

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: SQLi Vulns!?!?

ColbzigotdaHax - August 16, 2016, 7:56 am

I'm new to the whole injection scene usually I'm about nets and RATing but shying away from all that and getting more into website hacking. Where can I find sites that HAVENT been jacked already and that are SQLi injectable. All the ones I found off google are used...

Gardener Jim - August 16, 2016, 1:55 pm

Quote:Where can I find sites that HAVENT been jacked already and that are SQLi injectable. All I can suggest is to use google dorks and find them yourself. Any site's posted will have a good chance of being fkt with....good luck tho...

Jim

iStealBoatz - August 16, 2016, 2:06 pm

Google: php?id= , when you have done that look for the sites with that at the end of the URL and click on the site and when you've loaded it put a " ' " at the end to see if the site has any errors and if it does, its vulnerable. good luck.

r421x0 - August 16, 2016, 11:38 pm

Look for sites with a parameter like this:

?id=[number] & place a ' next to the end of it.

So... Google.com/cocksdsf.php?id=3'

If it returns with a "SQL" error, it's probably vulnerable. If not... try other methods.

Create your own dorks. Here are some examples, get creative.

- Code specials.php?cid=

masks.php?id=

icing.php?id=

breaks.php?id=

news.php?article_id=

ColbzigotdaHax - August 17, 2016, 5:41 am

Thank you guys.....