Thread: [.Tutorial> \[BAN ANY SKYPE ACCOUNT\] \[10 EASY STEPS\] \[NOOB-FRIENDLY\] <\[2016\].](#)

Ventriloquism - August 20, 2016, 3:59 pm

Brief Overview

Hello, and welcome! So today I decided to write a guide on how to ban a Skype account. I checked around to see if this method was already posted, and I found nothing. It is an old method, but I still use this today and find it very effective. For those of you who don't know about this, sit back and get ready to learn. Otherwise, if you are already familiar with this, please be sure to read through this tutorial anyway, and possibly give me some things to better clarify on. Thank you, and enjoy ?

Tutorial

Step 1) Create a new Skype account.

You will first need to make a new Skype account. I will explain why you need this later. If you are too lazy to go to Skype's sign-up page, click here ? Keep in mind: the name of your Skype account doesn't matter. You can make it whatever you want for now.

For whatever reason, you may feel uneasy about signing up for Skype using an active email. When in doubt, use the disposable emails I've listed down below:

Code <http://10minutemail.com/>

<http://disposableinbox.com/>

<https://www.guerrillamail.com/>

<https://temp-mail.org/en/>

<http://www.throwawaymail.com/>

Step 2) Change your Skype name

Once that's done, change your Skype display name as the person you want to ban. E.g. if the persons name is "BagOfSwag", you need to go into your Skype settings and change it to the same thing:

Step 3) Change your Avatar

Like the display name, you need to change your profile avatar to the same avatar as your victim. The goal here is to make your Skype look exactly like the victims. There are a couple ways to about this. One way would be to simply screenshot the avatar right off his/her Skype profile, assuming they have one in the first place. When I used this method, I mainly took screenshots of the image since it's much more efficient. A good program to use would be Gyazo. You can download it here if you don't already have it. The instructions to set it up are on Gyazo's download page.

NOTICE: If you're using the screenshot method, skip to step #4

If you want to be really particular, and you want the exact same image the user is using, you can do this directly by using Skype to web. For this you will need to go to Skype's website, and sign in with your main account. Once you've logged in, you'll see this screen displayed here:

Locate, and click the "Try Skype for Web (Beta)" link, and then wait for your page to load. Once it's done signing you in, you will see a GUI much like your Skype application. As usual, go up to the search bar, and search for your victim. When you've found their account, click on their name, and go to their profile. Click their avatar, and you will be able to see their details, and their avatar will appear bigger. Open it in a new tab, and save it.

Step 4) Contact between Skype accounts

At this point you will need to have your secondary account add your primary account. Note: It's crucial that it's done in that order.

Step 5) Begin an abusive Convo

Now we need to have an abusive conversation between both accounts. For this to be more efficient, you may want to utilize two devices for contact to minimize having to sign in-and-out of accounts. An example of an abusive conversation can be found: here.

Step 6) Screenshot Skype details

This step is a bit tricky. You will need to screenshot your secondary Skype's details right next to your actual victims profile. To do this, you look up the victims Skype account (via your Skype app) in the search bar. Go to their profile. Click somewhere on his/her avatar or name bar, and a contact detail window will pop up. Once it's open, you click back to the abusive chat between your fake accounts, and screenshot the real user's detail window next to the chat. If you did it correctly, it should match up like what's shown below:

Step 7) Report your Victim's Skype account.

Now you need to report your victim's Skype account. First, navigate in your browser to the Skype Support page here. Make sure you are signed in with your primary account. When you are on this page, go the drop down box, and select "Security & Privacy." Now you will be confronted with another drop down box. Select "Spam / Adult Content." Click next, and click "Text Chat Support."

Step 8) Talk with a rep.

A chat window will open, and you will be talking with a representative from Skype. He/she will ask you for your account details, and the email associated with your primary account, ect. Tell him/her you are being harassed, and ask them if there is something that can be done about your victims account. Be sure to tell him/her that this person has been harassing you on other social media as well, and your victim has now moved to Skype. The goal is to sound vulnerable and hurt. The stronger your S.E. game is, the better. Once telling the rep what he/she needs to know, he/she will take the email provided, and will email you a support ticket.

Step 9) Uploading your screenshot.

Here is the easy part. All you need to do now is go to the email sent to you by Skype's support representative, and respond to your ticket. In the ticket they sent you, they will ask for proof that you are being harassed by your victim. Since we already assembled the screenshot in step #6, you simply attach it to the email, and send it off. The ticket should look something like this:

Step 10) Waiting on the Ban

I would like to congratulate you! You have successfully completed all the steps in this tutorial. Now all you have to do is wait for your victim's Skype account to be closed. This can take anywhere from 2 hours, to 48 hours depending on how busy Skype's support is. Once the Skype account is "banned" it will still be in your contacts, and you can still send messages to it. It is technically locked, but will be fully banned and pruned after 30 days. Anyway, thanks for reading ? Be sure to send me a PM if you have any questions.

i vouch for ventriloquism dude is amazing at what he does <3

jahwi - August 20, 2016, 4:20 pm

I'm going to test this out on OP's skype account?

Mavspammer - August 20, 2016, 4:23 pm

Nice tut, Vouch for you anyway

Ventriloquism - August 21, 2016, 5:23 am

Thanks for the responses guys. Lmk if there is anything I should update.

Duelyst - August 21, 2016, 5:30 am

Can't the Skype team check logs on all of that or don't they bother with it and just let it slide?

They don't really bother. I've been doing this for some time and they've never given me any trouble.

K3njii - August 21, 2016, 11:11 am

Nice method, it will definitely help some members in need!

Hacks4lifes - August 22, 2016, 4:02 pm

A really clever method. Does Skype allow the same usernames?

MISHIAN - August 23, 2016, 4:22 am

This works, and have been going on for a pretty long time now.

You mean username or display name?

Username no, but display names yes...and if you send in the correct screenshot like I described, there would be no reason at all to check the actual username. Wouldn't matter at all ?

stabil02 - August 25, 2016, 3:10 am

Good method tbh

Thanks for this

TheCl0wnhelper - August 25, 2016, 6:54 pm

Wait, so does this mean Skype does NOT have logs of every conversation?

DONT USE ROCKETR - August 25, 2016, 7:43 pm

Dope tutorial, thanks for the release!

venetikidd - August 27, 2016, 6:08 am

thanks so much for this, time to get revenge on this girl I know lol

11MaEfIC11 - August 27, 2016, 7:28 pm

Thanks for this, in my experience skype has very shitty security lol.

They honestly do. It's not hard to convince them of things like this.

NetworkSilence - August 28, 2016, 6:22 am

Sick guide. Skype customer support really doesn't give a shit do they? Lol well thanks for the detailed tut

RatHair - August 28, 2016, 8:31 am

Sounds pretty funny I'll try out ty for sharing

You should add a tutorial on how to prevent this being done to your account also. I have a tutorial on it if you'd like me to send you it via PM.

To do what I just explained, or to prevent it from happening?

I'm personally not sure how I'd prevent it. I would assume hiding your Skype avatar from people besides your contact would help your chances. Giving out your Skype as little as possible would be beneficial as well. Idk ? I'll brainstorm a bit.

I have a tutorial on how to prevent it from happening, or at least making it much harder to do so.

Thanks for the feedback guys, enjoy ?

rogerfk - September 3, 2016, 10:15 am

Thanks a lot for the method! Pretty clever, actually. I didn't think Microsoft didn't really check the real convo between you and the real guy, but seeing this I no longer doubt it! Thanks!

TitaniumCreeper - September 3, 2016, 4:04 pm

Wow xD Will try out on a new account :D Wish me luck
