Whether you own it or wish you did, what's the nicest watch you know/your favorite/dream watch?

Gary - August 20, 2016, 6:42 am

I'm not really watch savvy, but I wanna see some classics being posted here.

spirited_wolf™ - August 20, 2016, 6:47 am

I wish i will get this : Calibre heuer 01 watch ? worth $2,000 something

I personally like the simple white ones, although brown leather is also sexy

Apocryphon - August 20, 2016, 8:47 am

I only like the G shock :)

But this watch is my dream watch atm

thuggerthugger - August 20, 2016, 9:29 am patek philippe, the plain one giorgix13 - August 20, 2016, 9:32 am

I like Jaeger leCoultre man watches . very good quality.

Faith Connors - August 20, 2016, 10:22 am

The one I have now, Timex Expedition. <http://timex.ca/watches/expedition-scout-tw4b01900> < this one specifically. I have a different watch strap on it though.

I don't like huge fancy discs with three other smaller clocks under it, how many times are you actually gonna care about the rest? I want to look down, see the time and day, and this fits my needs perfectly. I've had mine for almost four years now, hasn't fucked up once. I just have to change the day every second month because it always goes up to 31.

It's water resistant too, like extremely.

This one is nice too <

I like it because it has all the features as mine, but the dial on the side is slightly lower, so it's not always stabbing your wrist when you bend your hand upwards.

Rolex 40mm Submariner Stainless Steel Oyster Band Reference 16610 "Bezel Engraved" Black Dial & Bezel, is my personal favorite!

Worth about 6.9k!

The only watch I'll never need.

Also people who spend more than a hundred on a watch are stupid.

Agreed.

Timex makes good watches and they're affordable. Nothing else is needed.

Timex does have some nice looking watches indeed

BR?ND?N - August 20, 2016, 11:50 pm

Not a big watch guy but owning a Rolex would be nice. So I could sell it or keep it as a status symbol. Something about a Rolex says "Yeah I got money, the fuck you gonna do bout it".

Danny Khalifa - August 20, 2016, 11:53 pm

Rolex Day Date II.

That was my dream.

zyvox - August 21, 2016, 9:38 am

True, having a Rolex is cool for status. My friend has one but he never wears it to school etc because, well, we live in Asia and he's afraid of getting jumped lmao

Gamer Fusion - August 21, 2016, 10:44 am

Such irony, my parents work for a watch company called Tag Heuer, and I don't know many watches haha. What a shame.

zyvox - August 21, 2016, 11:21 am

I also have an Apple Watch, or, I did until it facepalmed to the floor and broke. Paying the price of a new watch to fix it not really worth it in my opinion, because I didn't have that much use for it.

Scar?face - August 21, 2016, 11:42 am

Tag Heuer Monaco is my favourite. £4000 to buy one brand new.

Here's a couple of my other favourites though.

Tag Heuer Formula 1 43mm with a Blue, White and Orange striped NATO strap. £1000 to buy one brand new.

Black and Gold Rolex Submariner. £22,900 new.

Spoiler (Click to View)

I want to get one of these sometime soon though hopefully. Seiko sndf87p1 (Not a very good name tbh) but with the strap replaced with a Blue/White/Orange NATO as has been done in the picture.

Costs about £150 for one of these.
