

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Madoka's OST and Rebellion?

Obli - August 4, 2016, 6:35 am

What do you think of Puella Magi Madoka Magica's OST? I thought it was brilliant, and perhaps even more in the Rebellion movie. Also, what were your thoughts on Rebellion?

\(Click to View\) I feel like there's much more of an emphasis on how Homura truly feels with the music that's assigned in Rebellion. Despite having tracks like Inevitabilis in the original anime, tracks like 'Something, everything wrong' strongly make me think of Homura.

Gladly - August 4, 2016, 7:05 am

Madoka's OST was brilliant, although I don't expect much else since Yuki Kajiura composed it. Her and Yoko Kanno are a blessing to the anime industry.

?????? - August 5, 2016, 2:59 am

I have a CD copy of the OST because I loved it so much, Bought it when I was in Japan two years ago. As for Rebellion, I loved the too. The movie was great, and the music too. I have a few other CDs of music that appeared in the movies too. Rebellion ending theme is one of my favourites.

Chips Ahoy McCoy - August 5, 2016, 3:04 am

I've actually yet to see Rebellion, but I did love the OST in Madoka. Very pleasing.