

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Anyone Starting College This Year?

ohxerxe - August 4, 2016, 1:35 pm

I am starting college this year. Pretty excited to be honest. I haven't been in school for almost over one year now. Did Senior year online so been a while.

I just had to take an English placement test which is not my strong suit in anyway. Had to answer a question in essay format and damn It was hard for me. Ended up getting 400 words within 5 Paragraphs so it looked kinda thin ?

I hope I can pass up a class with this test. Welp now off to do a Trig and College Algebra Placement test which will be a piece of cake. ?

PloxSource - August 4, 2016, 1:38 pm

Usually when I start a new course at college, I have to take a literature test and a maths test to see if i qualify. I've seen people get appalling results and still be accepted, truth be told, at my college that doesn't really matter.

I haven't exactly started college this year but for the sake of it, i'll say that i've started a new course for Semester two. I'm now doing the Diploma in Web Development.

What exactly are you studying?

John Watson - August 4, 2016, 1:39 pm

I am going to become a college freshman in a month from now. I am really excited about it, to be honest. I will finally have the chance to find partners to set-up a new tech startup and get $350,000 investment at $3,500,000 valuation

Oh, forgot to mention that I am studying for a Bachelor of Science in Business & Computer Science (dual major).

PloxSource - August 4, 2016, 1:45 pm

(Aug 4, 2016 01:39 PM)John Watson Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I am going to become a college freshman in a month from now. I am really excited about it, to be honest. I will finally have the chance to find partners to set-up a new tech startup and get $350,000 investment at $3,500,000 valuation

Oh, forgot to mention that I am studying for a Bachelor of Science in Business & Computer Science (dual major).

Hook me up. :)

ohxerxe - August 4, 2016, 3:25 pm

(Aug 4, 2016 01:38 PM)PloxSource Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Usually when I start a new course at college, I have to take a literature test and a maths test to see if i qualify. I've seen people get appalling results and still be accepted, truth be told, at my college that doesn't really matter.

I haven't exactly started college this year but for the sake of it, i'll say that i've started a new course for Semester two. I'm now doing the Diploma in Web Development.

What exactly are you studying?

Getting my B.S. In information Systems with a concentration in Cybersecurity