

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Should all sent Rep be removed if the user is Exiled?

SIM-2914476 - August 11, 2016, 3:01 pm

If the user gets banned (Exiled), Should all of the sent rep be removed (Both Positive and Negative)?

Love to know your guys opinions on this.

May or may not be because of my many rep's from stupid banned users (° ? °)

Mino - August 11, 2016, 3:02 pm

If I'm right exiled is temp closed is perm.

But perm ban rep should be removed tbh

SIM-2914476 - August 11, 2016, 3:04 pm

(Aug 11, 2016 03:02 PM)Mino Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If I'm right exiled is temp closed is perm.

But perm ban rep should be removed tbh

Oh ok - I dont see much bans on here so I wouldnt really know.

But yeah like it makes more sense because lots of people have -rep and +rep from stupid users that eventually get banned for being stupid. People who got rep'd from the banned users shouldnt be penalized for it.

Limit. - August 11, 2016, 3:48 pm

There was going to be a reputation purge but I believe Omniscient had changed his mind or just got caught up in something else as it was announced a while ago.

EDIT: I believe a perma-ban is just a pending closure or the account is under invenstigation, so rather removing exiled members' rep just get rid of the closed members' rep.

Bluffer - August 11, 2016, 3:51 pm

Exiled members? I don't agree with that because they will be back at some point (temp ban).

Closed members? Yes

I think what the reputation system is for is members to express their opinions of another member and if somebody is closed then their opinion on another member is meaningless and should not be taken seriously.

I do think at some point reputation from closed members will be purged, as for as I know Omni still plans to do that but just hasn't said anything recently.

Gary - August 11, 2016, 3:57 pm

(Aug 11, 2016 03:48 PM)Limit. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) There was going to be a reputation purge but I believe Omniscient had changed his mind or just got caught up in something else as it was announced a while ago.

EDIT: I believe a perma-ban is just a pending closure or the account is under invenstigation, so rather removing exiled members' rep just get rid of the closed member's rep.

Yeah I read about that happening. Thought it happened already I guess not.

samsepi01 - August 11, 2016, 4:03 pm

(Aug 11, 2016 03:01 PM)ShinyMK Wrote: CITE If the user gets banned (Exiled), Should all of the sent rep be removed (Both Positive and Negative)?
Love to know your guys opinions on this.

May or may not be because of my many rep's from stupid banned users (° ? °)
You literally have 2 neg reps from banned users and the rest are from active users. Fuck off.

Just because somebody is banned does not necessarily mean their opinion and comments on you are invalid. Unless the rep itself violates policy, the rep should stay from anyone who had/has the permissions to do so.

Sigma - August 11, 2016, 4:05 pm

Lol I think it is funny how he posts this with his rep being that way.

saliva - August 11, 2016, 4:06 pm

No.
The opinions of those that are no longer here are still their opinions.
If you were negged or given a positive by a closed member, it should stay.

SoulZeh - August 11, 2016, 4:09 pm

Well I don't think this should be done, as to members who's scammed or whatever and someone leaves a reputation on someone then there account gets closed/exiled and the rep gets removed, would be so pointless.

Gary - August 11, 2016, 4:10 pm

negative reputation left by closed accounts was gonna be removed. I think that's what Omni said.

Ceanko - August 11, 2016, 4:20 pm

I think the rep should stay, but just not be counted (positive and negative alike). If a closed account has a reputation on you proving you scammed why should the system benefit people like that? Reputation is meant for opinions and obviously it isn't only used for that. Negatives are a clear community alert sometimes. Even on closed accounts.

Limit. - August 11, 2016, 4:22 pm

Here's the thread regarding it if anyone was curious:
<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4968134>

I'm probably going to stay neutral, while there are reputations which hold value and could be of good use to other members, there are also reputations which hold no value and are completely useless (such as troll reputations).

minimalist - August 11, 2016, 4:23 pm

The reputation purge from closed members will be happening after Omniscient upgrades the forum to MyBB version 1.8x. Whenever that happens, I don't know. Hopefully soon.

Submit. - August 11, 2016, 4:23 pm

I was -3 by Magician for saying "Users account might be compromised DWC" ends up he was on a scamming spree I was -3 for saying that. Then he gets banned shortly after. Kinda stupid imo.

Confound - August 11, 2016, 4:35 pm

I am curious to see if Omni decides to continue with his purging plans. Would be interesting to see the outcome of this.

?XiS - August 11, 2016, 4:37 pm

They should remain as long as they're valid or warning the community. I've seen it for myself, if a member has troll negative left on him by closed members, Omni sometimes removes them.

minimalist - August 11, 2016, 4:42 pm

(Aug 11, 2016 04:35 PM)Confound Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I am curious to see if Omni decides to continue with his purging plans. Would be interesting to see the outcome of this.

It will happen, he's just busy.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5082180&pid=48831365#pid48831365>

A + - August 11, 2016, 4:50 pm

I don't really think so. For whatever reason you earned the positive or negative rep, it still holds value, regardless if the user is exiled or not. If it's rep abuse, then you could just report it. A purge seems necessary once every year or two, but other than that the current system seems like it holds its own.

Talu - August 12, 2016, 1:08 pm

That would make the rep system pointless. Almost every user gets temp-banned (exiled) for whatever reason; if all their given reps were removed, then pretty much everyone's rep would be on 0.