Thread: 5 Years on HF, and my birthday!

Juicy - August 7, 2016, 10:27 pm

Well guys, I just realized that as of two days ago I have been active on hackforums for five years now.

Five. Whole. Years.

And damn, looking back on everything that has happened in the last five years it is truly incredible, and time really does fly. You hear that a lot growing up but looking back on it it was really the blink of an eye.

I have spent 6 months and 1 week on this forum, which is obviously an insane amount of time. Especially to spend on an online forum but it shows the power of connections and what a good community can do.

I was essentially hooked when I first joined the community, made hella posts, did tons of giveaways, and all of that good stuff. Since then my activity has died out a bit due to personal life, but I always make sure im on a few times a week.

Feedback:

Omni, you've done something special with making this site. Any site that can have 3.25 members signed up is incredible, let alone a hacking forum. I am sure many members are impressed by what you have accomplished and strive to do the same when making a forum.

I've been through it all in my time here, RKO'd, banned, all that good stuff. But it still has been an awesome site that I have met some good friends that I still talk to, and for that I thank you. (Site is also sweet for making some cash)

Shoutouts: (No particular order)

- Positive
- Daisy
- Wolves
- Omni
- flossinrod
- Dan
- MrQuickModz (1800block)
- Canada
- Many, many more but I am writing this quickly.

tl;dr - Ive spent 5 years on the site and its been chill - and today is my 19th

Oh, and today is my 19th birthday as of 30 minutes ago :P

For all my old friends out there, my name on here used to be Juicy Booty

How old are you now? I feel like 19 is a pretty old age but I'm honestly just holding out until I'm 21. It sucks that here in the USA you are not supposed to drink until you turn 21.

Do you have any advice for a new user like me? I'm not a complete moron but anything I should look out for?

Thornzzz - August 9, 2016, 2:16 pm

So you joined HF at 14, funny to see how you grow with HF. I joined at 13 now I'm 16.

Just post around and have fun, and eventually buy l33t as it helps a lot
