

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Basics of HTML

Peori0y - August 21, 2016, 9:41 am

Hey,

I'm trying to learn the basics of HTML. And yea I know; I could've used google too.

But I'm wondering if anyone has time ever to answer my questions + recommend me where to start? This is just because I want to learn it on the fastest way :3

Regards,

Faith Connors - August 21, 2016, 10:04 am

Codecademy if you really need hand-holding, although they do a pretty good job at explaining stuff.

W3schools is also good, but less hand-holding and probably uses more advanced terminology with more in-depth explanations.

sausymayo - August 22, 2016, 9:18 pm

I'm actually doing HTML and CSS on Codecademy right now. I HIGHLY recommend it. They give full real lessons that teach you everything you need to know with ease. Good luck :)

Zudux - August 22, 2016, 9:27 pm

Yea and youtube vids if you find the good ones. Codeacademy is nice

Kashmiri Hunter - August 23, 2016, 1:05 am

Search On Youtube for thenewboston Channel, You Will Learn Many Things There. Thanks

Regards !