

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: No PokeStop Found?

.Astro - August 19, 2016, 12:50 am

Anyone else having this error? Thought it was a server error only to find out it wasn't. Would a simple proxy change work? If so, where would you recommend getting working proxies? Any other ideas on how to prevent this? I can only bot like 1 account for like 10 minutes. The walking speed is 5km.

GSMXEX - August 19, 2016, 3:09 am

Yeah, I had the error as well. I fixed it by updating the bot.

NeedScans - August 19, 2016, 3:10 am

(Aug 19, 2016 12:50 AM)inShane Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Anyone else having this error? Thought it was a server error only to find out it wasn't. Would a simple proxy change work? If so, where would you recommend getting working proxies? Any other ideas on how to prevent this? I can only bot like 1 account for like 10 minutes. The walking speed is 5km.

What are the coords you're using? Are you using elevation api to automatically adjust the altitude depending on where you are?

Otherwise if you logged in from your home ip or w.e, logged out, then started botting in a diff location, its probably a 2 hour ban that will be lifted soon.

.Astro - August 19, 2016, 11:01 am

(Aug 19, 2016 03:10 AM)NeedScans Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What are the coords you're using? Are you using elevation api to automatically adjust the altitude depending on where you are?

Otherwise if you logged in from your home ip or w.e, logged out, then started botting in a diff location, its probably a 2 hour ban that will be lifted soon.

SF coords. And not sure, just using the one that bots multiple accounts at once. There is no altitude box to type in so yeah.

Habbo Cracker - August 19, 2016, 11:18 am

You'r IP ban mate restart your router and you should be good.