start off with I get XP/items. Then just suddenly stops working. I'm only 600k from level 40 a ban would suck ???

Omarion - August 8, 2016, 6:06 pm

If it's updating inventory it's because you reset the bot or paused it or something, there was a stop and it goes back over the same area. Either wait for 10mins let it fix or stop the bot and restart in 10-15mins.

Honestly if you are getting any errors just follow these two steps:

- 1.) Close and wait 12 minutes then restart Haxton and change your latitude by 1 #.. (I do atleast lol)
- 2.) Stop trying to run two/three different bots on your home connection.

Mine too. This means you have an IP ban. To get rid of the ban you need to basically not go on for a while. Maybe 2 hours.

Imo it's probably best to bot just one account and reduce the speed lower than 180km/h. Maybe use like 50. Something more realistic.

Then use a proxy per bot.
