Let's hear it lads.

This could be a tangible good or even an idea.

Some people have always wanted to find love. Others want a 100-foot yacht.

What would you want?

Going up town, literally 5 minutes walk is a big deal for me. It's a fucking nightmare to have.

But life goes on ?

You mentioned walking a few blocks uptown. That diction sounds like you were referring to the city.

I guess it's my turn to answer my own post. I think if I could have anything right now, it would be 100k that I could then allocate towards a variety of projects/interests that I haven't been able to do thus far. I have wanted to start small websites, small businesses, buy a variety of things, and this amount would allow me to get some of these done in the short term. While I made fun of people who asked for unlimited funds of money, I can't deny it would be helpful in order to achieve some of my more complicated goals.

Let's hear it lads.

This could be a tangible good or even an idea.

Some people have always wanted to find love. Others want a 100-foot yacht.

What would you want?

a gf
