Thread: Add allhelp to footer ?

Uploader.sx - August 3, 2016, 2:52 am

A lot of people don't know about the allhelp.php page. What about adding it to the footer?

Just seems like a less formatted version of the Help Docs with maybe a few extra things. Honestly I don't think it is needed as the Help Docs are already serving the same purpose, but others might think otherwise.

You can use CTRL+F and check for a rule. Anw that's off topic, I am just suggesting to make it more public.

Did not even know about this page until this thread.

I agree, no harm in having the link in the footer, as the user mentioned above the upside of using it is that you can CTRL+F to find what you're looking for. Can't do that on the standard Help Docs page.

I wasn't aware that this page even existed, and will be using it in future when I need to look rules up. However there is already a link to the Help Docs in the header, no reason to link it again in the footer. Perhaps adding allhelp to the Help Docs would be useful though.

Allhelp is different from the Help Docs.

I said it should be added to the Help Docs. No need to add it to the footer, since the Help Docs are already available at the top of the page.

It's there in the <https://hackforums.net/extras.php>, I guess it's okay right there. If you want quick access you can use userscripts. Or of course a easier way to go about Help Docs would be using the Help Button near header.
