

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Looking for help in finding unreleased songs

MakeMeFun - August 2, 2016, 8:47 pm

Basically i've heard of people getting into music publishing sites (not entirely sure which ones) and finding 'unreleased/unleaked' Lana Del Rey songs. I've been trying for a while and can't figure it out, so I was wondering if you guys knew how to do it? A guy I talked to (who has a lot of the tracks, but won't give the actual songs away to anyone) told me that he didn't get them 'Online'? If anyone does help, I can participate in telling the producers of the songs and the sites the songs are uploaded to which might point a direction as to where you can find them? Hopefully some of you guys get me :P I'd be extremely happy if one if you did offer me help!

Walt Disney™ - August 2, 2016, 8:49 pm

Pretend to be someone big.

Crack a producers Twitter and ask for a track.

MakeMeFun - August 2, 2016, 8:50 pm

(Aug 2, 2016 08:49 PM)Walt Disney™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Pretend to be someone big.

Crack a producers Twitter and ask for a track. Haha, trust me. In the Lana fan base everyone and their mother has tried that! The producers won't be fooled anymore ?

Walt Disney™ - August 2, 2016, 8:53 pm

(Aug 2, 2016 08:50 PM)MakeMeFun Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Haha, trust me. In the Lana fan base everyone and their mother has tried that! The producers won't be fooled anymore ?
They don't need to be fooled.

The Niantic CEO's Twitter password was "nopass". I'm sure one of the producers are just as dumb. Run a password list to check, doesn't hurt to try. That, or find leaked information on them. Leakedsource has a bunch of good info.

Only one way of course. Get famous and become their friend :p

MakeMeFun - August 2, 2016, 8:54 pm

(Aug 2, 2016 08:53 PM)Walt Disney™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) They don't need to be fooled.

The Niantic CEO's Twitter password was "nopass". I'm sure one of the producers are just as dumb. Run a password list to check, doesn't hurt to try. That, or find leaked information on them. Leakedsource has a bunch of good info.

Only one way of course. Get famous and become their friend :p? Thanks for the info! It really means a lot haha, I'll try that right away! ?