

Forum: Hack Forums

Thread: Show Past Edits of a Thread

FiftyTwo - August 21, 2016, 5:20 pm

Huge apology if already suggested.

I was thinking of there being a feature where you can see the past edits of a thread.

Why can this be useful?

In the following scenario:

User A is selling a program to user B, but doesn't mention that there's a possibility of getting banned on the corresponding website by using the program.

User B gets banned and complains that user A didn't state that.

User A quickly changed the thread to state it.

User B says you just changed it but even though it shows he changed the thread at that time, there's not really any way to prove that he added that specific statement into the thread.

As a result, user B is left with a banned (possibly important) account, and a loss of money.

So I believe it can be helpful if you could see the past edits of a thread's OP.

Anyone agree or disagree?

Stashy - August 21, 2016, 5:21 pm

Yeah, it would be a good feature.

SuicideSquad - August 21, 2016, 5:22 pm

I guess it would be good in the marketplace im sure it was already suggested though

Pluxo - August 21, 2016, 5:22 pm

This should be implemented honestly, it'd be a good feature, but at the same time there are people who ask a question and then edit the title and thread saying "Thanks everyone for the help" or if something isn't allowed to be posted, they edit the thread to say "Sorry, not allowed to be discussed" but people can still see the original post. Both have their ups and downs.

Stashyy - August 21, 2016, 5:22 pm

No, admins can already see the changes from what I think. That's why you screenshot the thread before doing a deal just in case.

minimalist - August 21, 2016, 5:23 pm

It may happen once we're on MyBB 1.8x but not now.

FiftyTwo - August 21, 2016, 5:24 pm

(Aug 21, 2016 05:22 PM)xltzNaizy- Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I guess it would be good in the marketplace im sure it was already suggested though Link me.

(Aug 21, 2016 05:22 PM)Pluxo Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This should be implemented honestly, it'd be a good feature, but at the same time there are people who ask a question and then edit the title and thread saying "Thanks everyone for the help" or if something isn't allowed to be posted, they edit the thread to say "Sorry, not allowed to be discussed" but people can still see the original post. Both have their ups and downs.

True but I think it'd only matter if they didn't realise they broke a rule, or if they were notified but didn't do anything about it.

(Aug 21, 2016 05:23 PM)minimalist Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It may happen once we're on MyBB 1.8x but not now.

When are we upgrading?

(Aug 21, 2016 05:22 PM)Stashy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No, admins can already see the changes from what I think. That's why you screenshot the thread before doing a deal just in case.

I thought the same, however staff don't get involved in deal disputes so that doesn't really mean anything in this suggestion.

minimalist - August 21, 2016, 5:26 pm

(Aug 21, 2016 05:24 PM)52?? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Link me.

True but I think it'd only matter if they didn't realise they broke a rule, or if they were notified but didn't do anything about it.

When are we upgrading?

Omniscient had the upgrade planned for February or March but I assume that something went wrong or something came up. Either way, he's probably working on it and it'll come eventually.

M?xim - August 21, 2016, 5:27 pm

(Aug 21, 2016 05:22 PM)xltzNaizy- Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I guess it would be good in the marketplace im sure it was already suggested though

This is a good reason why. Hopefully it will be in the new update of myBB.

FiftyTwo - August 21, 2016, 5:28 pm

(Aug 21, 2016 05:26 PM)minimalist Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Omniscient had the upgrade planned for February or March but I assume that something went wrong or something came up. Either way, he's probably working on it and it'll come eventually.

Well hope it happens soon.

Thanks bud.

Will close this now.