(my opinion) For a while they've been releasing champions that you can't really "outplay" but are just obstacles to play around. For example, Kindred ult, Taric ult, tahn w, Malzahar passive. These things aren't really things that you can outplay or do anything about. They're just obstacles you have to play around and it can be pretty annoying.

With this champ the obstacle is how he can regain so much HP so fast. You pretty much have to play around his passive and be like "OK I got him off his mount, uh oh I don't have enough to burst him before he regains all his HP I better back off".
