Are these "real looking" accounts. Or are they literally genuine followers like myself and you following asspics daily?

If they're active followers which retweet your tweets and engage than i'll purchase a million followers for $700 lol.

Well if they're genuine accounts why dont you just make a million follower stat? & sell it for a shit ton?

Can you explain where these real followers are coming from and how exactly they're instant?

Honest review:

I bought ~3k Twitter followers from <http://westpanel.com/> - these are supposedly "real followers" and the incentive is that they offer "verified followers" as well.

On a scale of 1-100% in authenticity, I am going to rate this service a 35-40%. All the other services on HF pass with a 20% score, because they sell bottled accounts that are "made to look real," but this service offers "real accounts." However, this isn't the entire truth. These are the type of followers that are going to be on your profile:

50% - will be default/egg profile picture accounts, and 50% of those are private accounts. These are NOT real accounts, these are just there to inflate your followers number, which is disingenous and should not be included in the sale. Most of these accounts are foreign, meaning they've tweeted 3 times back in 2013 in a foreign language, and that is all. Or the accounts are private. Accounts being private are a trend.

25% - you will get "real" people following you, but they are 33% inactive (some last seen 2013, some 2014), 33% private accounts, and the last 33% are either sort of active, or they are literally tweeting, asking why their accounts are being followed by spam. These are compromised accounts that will at some point unfollow you when they realize their account is compromised. Example below.

20% - are actually bottled accounts, made to look real. Most of these are private, or just plain inactive.

The last 10% are "verified" Twitters that follow you. Yes, this is a big one that the sellers are convincing you with, to make you think the accounts that follow you are real. Some of these verified accounts are either inactive since 2014-2015 (so far as I've seen), or they are active, unaware they are compromised, or--- they are literally tweeting asking why they are following a bunch of spam accounts, or literally tweeting at support because they know they are compromised. See examples below.

Yes, this is one of the verified accounts that follows you, asking for support.

This is one of the few "real" accounts that is actually compromised.

The biggest point that you should know is this: every account that follows you, is following hundreds/thousands of people. These are not genuine followers. This service gets a 35-40% score rating. 35% because they are better than other "fake made to look real" services, and maybe 40% because it is so cheap, so you don't lose much.

Lol you use bots to check shit up mate and say this. My service has a 95% rating all over including panel which has other services as well. Lot of other twitter followers sellers come via noob accounts and try to screw my business over :D so i don't really mind. You just bought a 3K lol so i knew you were some shitty twitter followers seller butthurt about my business. My buyers always comes to me as you see the past reviews. Also if they ain't real why would they tweet thay? What kinda effed up logic is it? So all i got to say is better luck next time tryna screw my business mate. :)

You are an absolute moron for trying to pull off this lie. What point is there for me to lie? You promised real followers, you gave me inactive users, private users, 50% egg profile picture accounts, and compromised verified twitters. All accounts follow hundreds/thousands of other users as well. These aren't real users. I have proven it, and I will continue to prove it. I will provide you with a list of all the egg profiles that have followed the Twitter. You are doubting the script that I use to remove the egg profiles. Why? Because you're trying to save face. Go fuck yourself or I'll advise everyone you're promising real followers, when they are not real at all. I will give anyone the proof they need.

edit: I politely told you that I didn't want a refund, I just simply was disappointed that you lied and said that these are real users. I have so far scanned 1200 default profile/fake/botted/egg picture accounts out of the 3.8k - and I didn't even let the script complete its run. Do you want the whole list? Here is a screenshot of some of the 1200. These are your accounts, you aren't going to lie and avoid this fact.

By the way for anyone who needs it. Here's a script to remove bottled followers.

<http://pastebin.com/raw/aMMt1YPE>

Copy and paste that into the console in your browser while looking at your followers page.

Cyber - August 28, 2016, 12:59 am

If anyone wants to see the followers I got from him feel free.

<https://twitter.com/BTCTOB>

I have a shit ton of blocked egg accounts from him as well.

I am going to say this if you're in need of followers then $7 for 10k isn't too bad but for him to label them as real followers no way in hell would I purchase this. These are 90% egg accounts.
