Thread: Stay Safe when Botting ~ Recommended Config Setup

supercarz1991 - August 18, 2016, 1:16 pm

This is my recommendation when setting up a bot. I've been botting all week with this, my account is level 30 and haven't even had a soft ban yet.

If you would like the bot I'm talking about, there's a cracked version at the link below

Enjoy guys!

TL;DR (or TL;DW) Text based quick info

Don't move too quickly. I stay at a max speed of about 10KM/H (which is about 6.6 mph for the american idiots who can't convert)

Don't Snipe (Period)

Large time periods between movement from one pokestop to another (Make sure its similar to the amount of time it normally takes to swipe a poke stop)

Large time periods between catching one pokemon before another (again, same thing as above, think about how long it normally takes)

IF you Do Snipe

Large chunks of time in between sniping attempts (I have mine set to 420 seconds because memes)

Recommendation to Larger Bot Makers

Randomize the Timers a bit. This will make for less detection. If someone sets up a bot to have 100 seconds between sniping attempts, randomize that a bit. Make it 100 minimum, 110 maximum or something. That way its not exact, and it'll be 101 once, but next it'll be 105, then 107, then 103, etc. Its not hard to code a random number generator

Those timers apply to other time settings as well.

This is the wrong [lace to post this. Ryan made a sub-forum for cheating and botting the game. Post it there and have someone delete this.
