Thread: Stop with the "Looking for any group that'll take me" threads.

illuminati? - August 20, 2016, 6:29 pm

There are lots of these being posted, quit posting them. Just find an official group that's recruiting, and apply on one of their threads. Seriously, It's not hard to click the tab and find a recruitment thread. Groups are recruiting, take the extra time and fill out an application or make your own styled application on their thread. The time that you're using to make a thread stating you're looking for any group that'll take you, you could be using it to make an application.

Demonstrate - August 20, 2016, 6:30 pm

I agree, it's getting very annoying and makes them look desperate.

Ash Ketchum - August 20, 2016, 6:31 pm

Sorry 2 jack your thread but.

Looking for a group 2 inv1t3 me plox

on the real though, i feel like unless your thread is an obvious troll, you'll just get black listed. Plus if you don't put effort into making applications you shouldn't be in a group.

but most just see them as cool userbars sadly >_>

Vegeta - August 20, 2016, 6:32 pm

It does get annoying, definitely agree. Hopefully it will come to a stop!

i love u illu

Roger Waters - August 20, 2016, 6:33 pm

I really hope so. Members need to understand that if they can't take the time to search for a group that shares their interests, it's no use to ask to get invited to a group. Honestly those users are just wanting to join a group for the userbar. I applied to Synergy because I just wanted to talk to people and have more people to play games with. That's exactly what I got and I'm happy with it.

I just ignore those threads when I see them I'd be surprised if one of them actually worked for someone.

On a side not OP your signature I have the exact same design but on a shirt and its in the exact same color that your sig lights up as. Just thought I'd share.

Roger Waters - September 8, 2016, 5:20 am

More people need to see this. These threads are cancer.

Yin Yang - September 8, 2016, 5:22 am

I agree with this thread as well. Your chances of getting in by making a thread are slim to none. Unless if you're offering to pay for a buy in.

Fer? - September 8, 2016, 11:22 am

It never ends up working anyways, if anything it hurts their chances making them seem more LQ like they are.

Agreed.

Heartboy - September 8, 2016, 12:15 pm

Everyone acts like you're so exclusive being in a group...

Since when did being friends with a bunch of fuccbois in a group online give you status anyway?

Since when did being friends with a bunch of fuccbois in a group online give you status anyway? Why are you in 4 groups then "fuccboi" exclusiveness is literally the point of being in a group. Joining a group who have similar interests as you makes it easy for you to be friends with as you have common ground.

nique ta mere - September 9, 2016, 8:31 am

I agree they're beginning to annoy me.
