WHAT IS DEAD MAY NEVER DIE

The AA weekly poll is back!

Last week's poll results:Results \(Click to View\)I am unable to view the poll results so I am just going to assume we all love traps.

Click for traps! \(Click to View\)

This week's poll is all about resurrection. Does a character coming back to life in an anime enhance the experience? Or is it a cheap way to keep a dead horse kicking?

The question: Do you feel resurrecting a dead character in an anime is tasteful?:When characters are born again, my enjoyment of the series quadruples!

I am excited to see past characters brought back to life.

If done in a realistic and tasteful way, I don't mind dead characters coming back to life.

I feel dead characters should remain dead to solidify the story.

I think all the characters should die.

There you have it guys, your 33rd AA weekly poll!

Poll specs: Feel free to leave a comment saying why you picked the choice you did. Feel free to debate/flame/rate and hate. Poll is public and single choice only. Poll will close in 7 days.

I think resurrecting characters is very tough to do correctly, especially as it can be seen as a cheap plot device.

No way was it 2013 since we had one of these last. It's not been that long since we've had a poll surely?

We've been slacking.

Holy crap....that is a super long time hahaha. It definitely hasn't felt that long.

Code If done in a realistic and tasteful way, I don't mind dead characters coming back to life.

Honestly I don't mind dead characters going back to life if it's done realistically and in a way that fits the Anime. However, I would much rather have these characters "cheat death" in a certain way, than having them die like that (muh feels).

Do you have a compilation of all the last polls? I have a few question ideas that I would like to suggest if they weren't used already!

DrDoof - July 30, 2016, 9:29 am

I don't really see why anyone would mind resurrecting a character if it fits the storyline and doesn't ruin the flow, so the middle option it is!

Chose the middle one just because it could work if done in a way that fits the story GG

DerMensch24 - July 30, 2016, 10:50 am

Would prefer if characters are brought back in a realistic sense rather than some crazy Deus ex Machima event. An example is actually a recent review I saw of SAO Spoiler \(Click to View\) where during the ep where Kirito and Asuna meet Yui and see her die by the hands of another AI, only for Kirito to miraculously code in 3 secs to save her code into a small crystal for Asuna to wear around her neck. Now while when I watched the show I did enjoy SAO, I do like this perspective since the first few eps of the anime showed that there was a consistent theme that you can die, and that threat was prevalent until this point, where the creators guaranteed that the main cast would never be killed. Also the fact that Kirito could code that fast on an operating system he had never had experience with and reroute an entire AI which would be a massive massive file in just a few secs..

But if its central to the story and done right, I usually don't mind.

Thanks for the list Black Hole, I'll be using it for something!

Getsuga - July 30, 2016, 1:57 pm

Death doesnt really mean much in universes like dbz so it makes it the fights less entertaining

DoubleRainbow - July 30, 2016, 3:07 pm

I feel that if the resurrection fits into the overall story, and is not a forced thing for fan service that it is a good thing. Series like Hellsing, DBZ, etc do this well because there are things in the story to allow for resurrection to happen.

Chips Ahoy McCoy - July 30, 2016, 9:21 pm

This is hard for me to decide. If we're talking about dying in more of a mental way, and being "resurrected" with some new personality, I enjoy the fuck out of that. But if we're talking like, DBZ level resurrection, bad.

Aura - July 31, 2016, 9:40 am

Quote:If we're talking about dying in more of a mental way, and being "resurrected" with some new personality

Where would that new personality come from? The experience of having being killed?

Yes. I'm trying to avoid posting any examples due to spoilers though. I have a series in mind which demonstrates this perfectly.

Use the spoiler tags with a warning beforehand and it'll be fine. Name the serie first thought.

Spoiler (Click to View)When Kaneki was tortured, and he accepted his Ghoul self. And, In some way, "Killing" his Human self. If series do that sort of thing, It's really entertaining to me.
