this is a good read in my opinion, it's got a bit of a heart warming feel 2 it with a very factual outlook to the games current state/ future it's worth the read =]

Interesting read and I think they could open it as a paid service run by themselves or as an addon for the game.

That was actually a really good read and nearly brought a tear to my eye. Jk jk, but still great read and he has a great point. Yang only wants the best and I definitely think Niantic should definitely take into consideration his letter.

i highly agree, i myself used pokevision for that reason and also told myself to only use it until the 3 step glitch was fixed.

I think what PokeVision did was absolutely good for the Pokemon GO community as a whole. Considering PokeVision appeared on the scene right as Niantic disabled tracking Pokemon altogether. Tracking Pokemon is definitely one of my favorite aspects of the game and it is a shame that they removed it instead of fixing the real problem.

This is very heartfelt, I could definitely relate to everything he was saying because I guess in a way, I've been through the exact same thing :/

He didn't have to shut down for them. It was his mistake of doing so.

If they don't want people using "Pokevision", make it impossible for something like that to work.

(Aug 7, 2016 06:54 AM)Twixles Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Eh. Only read half because it started to become a bit dull. Didn't Pokevision just show you all the pokemons close to you? What is the point of the game then? It takes all the excitement out of it, might as well just snipe them at that point. I only played a week legit, but the fun was the excitement from the phone vibrating and checking what it was. If you already knew, then what's the point? I might be wrong as I never used it, but it just seems like the typical cheater trying to redeem himself, I've seen the same kind of letter sooo many times.

It's a social game. People communicate to go find rare pokemon. It's the same concept of Facebook groups. If you don't want to cheat, don't.

Brought a lot of people closer together in my little city, would be great just showing up to random sites and seeing like 10 friends. RIP Pokevision.

I actually completely forgot that it's a social game x.x
