Thread: Red Lions - Recruitment Closed | Official HF Group

!!* Alone Vampire *!! - July 29, 2016, 12:39 pm

Thanks to Glassy for the layout.

Now Recruiting

Requirements Must be a member of HF for at least 3 full months.

Must provide five quality contributions in application.

Must have a warning level of 0% (You can still apply with warnings, but be sure it's 0% when we accept members)

No spamming/low quality posting.

No open/unresolved scam reports.

You may have negative reputations but they will be reviewed on a case to case basis.

What are the Red Lions?

The Red Lions are a group of high quality members who will work together to make HackForums a better place. We will veil the marketplace, report spam, illegal products, sales trashers and the desires that signify the discomposure of Hackforums. We will help each and every member with the aspects of Hackforums, by knowing all rules, policies, and everything within the Help Docs. We will understand and verse in your subject areas. The Red Lions are expected to conduct maturely forum-wide, with no exemptions. We do not endorse of trolling, along with members who flame consistently. We've gained what we have given, that is respect. With that we turn average members into Red Lions.

Current Leaders

!!* Alone Vampire !!

These are the only people who can either accept or decline you from the group.

What to do after you apply

1. Do not private message leaders if your application hasn't been dealt with.
2. If you have any questions feel free to contact !! Alone Vampire *!!
3. Every application will be dealt with in a timely manner.
4. If declined, feel free to reapply next recruitment unless instructed otherwise.
5. If accepted, read all of the stickies before posting.
6. If you are applying, only post once. Nothing else but your application should be posted.
7. Do not apply via CP or you will be declined.

Remember joining a group is strictly a privilege, leaders are not obligated to accept new members. Applications will be reviewed in time and selection will be more strict. Recruitment will end when I feel it is time to do so, don't ask when. If you're not selected, just re-apply another time.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section): I'd like to join as ever since I joined the Red Lions group appealed to me due to some of the members in it which stand out in the community at my time of registration Alone Vampire was a staff member, and I would always see Regulas around, over time I've made friends and socialized with many members within the group and feel as I'd fit in, personally I've talked to Eternal. here and there Regulas, iHydra, and I consider Alone a good friend as well, I've also seen Hash G around a good bit, these are more so the members who stand out to me, although I don't know everyone I feel like I'd fit in it given the chance.

How much time can you devote towards group activities: I currently spend a lot of time online on Hackforums as I have a lot of free times and I'm always down to socialize and help people out so I will be able to devote however much time is needed from me.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section):

I've always looked at Red Lions thinking that one day I'm going to join that group, (no kidding) I didn't know how at the time but finally I've gotten a chance.

So the reason I want to join Red Lions is because there's a lot of high quality members here who want to make HF better in anyway they can, if that being reporting posts, people or anything they see that doesn't belong on HF.

I feel like I would fit great here, I am trying my best to report posts that I see which aren't allowed and trying to help out where it is needed.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

I can devote nearly as much as needed since I do not have a strict schedule I would have to follow in real life, therefore I'm online 5+ hours each day.

Name:

What are some of your skills?:

My main skill is coding. I usually do system & desktop development. Got a lot of experience in web development & web security as well.

Due to my interest in coding I got a lot of experience in general computer science and maths.

How can you contribute to the group?:

I can help with creating any kind of projects etc. I got some experience in project management which will be helpful.

While coding I used team work tools like Git, SVN etc. These tools aren't just used for sharing code. They're used for project planning and communication as well.

From using this tools I got a lot of experience at team development/team work.

I specialize in Social Media. Anything having to do with Twitter, Instagram, Facebook, Snapchat, etc. Basically, I've been to "go to" guy about that on Hack Forums.

I get many PMs daily regarding that. Not only sales, but advice as well which I'm always happy to give out.

How can you contribute to the group?:

To be honest, this question is a little bit difficult to answer because the amount I'd want to contribute would be difficult to put in words lol.

I know this group is about helping other members, and not only Red Lion members, but all of HF, and that's something that I've always done.

And to be able to do it under the Red Lions name would be wonderful.

Reason why you want to join? (take some time to fill this section):

I'm not really the type of person to say what I deserve. I'm very humble and don't like to brag. So it's a little hard to say why I want to be in Red Lions. But I've always tried to be the nicest and highest quality user on Hack Forums. I've done dozens of giveaways, whether it's money, awards, upgrades, etc. I try my best to help out anyone I can with ANY problems they have whether it's personal or just something about HF. Most members are comfortable talking and dealing with me. I get about 2-3 PMs daily for MMinig haha. But I guess to summarize this, I try and give my best to HF and any group I'm in and I will always continue to do so.

I really hope you guys consider me to be a part of this amazing group. It's really the one I've always wanted to be in and I really hope this is my chance to join :)

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

Reason why you want to join?:

I've been in groups before and none of them really suited what I was looking for. I left some groups because they were too lounge for my taste, and the groups that were great, turned sour and things went down the drain.

I know it sounds cliché and corny, but all I really want to do on HackForums is learn. I came here to learn and that is all I've been doing. This group, in particular, looks like it would stomp the others. I'm not here to praise the group and brown nose my way in, I am just telling you how I feel.

There are many projects I keep to myself because I don't feel like the people around me in my current connections would do them any good. There are tons of things I would like to release for free but money makes the world go 'round, so I'm stuck in a cycle. I'm not hoping members in this group will make them happen for free, of course not, but I am hoping they could lead me in right direction so I could learn how to do them myself, and release them for free as I've wanted to do since I thought of them.

I know how it looks, I'm a random user wants to join the group saying the same things everybody else is saying. Regardless of if you accept me into the group, I WILL be continuing my journey and I WILL keep releasing guides and spreading knowledge around this forum. A group won't stop that, I only wish that this group will provide me with the right connections so that I can educate myself further and educate others.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:
Time varies. I'm working on projects and doing things in real life with friends and family, but to answer the question a good portion of the day is free to do what I want. Be it 5-8 hours varying.

My personality isn't the greatest, I'll be honest. When I want to have fun, I'll have fun. When I want to work, I'll work. I mostly want to work,

I won't follow you blindly, I don't care who you are. If you tell me to do something, be ready to answer why, as I'm not a lemming who takes orders.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section):

I really want to join Red Lions, as I have always seen the group as a very high quality group, that have made a lot of great contributions to Hackforums. The group also have a large field of knowledge, and I have seen nothing, but high quality posts from the members.

Also, - this can count as something bad - I want to grow as a member. I want to learn, and I want to give away some of my knowledge.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

I'm online about 6-8 hours a day, more on the weekends.

Name:
Internet Explorer., or just IE.

Age:
17.

Country/State:
Denmark (UTC +1)

In one paragraph, describe your personality:
I'd rather have a happy customer, than make a little more profit.

Very excited to see recruitment open again, now is your chance to prove to us that you are worthy of the RL title so make sure you put a lot of effort into your applications ?

minimalist - July 29, 2016, 2:08 pm

Name:
Steven (Minimalist)

Age:
16, turning 17 in a few months.

Province/Country: Ontario, Canada.

In one paragraph, describe your personality:

I am a helpful and introverted person who has found his place in online communities and forums. Approachable, I have no problems with meeting new people and networking, but I do prefer to keep to myself and my small friend group.

Rate your grammar, on a scale from 1-10:

What are some of your skills?:

I do not possess many learned skills but I know myself to be skilled in a number of areas. My knowledge extends beyond my everyday life, and this is evident in my participation on Hack Forums. I'm active in a few sections: Computer Overclocking, Customizing, and Hardware

Crypto Currency

Health Wise

Mobile Sections

Marketplace Sections

Apart from these sections that I post in religiously, I am always open to learning new things. I have been learning Java and I plan on picking up software engineering as a career. I also post in general sections with over 3000 combined posts in the RANF (where you'll find me helping people) and The Lounge (where I lounge).

How can you contribute to the group?:

As I've mentioned previously, I like to give advice to others where I can. My personal interests blend beautifully with your group's aim, which is to help others and to benefit Hack Forums' members. I'm confident in the areas that I've listed above.

Oh, and I singlehandedly run one of the largest middleman services with over 260 deals middlemanned to-date. Established myself as a trusted option in February of 2016. I'm more than willing to turn this into a group-sponsored service.

...and countless other contributions to the RANF and other sections.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section):

I would like to join because, among commoners like myself, the Red Lions group has always held a level of prestige. Not because of the group's owner, but because of the contributions by the group and its members. I am not only in it for the userbar, I am looking to join to continue being the best I can. I try to help users out with any problems that they may have, and I middleman deals on my spare time. I think I'd fit in well in with the rest of you.

I'm not currently in any group because I haven't found one that I would be comfortable in. I've not applied to any groups for a few months now. My warning level may be a deterrence but it will be resolved in 2 week's time. I received the strike because I stupidly made a joke that I shouldn't have.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

A lot of time, most of the time. I am online on Hack Forums for hours on end and my time would definitely be put to helping out within the group.

Thanks for taking the time to read my application.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section):

I've been dreaming of having the Red Lions UB. Red Lions for me is the best and most HQ group that exists on HF, and we all now that Red Lions isn't a group that do buy-ins etc and that is also why I want to join Red Lions. I don't want to join a group to only wear their UB, I want to join Red Lions because of what they can do for me and what I can do for them. I've been in many groups on HF such as The Brotherhood, Nightmare, Riptide, Minecrafters, Royalty so I am really excited to see what Red Lions can offer me and what I can contribute with.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

Hard to say exactly how much time I can devote, depends on if I have much in school etc. But I would probably say a minimum of 15h/week.

Confound - July 29, 2016, 2:34 pm

I want to start off by saying I have admired this group's work, and its members for quite some time now. I am very grateful to be considered for a membership spot in the Red Lions, and I want to thank you for your time and consideration in reading my application.

What are some of your skills?:

I qualify myself as an entrepreneur and a businessman. On top of that, I would qualify myself as a skilled writer, thinker, and scholar. I care deeply about my studies and have a vast knowledge of subjects including history, economics, psychology, race studies, politics, music, photography, and more. I enjoy talking about these topics and would love to share my enthusiasm and spread my knowledge with anyone interested in learning. Other skills include Arbitrage, Affiliate Marketing, Project development and Management, E-commerce, simple stock day trading, and I recently started a Homework/Paper Writing/Test Service here on HF as well. I work in the resale of both online and physical goods, and my businesses are conducted both on and off HF. I also have skills in Photo, Photoshop, and InDesign. In regards to personal interests and skills outside of HF, I am an avid fly-fisherman, I snowboard, I play the drums, and I am extremely dedicated to urban photography. While some of these skills are more tailored towards online marketing, there are others that have nothing to do with earning profit. I think my writing background will be of use if I were to collaborate with group members that wanted to team up and create guides, or instructional based threads. I can also provide detailed information in any subject area I have experience in.

How can you contribute to the group?:

I am willing to do whatever I can to help out and contribute to Red Lions. I can release guides and content under the group's name. If there are any skills that I have that several people are interested in learning about, I can write detailed guides/informational threads about the topic. I can dedicate hours and hours a day to whatever any group member may need, and I intend to help out in regards to the group's mission. I can offer free and extensive guidance to any group member that has an interest in any of my skills or interests, as well as to the HF community as a whole. I would be grateful to share my knowledge with other smart, like-minded individuals. I also want to make HF and its Marketplace better, and will do everything I can to help out in that regard as well. I plan on also reporting spam, illegal products, and sales trashers to better the HF community. I also appreciate and fully support a zero tolerance rule with trolling and flaming, and look forward to participating in a group that feels the same way. I understand that the group's mission is based on non-profit. With that said, I have begun to reroute my focus on HF, in order to better fit the group's mission. I have already started focusing less on making money and have started primarily focusing more on contributing to HF as an active and HQ member. I am more interested in working collaboratively with other users, helping one another, as opposed to turning profit. I want to emphasize that.

I think I can also take my leadership skills and experience from leading Apex and reroute that towards serving as a Red Lions member. I have gained extremely valuable experience and knowledge from helping lead Apex that will allow me to fit in with other talented and knowledgeable members of the RL. It's no surprise that every RL member is a capable, well-rounded member on HF, and I believe and hope I can add to that environment.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section):

I believe if I have the opportunity to become a Red Lion, I will be able to thrive more as an individual, and help others thrive as well. Being a part of a group full of smart and capable people would be a privilege, and I believe I have what it takes to add to that kind of environment. I have wanted to join Red Lions ever since I joined HackForums, knowing you guys were the most coveted, well respected, and well liked group on HF. You guys have truly brought a great name to HF and Groups in general, and I would love the opportunity to add to that. I understand that the Red Lions are a close, tight-knit, and friendly community that look out for each other and the well-being of HF in its entirety, and I am always interested in meeting and bonding with new people.

Another reason why I want to join the group is to continue its amazing legacy, by further adding and contributing to HF under Red Lions name. I am willing to donate on behalf of the group. I am willing to offer more free services on behalf of the group. I will be 100% fully dedicated to the group and its members. I spend a lot of time being active on HackForums, and I would love to be another Red Lions member that is seen online all the time and constantly active with HQ content. In addition, being around amazing and talented people makes me want to become even better and more HQ myself. Being with a group of users like you all would also make me a better person. I plan on learning and having experiences with other Red Lions members if I am accepted. I look forward to offering my resources and experience to anyone interested in learning alongside with me. I look forward to growing with you all, together.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

While I am a student, and also work at a production company as an intern for the summer, I am on my computer over 14 hours a day, and am willing to devote all the time needed towards the group. When the summer ends, I will no longer be working as an intern, and will be heading back to school. That said, I will still be able to devote ample time towards HF and the RL group. Being a part of this group would be an honor, and I would never take that for granted.

Name:

Confound

I am willing to disclose my actual name to the group.

Age:

I will be 20 in August. I am going into my 3rd year of College.

Country/State:

New York City

In one paragraph, describe your personality:

I would describe myself as an outgoing, hardworking, family-oriented individual. I care about my family and friends more than anything in the world. I am easy going to talk to, extroverted, humorous, and kind-hearted. I would qualify myself as ambitious, conscientious, and loyal. While being confident, I also am sympathetic and empathetic to people's situations, and my friends often consider me to be a helper. I often assist others by providing advice or supply guidance to those in need. Overall, I am a team player and reliable, and I think I would be a great addition to Red Lions.

Rate your grammar, on a scale from 1-10:

9. I want to clarify that while I have a high capacity for always using proper grammar, there are occasions in posts and threads of mine that don't show this. That said, when I spend time and effort into writing coherent and proper sentences with correct grammar, I tend to have little to no errors. Hopefully, my application shows this clearly.

Again, thank you very much to all Red Lion members for reading and considering my application. A simple application won't even adequately express my deepest interests in joining your group. There are no words to describe how passionate I am about this. Please let me know if you have any questions, or would like to talk in more detail about anything, as I am willing to do whatever it takes to prove my loyalty. Thanks again.

Soulmate~?? - July 29, 2016, 8:29 pm

Let me start off by saying, my name is Soulmate and I've been on HF since around 2011 and I've been writing feedback threads since then. At the start of March my account was closed by Omni for the feedback thread I made a few days before. About a month ago however I messaged him using the support form and he let me back on the site, of which I can show proof if necessary.

Application Form

What are some of your skills?: I am very knowledgeable on gaming, Marketing (specifically the HF marketplace as I was really known for gamertag sales back in the day)

I have a little knowledge on web and game design

Even though English my second language and Russian is my first, I am very good at writing, editing, and proofreading text.

I dabble in music production and sound design

How can you contribute to the group?: In the past I have made many tutorial threads for every group that I have been in, both inside and outside of their respective subforums. I have a lot of knowledge that I share with on HF and if anyone in any section requires help and I stumble on it I usually try my best to help out.

This is one of the many review threads I made for Infamous which proves how I am able to make many quality threads consistently and I am full of ideas that can lead me to make many contributions to a group and in the name of a group.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section):

I posted this in my feedback thread, but ever since I joined I always looked up to The Alliance and Red Lions and the respect I have for the group grows as time goes on. What I mean is HF's groups are all shifting towards marketing or lounging and RL is the one group that has always stayed to it's core. Setting an example for members, contributing in every way, and being selfless is pretty much what I'm all about.

How much time can you devote towards group activities: I'm on HF almost all day, so I promise that I can hold up to any expectation or standard regarding post activity and quality.

Miscellaneous Questions (Required)

Name: Soulmate (PM for real name)

Age: Over 18 (PM for exact age)

Ever since I joined the forum, One of the first things I realized that this group was very professional and were very friendly, I spoke to one of the members before and they were very helpful, I feel like this group is above all the most friendliest and most mature group on HackForums. I wanted to be apart of this group but I knew that If I were to over to try and have a chance to join it, I'd have to work hard and dedicate many many hours to HF and be a very helpful and contributing member in the community. I tried my best to do so and I've worked for almost a year to get to that point. I honestly feel like I can bring my services to good use here in this group and help those who really need it aswell. I am very friendly to everyone I speak to and I will do my best to contribute to Red Lions.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

What are some of your skills?: I used to be heavily involved with the HF marketplace whether it be currency exchanges, reviewing eBooks I was given a vouch to, selling products, and much more. Aside from that, I've been recently posting in the Pokemon Go section assisting users with picking up rare pokemon, assisting users with bot issues, etc.

How can you contribute to the group?: I feel like I would be a huge candidate to this group. I am an outgoing person and don't tolerate myself being negative towards others for my own entertainment. I also plan on doing MANY upgrade giveaways very soon due to a huge load of cash coming my way and the only thing stopping me is how I want the giveaways to be done. Repping the Red Lions userbar would be a huge honor as I've been very impressed by the group for years of my time here.

A see some good applications so far,

A word of advice to all who apply, as a few great applications have pointed out: We are a group who does not do things for profit. Our goal (while technically should be defined by each member individually) is to always put community first. We do not profit from anything we do here. You must keep this in mind when writing applications.

Links to any contributions(Giveaways do not count): I'll just list some of my accomplishments on HF; sorry for not posting links for most of my contributions were not directly posted as threads:

- First investments and mining into Omnicoin, helped it thrive for a good while until it plummeted after major wallets were hacked
- Assisting users in scam reports, finding the culprit and keeping on until everything is clear
- Providing psychological and emotional help to users in the Health section (I was in Brotherhood and Empire for that very reason)
- Helping the 'intellectual' side of HF thrive in the SRPP section (around 1300 posts there), respecting all religions and advocating equality in regards to the entire muslim crisis without getting too lib about it.
- Financially supporting some group leaders and owners in time of need (Instinct mainly)
- Providing support for beginner e-whores (psychological analysis of victim + editing for 'proof' if you know what I mean)
- Posting a shit ton enough to be told by Omni that I've had 'at least one good post on this site'. (See

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section):

I don't believe in large paragraphs to drive along the idea that I want to join your group, Red Lion folks. I am interested in joining Red Lions because I feel like it would be an honor to be part of such a group, I would like to give it some sort of activity and more showcase on HF, I don't really care about the userbar as I was always keen on wearing my I33t userbar. I want in your group, and I believe that I can contribute fairly decently with my own assets. I try to be fair and equitable in my judgements on HF (aside from when I lose my shit over bigoted people), and I think that it's a good demonstration of what a high quality group such as Red Lions is all about. At the end of the day, no matter what I say, I can only convince you of so much, and you might even have formed your idea already, but I know that what most people look for is someone confident, good with people on a 'professional' level (if not on the respect level), someone with the manners to set an example while being active and giving the group a good image... and I feel like I might be that guy. I've been denied ub3r in 2013~ for some stupid stuff with an ex-admin and his girlfriend, I always upheld my status as I33t and wanted to set an example; that you don't need some sort of rank to be high quality. That you don't need to be ub3r to have stats like mine. That you can be a nice, cool guy with honesty and still be successful on HF. I think that this is what I demonstrated. And I feel like Red Lions is my next stop; I was able to get to this point as a I33t, I surpass a lot of people on the level of 'stats', but stats don't really matter, they're just a reflection of what people think of me as a user. As a user, I believe I can give this group a good image. I'm not afraid to express my opinion, but, I'll try and express it respectfully. Honesty and politeness are of the essence, and I think that this would be a perfect reflection of the Red Lions on HF. Ultimately, if I were to dishonor the 'code of honor' for being high quality, I would remove myself from the group altogether. I'm not going to shove things down your throat, that I'm a high quality I33t in a world of meanie ub3rs, while it has some truth to it, I like to believe that this site is a good reflection of who I am as a person. I'm not goodie two-shoes, either, I do have some 'enemies' or simply people that I dislike, but I would hold to the utmost of importance not to let my feuds get in the way of the group's reputation. At the end of the day, I think that the purpose of such a group is to help the community, make it pleasant and nice for everyone who wishes to participate in it. I try my best to help new users, end discrimination against reg. members and I33ts, I try to stand up for what I feel is right, and at the end of the day, I think that this is what matters, and that doing it in an honest and polite way is the way to go about it. As a Red Lions member, I would showcase the spirit of hospitality that the group may want to express, as I always have.

Alas, it is worth noting that I have never had a scam report on me. That's right. I have never scammed, or assisted in scamming, or had anyone complain about the legitimacy of my business on this place. I have always dealt with honesty and genuinely trying to be fair to all sides of my deals. I won't get people I barely know to 'vouch' for me, everything I have achieved here is the fruit of my hard work. And I think that this is a perfect example of how high quality a user can be, or rather, SHOULD be. I understand that Red Lions users should set an example for other users, and as a Red Lions user, I would give it much, much more (positive) public exposure and try my best to give it even better of a name.

Ultimately, though, the choice is all yours, and I appreciate your consideration.

How much time can you devote towards group activities: I'm in college, I do have free time though, I should be able to participate in group activities frequently.

Name: Obli (I give my real name to close friends of mine)

Age: In my twenties.

Country/State: Canada, in Québec.

In one paragraph, describe your personality: I would say that I am a shy yet witty individual. I try to stay respectful and modest at all times, while also remaining impartial to overtly open friendships and circlejerks. I like to think that I am a person of my own, shaped by my own actions, and not the actions of others. I rarely get personal on issues, but when I do, I get immensely emotional without expressing it. I am cool-headed, able to handle stressful situations with ease, I like to think that I can play a leader role in society and overcome insecurities if such is needed. I am good with my friends, and I like to stay away from negative people altogether. I am very passionate about topics such as love, respect, and I am a very honorific person, I honor as much as I would appreciate being honored in a similar fashion.

What are some of your skills?:

The only thing I could offer is my skill in Design. I do not claim to be the best, but I do feel like my skills are adequate. I still do a lot of practices and I never stop enhancing my skills.

How can you contribute to the group?:

Seeing as most of my time are spent on designing, it probably is the only thing I could offer for now.

Links to any contributions(Giveaways do not count):

If you consider Group Graphics as contributions, then I've designed quite a bit over the past few months. There are currently 7 groups wearing my designs, I've made more for some of their predecessor. Other than that, I do not recall anything else besides the occasional requests for tutorials or help in terms of design.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section):

I see this group as something very different than all other groups in this forum. There is passion in maintaining what you are despite what change has come to the others. I see resolve and pride in what you are in this group. I do not see this group as a means to increase status, rather, I see this as a group of individuals, hand picked for being what they are in their field. I do hope to be part of this , not only for its name, but for the individuals part of it and the activities that are exclusive in it.

There is a certain kind passion that I could not resist. The kind that makes one unique, original-the kind that separates one from the herd in the eyes of those who seek it.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

I've been to many groups, I haven't been part of many activities or rather didn't get to participate in long term ones. It would be refreshing to be able to do so seeing as I do not have a tenacious schedule yet. I think I would be able to put in a valuable amount of time for it.

In one paragraph, describe your personality:

I could probably say that I am an honest person without lying. Probably. I try to avoid any kind of conflict be it physical or vocal. I do however, love to debate and discuss. I can easily socialize but I prefer not to most of the time. I only take interest of people who takes guts to approach me even with my 'intimidating' appearance. Over the net however, since not many could see me, I am very easy to approach. I value logic but I embrace the abstract nature of the 'unknown' solely for the sake of art.

What are some of your skills?:Site Knowledge: Over my 5 years on Hack Forums I've learned a lot about how the site operates. I have spent the time learning all the rules in the Help Docs, and would consider myself to know them pretty well by now. I like to contribute to this site knowledge in the Rules, News, Announcements, and Feedback section of the site, and I think these posts show my knowledge. To go along with this, I also have over 1,000 reported posts as of now which I feel again shows knowledge of the site.

Writing: From my time working on the Hack Forums wiki team I learned a lot about my writing and grammar. I feel that it is pretty good, but obviously not perfect, and something that can always been improved on. I think what my time working on the Hack Forums Wiki does show however is that I'm competent in writing articles, and proof reading them which can be a valuable asset to have.

Basic Computer Science Knowledge & Basic Computer Security: I'm currently enrolled in my third year of a Computer Forensics and Security course at college(university in some countries). From this I learned a lot about the basics of Computers which involved simple things ranging from binary to computer architecture. Since it is a Computer Forensics and Security course, I have also got an understanding on Computer Forensics, and more so on Computer Security. In this course, I have also spent 2 years learning the programming language Java which may be very helpful in my future endeavors.

Easy to get along with: I don't know if you can consider this a skill as such, but I feel like it is very relevant when applying for a group, and I think it's something that I'm good at. I think I'm a friendly, helpful, and nice guy which can be seen in all of my posts throughout the forum. I think this is relevant because if I was to be accepted I would be representing the group, and I feel like I would do so in a good light.

Willing to learn: Right now I'm on this forum to learn, and I think it is a skill that some people can lack at times. If there's something that I need to know I am always willing to learn it. One of my favorite things to do in life is to learn something new, and it's something that I'm always doing.

How can you contribute to the group?:

I think I can contribute in a lot of ways to the Red Lions. One of these would be activity, right now I'm on summer vacation from college so I'm able to dedicate all my time to this, and I'm willing to be very active in the sub forum, and also the forum in general. I can contribute my knowledge of the rules around the forum, and also the sub forum if that's needed. If there's every any group projects, I'm always willing to contribute to it in whatever way I can. If anything is ever needed from the group I am willing to try my best to try help out, and to go along with that I'm willing to learn beforehand and still help out. From reading the description of what the Red Lions is I feel like I'd fit right in because I love to help members on the site. I think I make good tutorials which I can contribute to the group. Really I'm willing to contribute in anyway that the group needs me to, and I will not have a problem in doing so. I'm always looking to help out on this forum, and I'd love to do so with a group of like-minded individuals. This is a group that I really am willing to be dedicated for if just given a chance.

I'd like to mention that I have wrote over 40 articles on the HF Wiki. I won't link them here, but you can find my name on the past members here. I also have over 1,000 reported posts which in a way is contributing to the site also.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section):

When I first joined the site Red Lions was the only group out of the current groups that was there. I think this shows that Red Lions is more than just an average group, it's something special, and that's something that I want to be a part of. I see Red Lions as the most prestigious group on the forum right now, but I would never join a group on that logic alone. I feel like the group message lines up with a lot of what I do here now. That includes both helping members throughout the forum, and enforcing rules. I'm so glad that there's a group that do this, and that's why I want to join. I think it's pretty clear to see that Red Lions is the most contributing group towards the forum in the past, and today. I feel like being a part of this group would be a great honor for me personally, and a group that would finally feel like home. Usually when I make an application for a group, I do not spend 12 hours on it, but I want this one to be perfect because I know that a chance like this only comes around once in a while. Joining the group really would mean a lot to me.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

Right now I can dedicate as much time as needed, and am willing to dedicate 5 hours+ a day. The reason for this is because it's summer, and I won't be back to college until next month. When I go back, I might have less time to dedicate, but I would still be able to manage whatever is required of me.

In one paragraph, describe your personality: I would say that I am a hardworking, loyal, and dedicated person. I think I'm easy to get along with, and never really fall out with anyone. I would consider myself quite chilled out, and someone who is willing to go with the flow. Along with this, I'm always a person who is trying to learn new things, and get better as a person. One of my biggest flaws I would say is that I sometimes struggle to hold conversations with people face-to-face. With everything I do, I aim to try do to the best of my abilities.

In one paragraph, describe your personality: I strive to improve myself in any way possible so I always give 100%. I'm an extremely competitive person, but I don't let losses drag me down. The key to success is going through failure without loss of enthusiasm. I'm someone who loves to joke around and I'm very playful, but when it's time to get my job done I don't play around. I know where to draw lines that I won't let people cross. Seeing others improve and collaborating with them in doing so is a pleasure to me. I think being humble is something that's necessary in order to reach your ultimate potential, that's why I always tell people that the difference between confidence and arrogance is that being confident means knowing you're good enough and strive to improve, and being arrogant is thinking you're better than others.

What are some of your skills?:

Dating - I've done cold approach pickup for well over a year now. I struggled with social anxiety in the past, but by doing cold approach I overcame that and changed my whole life. I know a lot about relationships, how attraction works and have most of the answers to questions people have related to dating. I provide this knowledge in a unique way in the Innuendo forum. If this description seems vague, take a look at my contributions below and you'll understand.

Innuendo - Part of the previous description.

Pickup - Part of the previous description.

Mental Health - Having suffered from social anxiety and overcoming it has taught me a lot about how to face adversity and mental issues. I'm not a professional, but I know my way around the subject.

Self-improvement - My daily goal is to improve. I will never go to bed without having improved in at least one way. This includes, but is not limited to my body, finances, spirituality, wisdom or romantic life.

Computing - I led The Brotherhood's White Hat Help division for a while when it was still in existence. I was in the middle of a BleepingComputer course as well, but didn't finish it because I found my real passion in life.

Writing - I'm part of the HFNT as an On-Call writer.

Music - I've played piano since the age of 7 and I write music (rap & R&B) myself. I can also produce music, but I wouldn't list that as a skill yet since I'm not satisfied with the results to this point. That'll change soon though.

Fitness - I take my physique very seriously and see the gym as a way to fuel my ambition to improve. It's extremely rewarding and fun to see yourself lifting more weight every year.

How can you contribute to the group?:

Red Lions is a group that recruits the most capable members of the forum and makes sure that they improve even more. As someone who's always looking to improve himself I'd contribute time and knowledge. My field of specialization isn't something a lot of people really specialize in on this forum. My road in life has been very different compared to the average Hack Forums user because the last 2-3 years of my life focused solely on socializing, dating and self-improvement. Due to this I gained an immense amount of knowledge and reference experience which I use to help others who are struggling with innuendo-related problems or mental health issues. Anyone can give relationship advice, but I'm not exaggerating when I'm saying that it hasn't been done before with the passion and intensity I put into my craft. I actually care about the well being of others and find it satisfying to help them grow as a person. Because of this I'm able to contribute as much as I can because it's for the sake of others, and not just solely myself.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section):

As I mentioned before, I'm someone who strives to improve every day. This mainly focuses on my real life, but since I went through situations that others are experiencing right now I'm still on here simply to help them. The ancient Kybalion states that all knowledge must be used to take action with. Since I've learned a lot about innuendo, I see it as my task to spread my knowledge. I want to join to improve my quality as an overall member of Hack Forums. Red Lions is a prestigious group, and I believe it to be prestigious for a reason; the group produces quality members. I wouldn't say I'm "better" than anyone else on this thread, but I do feel qualified to be a member of Red Lions. I take my work very seriously and I dedicate a lot of time into my passion to make sure it meets the standard I set for myself. Red Lions is about improving and being an example for others, which both fit me. I'm willing to help the group members and forum members with any problem they may have if I'm capable of solving it. I'm very aware of the forum rules (mainly because of my time in Archive) which in turn allows me to guide newer users through the site in a very natural way. I want to be part of something greater that benefits the forum.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

All of my online time. As you can see I've put a lot of time into my craft and I will continue to do so. I reserve time to be able to browse on HF to help others, so inactivity won't be a problem if accepted. As long as I'm needed, I'll be there.

MaxCrypto's Application -- Red Lions

A bit about me:

Name: Alex

Age: 21

Country/State: New Zealand (always traveling though)

In one paragraph, describe your personality: I would describe myself as an easy-to-approach and professional user. I do my best to maintain a high quality standard in my posting, and do the best I can to help someone when they're in need.

Rate your grammar, on a scale from 1-10: 9...while I think it is somewhat flawless, I can never be to sure ;)

What are some of your skills?

I specilize in many areas, some more than others. Below, ranked in order of most knowledge to least, as my most notable skills.

Crypto Currency

I've been working with Crypto Currency for over 3 years. Trading, working with various software/hardware projects as well as many finance related services. This is by far my most profound skill in my set.

Crypto/Fiat Trading

A rather recent (1-2 years) skill acquired, but I've been focusing very much on this area in the last years and have yielded extremely high profit, and taken on many ventures thanks to this skill.

CPA

After operating and assisting other owners with running GPT related/CPA based sites, working with CPAs is another trick on my sleeve.

Design

While not as good as those offering their high quality services on the forum, I have worked my way around the basics of photoshop, and working up design assets has been a skill I have maintained over the last few years.

General business operation and conduction

While not being a material skill, I've ran many businesses in my time on the web, and its safe to say that operating a business and conducting business is a fortè of mine. I'm good with people, and all about smooth and productive business.

How can you contribute to the group?

I'm happy to contribute both materially and non-materially. I am always willing to share my knowledge in the form of tutorials, and also always to share wealth when projects pay off or good opportunities are taken advantage of.

Links to Contributions

Most of my contributions are in the form of answering questions in the crypto currency section. Over one third of my overall posts are from that section alone.

Some of my thread contributions include:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5304115>

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5341904>

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5076499>

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5124682>

Reasons I want to join:

I want to join a prestigious group I know won't sell out in the future, and will have a tight group of members for the duration of my time on HF. Many groups come and go on this forum, I believe that Red Lions will be around for as long as HF lives.

I've seen many members from Red Lions, all follow nokia2mon2's example of generosity in this forum, and I would love to set that standard and display this example to other members of the forum. Whether it be sharing the knowledge that I have, running/hosting giveaways or simply contributing to other threads involved with Red Lions.

How much time can I contribute to group activities:

1-2 hours daily. Depending on the activities and how relative they are to me and/or my skillsets.

Look forward to hearing about the status of my application! Also, best of luck to other applicants :)

Kevin?? - August 1, 2016, 7:12 am

Anyways good luck to all applicants, glad to see that you are hiring some members and I'm pretty sure that you will pick the eligible ones to have a spot in the group.

What are some of your skills?:

My skills vary in the field of private investigation. I am very proficient (over-used word & bragging which I dis-like to do) in investigation, such as doxing. I own the site - www.webinvestigations.org which along with running the top investigative/doxing/de-tracing service on this site (which is based off of the success).

Along with regular private investigation/doxing talents, I am also very good at de-tracing/data-removal. That would be securing one's private/personal information from other entities. Along with all of this, Social Engineering/various forms of hacking are also among my skills. Feel free to ask me questions on specifics.

How can you contribute to the group?:

I can contribute to the group in anyway you request that coordinates in my field of expertise. You may have an idea, and I will certainly put that idea to work. Some ideas would be (Private Investigation/Doxing Tutorials which can branch into more than 20 different tutorials as there are many specific methods to go over, De-Tracing/Data Removal Tutorials, Doxing/PI helpdesks) these are just a few of the many although what I listed would make over 40+ tutorials possible.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section):

This group definitely intrigues me, and this group is one of the few groups left that can actually make an impact on this community and take leadership. Groups have started to decline, I'm sure you can tell by looking at groups today. However, RL has maintained a level of prestige, which no other group maintains. RL has leaders, and members around the community that everyone sees as "leaders" of this community. Every member of RL makes a positive impact on this community, such as the majority of other members of other groups do not. RL has continued to maintain the "Hqness" that groups once held a while back. You can say RL is the last group of it's generation. I want to continue this tradition, and add to the leader-ship/"hqness" aspects of this group. To further these aspects of the group, continue to bring out the positive aspects RL holds above all other groups and continue to allow RL to strive and be the group that sets an example and sets the bar for all other groups/members to follow. Hopefully, I can help with this, and I love the aspect of which I described that RL maintains.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

I'm available by skype/other contact methods from 7AM-12PM. I can devote basically, all this time to group activities. Although, I'm sure not that much time is needed.

In one paragraph, describe your personality:

I'll describe my personality with a mix of what I believe, and what I've heard others say about me.

I'm out-going, and always enjoy complex/organized discussion. Contrary, I do dis-like "blame/trolling" arguments, those quite annoy me. Along with those sense of people, I tend to dis-like, however I do always give everyone a chance. I enjoy having sophisticated conversations, on a various of topics whatever it be. Especially, Social/Science based discussions. I love to learn new things, and expand my knowledge, weither it be bow-hunting, or something computer based (xss scripting/pentesting). You'll find (hopefully) I tend to always love discussion, down to meet new people, learn new things and of-course I love to answer questions based in my field of talent. I love to help beginners learn, and to see their progress over-time is very rewarding actually. One of the main reasons I do private investigation mentoring. You can say I'm a teacher of sorts, and I do enjoy leading (hence me taking a leadership role in The Black Hand (anti-scramming group apart of Null). Hopefully, this is a personality type that would well-fit into Red Lions, I would love to meet new people and get to know you guys. Hopefully it's likewise for you guys.

Rate your grammar, on a scale from 1-10:

I believe my grammar is a fairly strong 9, maybe even a 10. Grammar is a strong-suit of mine and my application should show this trait quite strongly.

What are some of your skills?: Writing, Social Engineering, Marketing, and Advertisement.

How can you contribute to the group?: I have nearly four years of experience writing at a collegiate level at one of the best universities in the country. I'll be able to proofread and edit any material that a member would seek to publish or help them rewrite a new one. The only "hacking" related skill I have is eWhoring. I've given a lot to the community since quitting awhile ago. I would consider myself to be one of the best and can offer a lot of insight to anyone that wants to learn the ropes. In terms of marketing and advertisement, I have a lot of real life experience. I work with my mom in the prestigious interior design business. Since taking over marketing and advertisement for her business, sales from our most popular line have went up ~20% ($90k). That's just one line. Our numbers have been steadily rising across the board since I started working with her. I also have always worked to keep the site a safer place and call out scammers in the deal disputes section regardless of their reputation. With a team of dedicated members like those in Red Lions, I feel that I will definitely keep the marketplace a safer space to be.

Links to any contributions(Giveaways do not count): Most of my contributions are in the eWhore section. I would consider myself an eWhore guru/innovator. I often think of methods and teach people to execute them free of charge! I brought gay eWhoring to HF and now it has been popularized by quite a few people. If you look at my reputation, most of it is from the help I give to novice eWhores. I am also part of the Writers group and cover gaming news. I have had a series of unfortunate events in my personal life, but I have not missed an issue that I didn't give notice for. Before becoming part of Writers, I was part of Anime Adventures Weekly Bulletin. I also covered gaming news there for ~15 issues before the bulletin was discontinued. Forgetting threads made by me, I am always posting in the Deals Dispute section and left a link to a thread I was a part of for quite awhile to showcase how resolute I am in ensuring scammers are exposed. I cannot stand scammers and do everything within my power to keep them from taking advantage of innocent members.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section): I want to join because I look up to a lot of the members that are part of the group and I want to help make HF a safer place. Members in Red Lion are highly respected and honorable. They give back to the community and don't expect anything in return. I feel like I would be a great addition to the group because my main goal on Hack Forums has been to give back and make the community safer and more welcoming without expecting anything in return. Given my reputation during my time on Hack Forums, I believe that I exemplify what it means to be a Red Lion.

How much time can you devote towards group activities: I spend at least 2-3 consecutive hours online a day and check Hack Forums during that time. When school starts up, I'll be spending much more time online.

Name: Buffy

Age: 22

Country/State: Massachusetts, USA.

In one paragraph, describe your personality: I'm a 22 year old student pursuing a PhD in clinical psychology so that I can develop the skills and knowledge necessary to aid survivors of sexual violence. I think that gives you a good idea of my character. I believe in selflessness and helping those less fortunate. I'm hardworking. I've made great strides in every facet of my life and I plan to continue on the path towards personal and objective success. I don't give up. I'm unwavering and strong willed. Despite any odds, I will rise to any occasion and succeed. In contrast, I can also be fairly lighthearted. I enjoy laughing and letting loose to just have a good time. In short, I'm a very healthy balance of serious intellect and sardonic humor.

Spoiler (Click to View)

What are some of your skills?

I specilize in many areas, some more than others. Below, ranked in order of most knowledge to least, as my most notable skills.

Crypto Currency

I've been working with Crypto Currency for over 3 years. Trading, working with various software/hardware projects as well as many finance related services. This is by far my most profound skill in my set.

Crypto/Fiat Trading

A rather recent (1-2 years) skill acquired, but I've been focusing very much on this area in the last years and have yielded extremely high profit, and taken on many ventures thanks to this skill.

CPA

After operating and assisting other owners with running GPT related/CPA based sites, working with CPAs is another trick on my sleeve.

Design

While not as good as those offering their high quality services on the forum, I have worked my way around the basics of photoshop, and working up design assets has been a skill I have maintained over the last few years.

General business operation and conduction

While not being a material skill, I've ran many businesses in my time on the web, and its safe to say that operating a business and conducting business is a fortè of mine. I'm good with people, and all about smooth and productive business.

How can you contribute to the group?

I'm happy to contribute both materially and non-materially. I am always willing to share my knowledge in the form of tutorials, and also always to share wealth when projects pay off or good opportunities are taken advantage of.

Links to Contributions

Most of my contributions are in the form of answering questions in the crypto currency section. Over one third of my overall posts are from that section alone.

Some of my thread contributions include:

Reasons I want to join:

I want to join a prestigious group I know won't sell out in the future, and will have a tight group of members for the duration of my time on HF. Many groups come and go on this forum, I believe that Red Lions will be around for as long as HF lives.

I've seen many members from Red Lions, all follow nokia2mon2's example of generosity in this forum, and I would love to set that standard and display this example to other members of the forum. Whether it be sharing the knowledge that I have, running/hosting giveaways or simply contributing to other threads involved with Red Lions.

How much time can I contribute to group activities:

1-2 hours daily. Depending on the activities and how relative they are to me and/or my skillsets.

Look forward to hearing about the status of my application! Also, best of luck to other applicants :)

too.

- Psychological Wellness Provider
- Entrepreneur - Marketing / Advertising Background
- Computer Hardware / Software Savvy, Intermediate Coder (Word, Excel, PP, Some Python, Some Java etc.)
- Graphics Design & Video Editing/Streaming - (Photoshop, Sony Vegas, OBS etc.)

How can you contribute to the group?: With the experience that I have obtained in the medical field I have learned how to communicate with people in their roughest times as well as their greatest days. I would like to contribute more to the group by sharing any of my knowledge listed previously to other members.

Links to any contributions(Giveaways do not count): I unfortunately no longer have links that show proof of my contributions via. threads anymore. A few Minecraft guides back in '12 and a malware prevention guide. (I've idiotically junked many of my threads previously) I'm currently working on some new money making guides that will actually benefit users. It's just taking some time to format everything into proper e-Book etiquette.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section): Like many others here, I've wanted a chance to prove my worth as a Red Lion. It will be 5 years tomorrow since I've joined HF. I would like to say that I was able to be apart of one of the longest standing and most contributory groups we have here. I don't remember the name, but an old Red Lion / HJT member was the reason I began some "White Hat" work.

How much time can you devote towards group activities: Right now I'm currently only on call and working a side job from home, so I will be available for 90% of the group meetings. I will also be actively posting information that can benefit the group as I (and moderators of course) see fit.

In one paragraph, describe your personality: My personality is vast, but I'm a very outgoing and caring type of person. I like to make people smile and laugh, I'm a great story teller and try to share life experiences with others when I can. I ALWAYS have an ear to listen and talk about personal life. (Being an EMT / Psych Tech has taught me how valuable just having someone to talk to can be) I have a no nonsense attitude when it comes to business or getting a job done. I am very quick to come with the truth as well. I'm a very fact driven person, so I enjoy well placed and rational debates. I try and eat healthy to keep a fresh body and mind, as well as meditate from time to time.

Rate your grammar, on a scale from 1-10: I'm no expert on grammar, but I would rate myself at a 6.5 if that's fair.

All in all thank you for the opportunity with the open recruitment this time around. Good luck to all applicants, hope we all see each other in the near future. ?

What are some of your skills?: I have two degrees, one in information systems and the other in economics. I also love to publicly debate with facts and knowledge without insulting those that insult me. I think it just shows a little class.

How can you contribute to the group?:

I will tell you what I think about a project or candidate without a filter. I believe that's what groups and people need. I don't mean like the DonTron either, I will provide evidence and facts to back up my theories. I want to make Hackforums great again.

Links to any contributions(Giveaways do not count):

I've helped different people with bots as well as debated people in the SRPP section.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section):

This group is the oldest standing on Hackforums. I'd like to be apart of this as I will be able to enjoy and have fun with my group long term. I'm always on Skype with my phone, and can help with project management as I've been involved in a wide array of activities that needed planning.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

It really depends on the time. I just graduated and am currently looking for a job, so right now I would be involved immensely, however when I do recieve a job I can be active before and after work. Probably 2-3 hours a day.

In one paragraph, describe your personality: I consider myself to be blunt, yet honest. In certain circumstances I can come off as extremely arrogant but under this facade I'm actually a quite nice and humble guy who enjoys helping others above all else. If need be, I can become quite confrontational (especially during debates) but never in an overly aggressive manner. This attitude stems from me being an extremely competitive individual. I guess I've sort of developed a competitive mentality from participating in sports for the greater portion of my life. I'm an extrovert with absolutely no filter on what I say and do. As such, I'm an outgoing individual who doesn't mind being in the center of a crowd.

Rate your grammar, on a scale from 1-10: I'd say around an 8. I'm not conceited enough to say my grammar is a perfect 10 but I do consider it to be above average. I like to think that my grammar is up to par with my level of education but everyone slips up here and there.

What are some of your skills?: Other than being able to keep a discussion going and writing reviews, I have nothing to brag about. I feel I am a skilled reviewer of movies, television series, music, and some video games. I like to write and I'm very knowledgeable when it comes to the English language. Being a senior CS major in college, I've learned to code well over many years of dedication and practice. Along with learning to code, minoring in CIS has helped me experience the business aspects of the IT industry. I can code efficiently in Java, Python, ASM, C, C++, and C# and I am at least proficient enough to obtain an internship with a one of the most prominent power corporations in the US working with and developing nuclear applications.

How can you contribute to the group?: As said above in the "describe me" paragraph, I'm a fun user to talk to. Being a part of a forum group is very much social based, and whenever I can, I love to have good discussions with members on their beliefs as well as having debates on both common and controversial topics. If members are having any problems, whether it be emotional or physical, I'm more than happy to help them out and try and resolve their problem.

As for my skills, I can only contribute to the best of my own ability and nothing more. As long as I know I am giving the best I can, and if that is still not enough I will be satisfied no matter what occurs. I can also contribute a wide array of knowledge to the group and assist members with everyday problems, as I am a very reliable person.

Links to any contributions: There aren't any threads of my own that I'm particularly proud of (other than threads for particular TV shows where I can enjoy a genuine discussion with fellow members), but I was a dedicated volunteer writer for AA Weekly, a weekly newsletter released to the AA section. Along with volunteer writing, I'm also the technology news writer for the HF News and have been formally since Edition 232.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section): Since the day I registered on Hack Forums Red Lions has always be one of my "goals" to reach on HF. I want to join Red Lions because of the mysteriousness that lurks around your group and how rarely you accept members and I'm truly humbled to have a chance to apply for such a group. One of my main reasons for wanting to joining is to help improve my self and learn from your outstanding member-base to not only help enrich my knowledge but to also broaden it as a whole. I am always up for helping people with whatever they may need and although I probably couldn't bring anything new or unique to the group, I feel I could still be a valuable part of Red Lions as a whole. I'm a down to earth guy than can bring a positive and team mentality into this group. I want to see myself as a member of your family. I wish to be a part of something bigger than myself, I am worthy of the title Red Lion and I will display it as such. I would be proud to call myself a Red Lion, and I hope you will too. Whether getting accepted or not, I think Red Lions as a whole have what it takes to do some cool and different things and I'd love to see where this group goes.

How much time can you devote towards group activities: Unless said activities conflict with school or work, I'm willing to spend a good amount of my time helping with group activities. I usually spend a minimum of four hours online each day. Being the determined and diligent worker that I am, I enjoy helping out on group projects in anyway I can.

In one paragraph, describe your personality:

I think the perfect way to describe my personality would be chilled and relaxed, but serious when need be.

For example, in Skype group chats or even when I'm PMing members randomly on here, it can be seen that I'm just a very laid back person, and those that know me very well know that I'm not cocky or egoistic at all (despite what my behaviour on here may suggest - some of us have our own marketing strategies... word to Omni ;)), and that I don't regard myself as "higher" or "better than" any member on here regardless of their profile.

However, if need be, I can be serious, and this has been seen many times in business conversations off site, where professionalism is key. I like to say I can switch up my personality to fit any particular situation, not just on HF, but in real life as well.

Rate your grammar, on a scale from 1-10:

If I need to form grammatically correct sentences, I guess I would rate my grammar a 10 out of 10. I hardly ever do this on HF though, I don't really see the need for it. However I feel I already form my sentences pretty well, especially considering English isn't even my first language and that I wasn't even born in the UK.

What are some of your skills?:

I have very unique marketing strategies, very risky, but even Omni would be proud of them if I explained them to him. I also dabble here and there in a lot of things, I guess just general knowledge.

How can you contribute to the group?:

I can be the group's official MM, along with Regulus if he would do me the honour of partnering up with me to keep the forum safe from scammers.

Links to any contributions(Giveaways do not count):

Having to type this from my phone, I'm really not able to link anything. I would appreciate it if any reputable member deems any of my threads as contributions they link them for me, or message me the links. Besides, it's up to the community as to what they deem as significant contributions.

However, I really feel as if I keep the community safe, prevent a lot of scamming both on site and off site, have caught a lot of ban evading scammers, and I help any members that comes to me off site with any problems.

I also used to help out quite a bit with Mathematics in the Education Nation SF quite a while ago. I'm starting computer science at university next year, and I would be more than happy to continue helping both with Mathematics in the EN SF again, and contributing some of the knowledge I gain from my course towards the group.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section):

I've always seen Red Lions as the group that even though they don't seem the most active, contribute the most to HF, hence this is the only group application I'm really putting quite some effort into. I've been approached by a few current Red Lions members telling me to apply, so here I am.

I feel I could help contribute by just carrying on doing what I'm doing, trying to prevent scams to the best of my abilities, and just doing my best to help around generally around the forum.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

Hard to say, I can't really specify a time as I don't exactly know what you mean by "group activities", but I'm on HF literally all day, even if I'm away from my PC like I am this whole month, I'll always be on my phone.

[img]http://k.min.us/ixnWAS7QxFeP.gif[/img]

What are some of your skills?:

My main skill is Graphic Designing, not another 'HF thread' designer but a professional who is earning his living from it.

I specialize in Logo designing/Branding and UI designing ,

I have provided visual solutions to more than 300 companies and startups online and in real life. Another skill i preserve is marketing, i have had my hands on CPA/PPI and had success with it.

How can you contribute to the group?:

I can contribute to this great group with my designing skills, I can provide hand-made quality visual solutions.

I can help the community by giving the knowledge and advice on building a brand or identity.

Links to any contributions(Giveaways do not count):

Unfortunately, i don't have any contributions yet, but in my early years 2012-13 , I have provided free graphic work to the community, i cannot link to any posts because i can't really see posts older than 2014.

This group honestly has a sense of responsibility within this forums and If I was around for the years when this group first made contact on these forums I'd have loved to have seen the posting from then.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

I use to be very active within 3 of the groups I was in, over time I either left or the owner re-branded.

1. Phoenix (Was and will always be my home).
2. Nightfall (Regardless of the trash-talking within the group it was alright for the few members I met).
3. Riptide (Can't forget Divined, he showed me a lot with the wide-spread sense of musicians and artists collaborating into the group, the constant up-keep of members made it feel like a home).

What are some of your skills?:

I am a decent coder, I can code in java, PHP, HMTL, CSS and my personal favorite, Python. Because i am currently studying IT, I know my way around with applications like Vsphere, ESXi, VMware and more.

I also know how to work with servers, routers, switches and networks in general.

I have diploma's in Microsoft Word, Microsoft Excel, CCNA and more.

Writing is also one of my skills. I really enjoy writing, which is why i joined the HF writers group.

Other than that i've got decent social skills.

I love helping people out and putting a smile on their faces.

How can you contribute to the group?:

As i mentioned before, i love helping people out, so i would jump at a chance to help people develop their coding skills, or help people get familiar with applications like VMware, Vsphere and more.

I have been contributing to Hack Forums in different ways, such as posting guides, tutorials, and the occasional giveaway and contest.

Aside from that the Red Lions group has it's own goals such as making Hack Forums a better place.

I would love to be part of this, helping the Red Lions group cleaning up Hack Forums and making it a better and safer place.

In one paragraph, describe your personality: I want try and keep everything not only HF related, but outside life related as well. If I had to define my personality by multiple characteristics, it would have to be a weird mixture of laid back, helpful, persistent, observative, loyal, and attentive. The reason for that weird mix? It's what makes me different from others and everyone different from one another. I try to be as helpful on the site as possible while learning as much as I can in areas that I am interested and not being forced off site by some members who can be rude to others who aren't as knowledgeable in areas as they are. I also take the time to meet new people, whether on or off site, out in public or at work, to try and make new friends and not seem so introverted. made their money off of buyins and various other things. Basically I want to rejoin the only group on HF that has stayed constant.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

As much as needed. I know it is a commonly posted answer, but after work and excluding some other activities, I have nothing but free time to devote to the group if needed. I only apply to groups I plan to be active in or are in a field that I am interested in, and seeming as there is nothing on HF that really peaks my interest outside of the sections that I post in, I have nothing but time.

My account became locked because of 2FA issues that Omni took time sorting out, so in turn I was kicked while waiting for Omni to sort out the account issues.

What are some of your skills?: Vector Design, Marketing, Photoshop, Illustrator, PC hardware and I am a great conversationalist. Background in high pressure sales, commissioned sales, retail sales, medical marketing and Mentor/Leadership training.

How can you contribute to the group?: I have a goal of one quality discussion/helpful thread a day. I am great at organizing events, contributing and implementing ideas. Basically I don't let dreams be dreams. (Don't let our memes be dreams).

Links to any contributions(Giveaways do not count): Mostly in the Anime section of this forum, but threads/discussions can easily be translated to other sections. I just enjoy the AA Community.

This week's AA Weekly poll, there is an archive of these located in bottom of the OP.

Anime Adventures Secret Santa, once again, an archive at the bottom of the OP.

AA Recommendation and Resource thread This is the thread that got me the Sticky Man medal.

GFX Resource thread One of my earliest contributions.

A majority of my contributions are located in old official group sub forums I no longer have access to.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section):

Oh boy...

Well to start, Red Lions is one of the more prestigious and historical groups on this forum. Ever since I've started I've almost idolized Red Lions as a group. Back when I first joined, it was invite only. You opening your doors to this form of recruitment is almost a God send for me. Once again referring to my early days, numerous Red Lions members helped me make informed decisions as to how to conduct myself and how to find what I needed within the HF community and I would very much appreciate a way to the return the favor. I'd love to participate in any discussions, events or ideas you have planned within your group and the very thought I being able to fly the Red Lions flag gets me a little giddy.

How much time can you devote towards group activities: My job allows me to monitor HF with almost no interruptions. So long as I can participate while also answering phone calls and doing work from my desk, you've got at least 9 hours a day.

In one paragraph, describe your personality:

My girlfriend says she fell in love with me for my confidence, now she hates it, whether that is good or not is to be determined. I am a very hardworking individual. My work schedule is 6 days a week, at least 9 hours a day. It has been like this for my past two jobs. I am incredibly resourceful, I've been at my current job for just a few months but have already been asked to create guides and tutorials for a program the company has had for at least 6 months. I am a quick learner and I am dedicated. I also have an issue with engrossing myself in certain topics. Once I find an interest that grabs me, I become obsessed with it until I integrate it into my life, or I become so sick of it I drop it for months at a time. These topics include, gaming, digital art, drumming and PC hardware.

This post is in regards to [a thread you made]

What are some of your skills?:

HF experience

Spoiler (Click to View) I have been a leader of Void, Nexus, and Empire. I co-owned Phoenix with Tibit.

If I can remember all of them, some of the previous groups I had been in:

Writ3rs

Illuminati

The Void, Nexus, and L'appel du vide

Complexity/Infamous

The Marketers (before it was awful)

The Brotherhood

Phoenix

Empire

Techsperts

Root (towards the end)

Blackshades

Valor

Rhythm (my second favorite group that I was a part of)

Logic

Terror

Instinct/Nightfall

I like to think of myself as a well-rounded individual when it comes to my skill set. I'm currently enrolled at -pm for uni- (more specifically the engineering college). My major is Computer Science and I may have a minor in math. Not exactly relevant, but, my average GPA is 3.4.

Technical skills/competencies

Programming experience – Java, C++, Python, Javascript, HTML, PHP, and server sided administration. (In the progress of becoming more skilled in these areas. I would say amateur to average level, depending on which programming language).

Miscellaneous skills

I was an audio engineer for one of the larger Baptist churches in the state of Oklahoma last summer, other than that I don't have much intern work yet. I plan to study abroad the upcoming summer to polish up the ole resume before applying for larger internships.

I was the president of the Young Republicans organization at my high school along with being a member of DECA (<http://www.deca.org/about/>). In which my partner and I received 2nd place in state qualifying to go to nationals.

Writing abilities - Ability to efficiently create an organized development plan for just about any subject.

Languages and proficiency levels – English is my main language. I also took two years of Spanish, but I'm not very proficient.

A few of my other interests – Web development, network security, and data security.

How can you contribute to the group?:

Some of the perks of being involved in my communities have helped me grow as a person. I have been involved in multiple leadership programs (including the one at my high school) that have positively impacted my life. Hopefully, if I were to be accepted I could bring that to the table. The most important thing being involved and college have taught me is time management. I would love to get involved in numerous (HF) community-wide events that the Red Lions would hold. I can even help out with the organization of certain projects if that were a needed position. I don't want to say one specific thing because I would love to help out with anything that needed attention. In my times of being HF, one of my more mentionable traits is my ability to market products. When I have something that needs marketing, I don't think of it as just a product. If you truly want to have success in something you must treat that product as a part of yourself. My username, 'iKinky' is my brand. If you have a great product it doesn't matter if your name or your organization has a shady past because no one will trust you or your organization. That is why how the public perceives you is truly important. Of course, you should be yourself and not put on a front for people, but that doesn't mean scamming people or being a complete ass hole to others. With that being said, I would love to help contribute anything to the group's overall image.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section):

One of the more cliché responses to start it off, I have always wanted to be a part of this group from the moment I joined Hackforums. Well, to be more specific I wanted to be Ub3r more than anything and then get into Red Lions. Like many of your other applicants, I have been around the block a few times with numerous groups. I will give what it takes to be a member of this group and to maintain a good image for the group. I would love to contribute anything I am able to prove my loyalty and dedication. Not to sound too arrogant, but I know that if I were to be accepted, you would not regret it.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

Like I said above, I'm very good with time management. I really want to get back into the HF community again and I think this would be my perfect shot with this amazing group. This is the only group left that I have always wanted to be in, and I'm sure you hear that a lot. I have been in quite a few groups, but there is just something about this group and I would like to make it a home. I'm not just throwing out the false statement "I can contribute whatever". I truly mean whatever I wrote above is what I will contribute, and however long that takes is however long it will take. So if I have to contribute 15 hours a week, so be it.

I am a very outgoing person and I hope you be able to see that. I like to live my life in a positive manner. Life is too short to dwell over simple things so I tend to not let things get me down. I would use one term to generalize my personality, laid back. I'm more outgoing in real life than I am online, for some reason. I get bored very easily so I like to take on projects or research various subjects. I am usually the guy who tries to lighten the mood. I'm not a guy who likes drama/conflict, but if a confrontation is needed, I will. I have developed a very hard work ethic and I am proud of that.

How can you contribute to the group?: I can contribute by maintaining the trustworthy reputation and image of the group. I will also help with any of the group activities/projects and hope to increase the activity even more than it is at the moment.

Would just like to add that, these threads aren't the only thing I have contributed to but those are pretty much the ones made by me.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section): Honestly, the first time I came to read about the groups on HF, I wasn't sure if they were really a good thing. I spent most of my time on HF staying in the shadows, lurking. But I realised after I joined my first group that things are done better when there is a whole team behind it who specialise in their respective field and all collectively work together to achieve a larger goal. I will definitely work towards collectively working for the betterment of the group and its already well-established reputation of providing high quality content. I do feel giveaways are good but they should benefit the right person and I don't like to publicise the donations I make just to make myself feel more established. I have made donations amounting to several thousand dollars over time, IRL and online as well. I have probably wasted more with gambling but I have now reduced it by much. I have always wanted to help users although I have not yet found the correct medium to do so. As a member of this forum, I have always felt helpless about the scams that occur everyday on the forum and me being unable to do much. I hope to change this in the near future and make the marketplace, a much better and safer place, for the users/members while abiding by the forum policies/rules. Vampire has given me a chance to apply and although, I have written a brief intro-kinda text about me, I don't suppose you can fully know me (or anybody for that matter) just from reading one post. I would like a chance to prove myself as a worthy addition to the group itself. And to end it, feel free to PM me in case of any queries.

How much time can you devote towards group activities: I can and will devote all of my online time towards group activities plus offline time if required.

Name: TheChief (You want my real name?)

Age: 16, Height- 6 ft 4 inch.

Country/State: India (I will PM the state if needed)

In one paragraph, describe your personality: I would say that I am a friendly and honest person who likes to bond with new people and maintain them. I am, at times, emotional as well which may result in a good/bad outcome depending upon the situation. I love doing teamwork and am not at all greedy/arrogant. I am the type of guy who likes to reach my goal after I set it, no matter what. I have learnt a lot of things during my time online, and one of them is that you never stop learning. Also, I am sorry for leaving this out before as I may have overlooked this part.

Rate your grammar, on a scale from 1-10:I would say 8.

In the end, I would just like to add that, I appreciate that you have taken the time to read through the application and your decision, whatever it may be, is accepted by me. Thank You!

Terror

Instinct/Nightfall

I like to think of myself as a well-rounded individual when it comes to my skill set. I'm currently enrolled at -pm for uni- (more specifically the engineering college). My major is Computer Science and I may have a minor in math. Not exactly relevant, but, my average GPA is 3.4.

Technical skills/competencies

Programming experience – Java, C++, Python, Javascript, HTML, PHP, and server sided administration. (In the progress of becoming more skilled in these areas. I would say amateur to average level, depending on which programming language).

Miscellaneous skills

I was an audio engineer for one of the larger Baptist churches in the state of Oklahoma last summer, other than that I don't have much intern work yet. I plan to study abroad the upcoming summer to polish up the ole resume before applying for larger internships.

I was the president of the Young Republicans organization at my high school along with being a member of DECA (<http://www.deca.org/about/>). In which my partner and I received 2nd place in state qualifying to go to nationals.

Writing abilities - Ability to efficiently create an organized development plan for just about any subject.

Languages and proficiency levels – English is my main language. I also took two years of Spanish, but I'm not very proficient.

A few of my other interests – Web development, network security, and data security.

How can you contribute to the group?:

Some of the perks of being involved in my communities have helped me grow as a person. I have been involved in multiple leadership programs (including the one at my high school) that have positively impacted my life. Hopefully, if I were to be accepted I could bring that to the table. The most important thing being involved and college have taught me is time management. I would love to get involved in numerous (HF) community-wide events that the Red Lions would hold. I can even help out with the organization of certain projects if that were a needed position. I don't want to say one specific thing because I would love to help out with anything that needed attention. In my times of being HF, one of my more mentionable traits is my ability to market products. When I have something that needs marketing, I don't think of it as just a product. If you truly want to have success in something you must treat that product as a part of yourself. My username, 'iKinky' is my brand. If you have a great product it doesn't matter if your name or your organization has a shady past because no one will trust you or your organization. That is why how the public perceives you is truly important. Of course, you should be yourself and not put on a front for people, but that doesn't mean scamming people or being a complete ass hole to others. With that being said, I would love to help contribute anything to the group's overall image.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section):

One of the more cliché responses to start it off, I have always wanted to be a part of this group from the moment I joined Hackforums. Well, to be more specific I wanted to be Ub3r more than anything and then get into Red Lions. Like many of your other applicants, I have been around the block a few times with numerous groups. I will give what it takes to be a member of this group and to maintain a good image for the group. I would love to contribute anything I am able to prove my loyalty and dedication. Not to sound too arrogant, but I know that if I were to be accepted, you would not regret it.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

Like I said above, I'm very good with time management. I really want to get back into the HF community again and I think this would be my perfect shot with this amazing group. This is the only group left that I have always wanted to be in, and I'm sure you hear that a lot. I have been in quite a few groups, but there is just something about this group and I would like to make it a home. I'm not just throwing out the false statement "I can contribute whatever". I truly mean whatever I wrote above is what I will contribute, and however long that takes is however long it will take. So if I have to contribute 15 hours a week, so be it.

In one paragraph, describe your personality:

I am a very outgoing person and I hope you be able to see that. I like to live my life in a positive manner. Life is too short to dwell over simple things so I tend to not let things get me down. I would use one term to generalize my personality, laid back. I'm more outgoing in real life than I am online, for some reason. I get bored very easily so I like to take on projects or research various subjects. I am usually the guy who tries to lighten the mood. I'm not a guy who likes drama/conflict, but if a confrontation is needed, I will. I have developed a very hard work ethic and I am proud of that. It's hard to find people these days that are willing to do what must be done to get something done. I love to have a good time, hopefully we can all have a good time together ;).

I suck at all of them, and I'm still a Red Lion...?

What are some of your skills?: My knowledge cover a wide panel of skills, like: Profesional Web Application Developper (Microsoft Web Developper Certified) with the .NET Framework (ASP.NET / C#)

PHP Developper with great knowledge in OO and frameworks like Laravel

Design Patterns lover (which I tend to abuse of them)

Javascript development (mainly with Framework like AngularJS 1/2 and Backbone)

MongoDB Certified Expert

Project Management (Soon Scrum Master Certified)

And much more...

How can you contribute to the group?: I don't really know how I can be very useful for the group, but I am sure I can enhance even more (if it's possible) the reputation of the group by my activity in the coding section (like PHP, JS, Web development) and with my tutorials and explanation about complex things in some thread. I will also give my best to help anyone with their coding issues, no matter the languages since I'm pretty good for research and quick learning.

I know they are not 5 differents contributions, but I'm not really active to create huge thread, I'm more into answer every question on the board.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section): Since my registration on this board, I have always seen this group as one of the most HQ group on this board, and now that I have one friend inside the group, he confirmed my supposition. This group is filled with HQ members with a very good mentality and personality, not a common group where they are only lounge without any interest or just message where nobody read the previous message and just want to upgrade his post count.

I want to be a part of the most HQ members of this board and I want to be able to help everyone with a more credible situation, I really want to help to enhance the quality of this board and its community by my presence and my activity. This is the main reason of why I want to join you. Also, it would be very nice to find peoples who share the same mentality and behavior as me, and be able to exchange with them without any possible conflict!

How much time can you devote towards group activities: Since I'm a web developer, I'm all day long on the computer, I can be active for the group more than 8 hours a day.

What are some of your skills?: Here's a list; VPN's (Virtual Private Networks)

Stressers

Gaming (Trouble shooting, modifying, set up, etc).

Mental Health Issues (Schizophrenia, Depression, Bi-Polar, Anxiety).

Apple Devices (iPhone's, iPad's, iPod's).

Social Engineering

Music (Instruments, programs, etc)

etc. (Pm me if you want to know more).

How can you contribute to the group?: I can give a lot of my free time (depending on my work schedule, that could vary) toward the group to help with giveaways, tutorials, run a mental health help desk in the groups name, or anything else that you could possibly need help with (even if I'm not that great at whatever it could be, I'm always willing to give it a shot, or learn). Giveaway wise, I can probably donate some money, accounts, etc. Tutorials, I could write a few tutorials, or help other red lions member' that need help with their's.

Can't really link Pm's. I help members via pm.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section): Honestly, I've looked up to the group since the day Omni gave the group to Nokia. It's always been a group that I've seen as helpful to the community, even if it's just with donations (let's be realistic, when nokia and other members of the group come around and donate a large sum of cash to the site / omni, it helps with the servers, and the site itself. I mean if it wasn't for nokia a few years back, I don't think omni would have upgraded the sites servers right away, it probably wouldn't have for a few months or something). I would like to join, so that I can help bring some activity to the group, and help other members (even if they're members of the group). Also, I truly like the group.

How much time can you devote towards group activities: Honestly it depends on my work schedule and what country I am in at the time. If I'm in Canada and my work schedule is kind of slow, I could probably devote 20+ hours a week. If you're looking for a daily amount of time, I could probably do a couple hours a day/night.

I can admit that I'm very rude & edgy at times, but if you factor in my mental health issues (depression, schizophrenia and bi-polar), that is kind of expected. Other than the edginess & my rudeness, I'm a pretty out going, brutally honest, kind, funny. It just takes me a while to get used to people (that's usually why I seem incredibly rude or "edgy").

What are some of your skills?:

Social Engineering, General knowledge of a wide range of current top cyber-security tools, JavaScript full stack development (front and back end), Mongo expertise. Intermediate / good "understanding" of Python, Ruby, Bash shell.

How can you contribute to the group?: I can help develop new tools for the group and review and add to the knowledge base. I'm sure I would be able to suggest revisions to things the group has already created providing helpful insight.

Links to any contributions(Giveaways do not count): My posts (on this site at least) haven't really been that notable. Spoiler (Click to View) I am going to be completely honest and say that at first I was discouraged to write this application since there are MANY members that are more known than me in this forum, but also that I am still a Leet although I hope that this does not affect my chances on this application.

Let me start off by saying that I really endorse what Red Lions are doing which is generally helping the marketplace by removing illegal products, sales trashers and generally help Hackforums have a good image and remove all the "bad components" from it. I myself would love to join Red Lions to support you and help you in these things as I am use you would not mind another pair of hands helping you. When I first joined HackForums I did not really care what happened around me, what did I do or what did I post and I got bored and left. Some months ago I came back and I started being a lot more active than I was and I am trying to help members to the best of my abilities in every section that I know some stuff about.

Red Lions would be a chance for me to "pay back" HackForums for all the good times that it has brought to me. I have met many people here that I am keeping in contact outside of the forums and by joining this group I will meet even more people, which is something that I would like, I have seen some Red Lion members around the forums that I would love to talk to more and get to know. I try to keep a good profile on the forums and be as mature as I can although I admit that rarely I slip up. If I do get to join I will work to the best of my abilities with the rest of the Red Lions to make HackForums a better place, I will try to be more active than I already am and contribute as much as I can.

To sum it all up in the original question of this section, I would love to join the Red Lions because they are a group which I highly support on what they are doing, some day I would love to be apart of them and be one with the "action". I love meeting new people and Red Lions have a few members that I would love to get to know more, I will contribute to the sub-forums and also outside of them. I am mature and professional so I will keep the good image for the Red Lions.

How much time can you devote towards group activities:

I can devote as much as it is needed as I am pretty much all day online.

This is Hackforums, where people pay thousands of dollars to purchase "titles" for usergroups that mean nothing outside of this website.

So the answer to your question is, yes, yes I did.

There is no need to sell yourself to RL leaders.

They want to see a HQ user who takes time into their application and who's dedicated. Not somebody trying to "sell" them self to get into a group by saying stuff they don't even do. Just be yourself.

Nope, as stated many times in the thread, We will not begin to vet candidates until recruitment closes.

skelly76 - August 12, 2016, 9:57 pm

I looked at everyone's apps and I think only two of them have a chance of being accepted, maybe 3. 90% of the people applying don't understand the caliber of members that RL is looking for, so many LQ apps that don't stand a chance as some members mentioned.

Just a tip to everyone, in your skills you should try to be original unlike the "marketers" and "advertisers". How the hell would those skills even serve the purpose of the group?

If you were to look at your app as a leader of RL, would you accept yourself? On top of simply applying you need to have a positive presence on HF. Why put a ton of work into an application if you can assume the outcome, it's not like they're flipping a coin.

My personal vouch is with Mr. Robot, not his application but him as a member of this forum. He is an incredibly kind person who will help any member in any way he knows how. He's of higher quality than some current RL members and he definitely puts way more effort into helping individual members than some RL members combined. Also the fact that he doesn't deal with the marketplace is a godsend, forget the idea of using RL to profit. He would be my first accepted member from this recruitment. Obviously I'm in no way affiliated with RL but that's my take.

skelly76 - August 13, 2016, 2:45 am

Advice for applicants:

- 1) Everyone claiming to contribute knowledge and tutorials after they're accepted should post them now to actually prove yourself to be worth accepting.
- 2) Stop kissing ass for why you should join. Something more along the lines of "I think I would perfectly fit in with RL and its members" is much better than "I've been dreaming of joining RL since

I joined HF because they are the last good group".

Some of you are also posting giveaways as contributions, try to read a little. Don't even get me started on the morons linking stuff they sell. ???

Reason why i want to join : Honestly why i would want to join. Is because this would be by first HF group. And you guys seem like a HQ group don't think anyone in your group has scam reports open. And just wanna be around alot of really cool people . And meet new people . I would love to have people that are there for me. And people to talk to about stuff. And you guy's are a interesting and unique group .hopefully i can get in and join a HQ group as it would be my first. Seems like the perfect change the join such a HQ group .

How much time i can devote : I can devote a ton of time i have a shit load of free time and active everyday on hf & skype. For at least i would say 6 hours if not more . And will do every group active i can .

You're first post on the matter, suggesting applicants take more time with their apps, stop ass kissing so much, and generally take us seriously was a great post. These two posts are going downhill a bit. Very aggressive and you actually made a user remove feel bad enough to remove his app entirely.

If you want to remove it, that's fine... but don't remove it cause someone laid into it. That just shows you can't take criticism.

(Aug 13, 2016 07:53 AM)Confound Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You're being awfully aggressive and judgemental for users who are simply curious and optimistic. Don't you think members of the group should be the ones to ridicule posts and comment on applications? I am sure people appreciate your perspective, as do I, but there is no need to be mean towards members who are just giving it a go. No one's perfect.

My take on his post:

He is trying to show the Red Lions he can think outside the box, his first post even got me good. It was a very subtle approach of publicly displaying your ability to guide the community in a positive direction.

His other two posts were not so positive in nature.

Yes my reply to that users app was a bit "aggressive" but I mean everyone uses their own assumptions when reading a sentence. I didn't mean for it to sound as bad as everyone perceived it, I was only trying to help his app in the end anyway.

I still don't understand how he came to the conclusion to remove his app from what I said. I said that I didn't like his choice of text color and that he has multiple grammar mistakes. That has nothing to do with the content of the application at all so I'm not sure what he was thinking. In hindsight I should've probably PM'd him with my thoughts as well. I'm probably going to apologize rn.

Also I'm not trying to make any impressions on RL since I haven't applied nor planning on it. Just trying to help other members out but I guess it came out a little harsher than planned :P

Sorry to anyone who might see this as me starting an argument but I was simply making a point. Well if you know anything about applications my advice was VERY general and could be applied to every possible application for any position in the world. Because of this general nature of the advice I don't have to be in RL to see that it would improve anyone's application.

If anyone wants to talk more PM me, this is an application thread after all and I didn't plan on my posts even getting reply. :P
