

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: i need a tips to chose anti-virus

ahmedcute - August 7, 2016, 2:33 am

once again i need help , i use windows10 but i never opened my avast antivirus to check my pc out , but it`s the second time that windows10 start menu crashed . i know few steps to fix that but you know . . let the anti-virus do the job . . i would be glad to read your feedback , just tell me which one shoul i use like i said i need something free something dont let things crashing something dont appear alert msgs a lot . . .

shadowgovernment - August 7, 2016, 2:51 am

Kaspersky total security 2016 :D

Tommy Chong- - August 7, 2016, 3:05 am

My personal preference goes to ESET NOD32.
In my experience it's the best out there

DoubleClickBTC - August 7, 2016, 3:08 am

ESED nod32 is the way to go. By far the strongest AV out there and it detects crypter servers very fast

Oval - August 7, 2016, 3:22 am malwarebytes is decent, use linux tho lower chance of getting owned.

M1L3NK0 - August 7, 2016, 3:27 am

ESET NOD32 with Malwarebytes is the way to go.

Ganja - August 7, 2016, 3:50 am malwarebytes is nice.

But virusscanners aren't secure at all (just go and see the crypter-market). Just don't download stupid shit/click stupid links. Or if you want to do those things, use a RDP.

Junx - August 7, 2016, 3:58 am

Kaspersky or ESET and malwarebytes

The rest are trash.

Sogomn - August 7, 2016, 4:10 am

(Aug 7, 2016 03:50 AM)? Royal Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) But virusscanners aren't secure at all (just go and see the crypter-market). Just don't download stupid shit/click stupid links. Or if you want to do those things, use a RDP.

This. Just don't download anything stupid. I haven't used a AV for two years and my PC still runs smooth AF.

Check it with something like Malwarebytes from time to time and you're good. AVs just slow your PC down.

STYLING - August 7, 2016, 4:16 am

(Aug 7, 2016 04:10 AM)Sogomn Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This. Just don't download anything stupid. I haven't used a AV for two years and my PC still runs smooth AF.

Check it with something like Malwarebytes from time to time and you're good. AVs just slow your PC down.

Running 'smooth af' isnt a good indicator that you're not ratted/have a virus. But you do have a point, the best AV is common sense.

To be safe, just get ESET NOD32 + Malwarebytes Anti-Malware.

redlightrouter - August 7, 2016, 4:24 am

On my Windows machine I'm using Kaspersky Total Security 2016, it's pretty good.

ahmedcute - August 7, 2016, 5:26 am

(Aug 7, 2016 04:10 AM)Sogomn Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This. Just don't download anything stupid. I haven't used a AV for two years and my PC still runs smooth AF.

Check it with something like Malwarebytes from time to time and you're good. AVs just slow your PC down.

yes man it slowing it down but the most importantly it dose`t uninstalling , i dont know what to do

Plexcoo - August 7, 2016, 5:54 am

I think BitDefender total security 2016 is just a tad bit better than Kaspersky in general.

BITCHLESS - August 7, 2016, 5:55 am

I'm using 360 Total Security with bitdefender and avira engine

Sogomn - August 7, 2016, 5:55 am

(Aug 7, 2016 04:16 AM)STYLING Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Running 'smooth af' isnt a good indicator that you're not ratted/have a virus.

I also don't have any suspicious outgoing connections and such. That's what I meant by that.

gizbow - August 7, 2016, 5:56 am i heard that security shield is good ;)

ahmedcute - August 7, 2016, 6:09 am

i will show you in video how that sun of bitch dont wnt to uninstall

Donkey Death Jam - August 7, 2016, 6:18 am

ESET NOD32, scan time isn't the best but it's the run time which counts, and they do a damn good job. Can have an impact on your machines performance, if you haven't got a good system at least.

ThisIsCyn - August 7, 2016, 6:20 am

Youll be safe aslong as your not an idiot. I dont have an antivirus

DefiantHF - August 7, 2016, 6:22 am no need to type like this

Malware Bytes is what I would choose.

ahmedcute - August 7, 2016, 6:23 am

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=nLeSoZ51krQ&feature=youtu.be>

Mr. John Smith - August 7, 2016, 8:53 am

Kaspersky total security or Bitdefender total security

ahmedcute - August 7, 2016, 9:29 am

(Aug 7, 2016 08:53 AM)PanFace404 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Kaspersky total security or Bitdefender total security

okey ... i will chose one of it , but after get rid of avast