Thread: Monero \(XMR\) Will Probably Skyrocket In Value

BLURRYF?CE - August 22, 2016, 8:02 am

The biggest Darknet market with over 100,000 users just added XMR as payment option. It were up for merely 1 minute after the update so it isn't public knowledge right now.

I'd get into Monero (XMR) within next few hours if I were y'all, it should keep increasing for a while due to these recent events.

EDIT: It's now public knowledge, the admin posted a thread about it but huge investment opportunity still.

EDIT 2: It skyrocketed. Now it's just speculation what will happen next.

EDIT 3: September 1st is the date, write it down, that's when phase 2 of the darknet market integration happens!

Don Barzini - August 22, 2016, 12:33 pm

Not everyone knows about it yet so it is still good time to invest. I am happy I dropped some money on it minutes before the @lph@bay announcement. Also, that specific market will start accepting XMR deposits on 1st of September. That's when it will rise even more imo.

I wonder if more markets will begin to use this coin, do you guys think its safe store on sites like monerowallet, mymonero longterm? I was looking for an offline wallet but it's still in dev (I don't want simplewallet)

You don't have to pay fees in order to tumble and also there is no risk of trusting a malicious tumbler. Also, sometimes even if you tumble there is still some chance the btc can be traced back to you if you used a weak service.

Later (the post you quoted), I bought in at 0.0069 and sold at 0.0073. Profited around $20 because of the huge swings. Done for the night and probably going to continue tomorrow.

This currency is being added as a secondary currency on A****B** on September 1st. We're talking a darknet market bigger than Silkroad and Evolution Market combined. A lot of vendors have already prepared their listings to accept Monero (XMR) and it's just about time till people can deposit their Monero (XMR) into the market (on September 21st).

I can't say for certain if this coin is going to succeed long-term or not, but it ought to survive till a better alternative for fully anonymous cryptocurrency transacting comes along. Nevertheless, September 1st will be a huge hypetrain so get on early and don't forget to get off when the hypetrain is about to die out, and then buy back in if you want for long-term or don't buy in at all after the hypetrain. This is highly speculative but if you took one look at Poloniex you'd see this currency were the most traded by a factor of over 10 compared to the 2nd most traded currency.

depends if you're paying with bitcoin or fiat currency (usd, etc.)

make an account here: <https://mymonero.com/>
write down your 25 word seed as a login

use <https://shapeshift.io> to exchange bitcoin to monero

if you want fiat currency to monero look at this answer:

Monero is 100% anonymous as opposed to Bitcoin which is pseudonymous. Where would you go if you were looking for a bunch of hyper paranoid people? Darknet markets.

But yeah, cash in on the hype, anything else is pure speculation.

Uh, it's not just some random "altcoin."

It's secure, untraceable (<https://getmonero.org/home>), and the leaders behind it are great guys and very reputable. Darkweb sites are implementing it for its privacy aspects, which Bitcoin lacks.

Furthermore, there are a ton of prominent people who have worked in Bitcoin who have praised Monero, see the list here:

https://www.reddit.com/r/Monero/comments/46gfgv/list\_of\_prominent\_bitcoin\_people\_that\_spoke/

In that same thread, this quote by the founder of Bitcoin (Satoshi Nakamoto) explains how the ring signatures privacy (which Monero uses) works:

"As an example, say some unpopular military attack has to be ordered, but nobody wants to go down in history as the one who ordered it. If 10 leaders have private keys, one of them could sign the order and you wouldn't know who did it."

(Read this answer by a Bitcoin developer as well on cryptocurrency privacy:

<http://bitcoin.stackexchange.com/questions/29471/are-there-any-true-anonymous-cryptocurrencies>)

XMR is quite literally, the most ideal "alternative" to Bitcoin, a running mate that is secure, led by worthy creators, and is ultimately, private. In the end you can exchange BTC to XMR (especially on VPN/Tor), and you have no way of being tracked (hypothetically).

Agree 100%, that being said

Bitcoin became legendary because the media blasted all over the place that it was being used for the dark web.

If the media does this to Monero, expect the same response.

You need run bitmonerod.exe to start the daemon and type "status" to check how much of the blockchain (%) you've downloaded. Once it's at 100%, go to simplewallet.exe and type "refresh" to "load" the blockchain.

Well, the whole point of using Monero is to be anonymous. Running your own node guarantees that. If you want to use a core wallet, bitmonerod handles the blockchain while simplewallet handles your funds.

I don't know about that, but the new features this has unlike all the other new alt coins makes it seem very promising to actually have a successful future. Interested to see where this goes

Better to be invested with a safe amount than be over-invested with an amount that those users can't afford.

It's been pretty stable at 0.0075 recently (past day) with the high being 0.0077. I would advise against buying right at this moment but you should consider buying in if it drops below 0.007.

market cap is insanely high, xmr means more than ltc - it will definitely surpass it. that means the price will rise. volume is high for xmr, and supply is limited at 12 million i believe.

hello young blood child, acquire some cash (through a card) and purchase some bitcoin through an exchange site (it seems you've chosen coinbase). how much do you want to invest? $100? get $100 in btc, and then send the btc to a site that deals with xmr - shapeshift.io is easy to use. bitcoin --> monero. enter the entire amount of btc you have ($100 is currently 0.1746 btc). do so and exchange the btc you have for xmr. now just hold and watch it rise or fall here:

I woke up and the transaction shows up as failed, I looked in my Monero wallet and it's not in there despite inputting my refund address through the initial set up for the transaction.

I just contacted support and I am hoping to get my money back into Monero.

What's the status of your exchange on shapeshift.io looking like? You don't need a payment ID for BTC -> XMR because you're the one receiving the XMR.

It says the monero was sent, see it on blockchain.

I just didn't know what the payment ID was when i was exchanging BTC for XMR and just put in my monero wallet ID.

I've never used MyMonero because Core and Poloniex are doing me well, but you could try waiting to see if your MyMonero wallet is asynchronous with the Monero blockchain. If not, contact both of the sites' supports and you'll find an answer.

It's been hovering around the 0.015 mark and it's really hard to tell what direction it'll go. On one hand some dudes could dump their holdings, on the other hand the coin could get pumped to new highs.

The 2 major drops that occured last 2 days were because of

1. AB was offline for a period of time - which lead to people think that all this was just a massive PnD scheme for XMR
2. MyMonero wallet went offline for an urgent update - which caused panic

All is well now. And on September 1st XMR will be used for buying/selling illicit shit on AB and other DNMs. Its guaranteed we're only going UP from this point, so stack up and prepare yourselves.

i think demand will rise at the date - i personally don't believe the darkweb markets setting a certain date for a certain thing is going to launch anything crazy. i do believe people will give into the hype - furthermore, once a proper gui comes around, that should make a change - people have already given into the hype once all of this was announced....

your statement is the same misconception about the halving...people dont realise the hype is given in BEFORE the actual date, people buy in and prepare for that date, there's no reason for people to buy more on the actual date.

i agree partially, but i've been with monero because of the tech, and i believe it'll hold a higher floor once it establishes ringct and a proper wallet with a GUI. not to mention there are a ton of new things that are going to occur sooner or later (livecoin.net adding xmr, etc.)

It would be awesome if it did sky rocket but I do imagine IMO that it will rise with people being able to actually use this coin.

Unlikely because the numbers are all skewed.

Serious note: improbable but possible. BTC already has companies and governments backing/involved in it. Monero will inevitably be included in bills to restrict our freedom to deal anonymously.

Wtf. Too many emotional traders on here.

It's like you expected 100k Users who buys 500 tons of drugs/weapons on AB after 5 seconds the wallet got released.

About 10% of the products there are offering monero as payment. That is fucking good for 2 days, just wait.

You truly deserve your loss

XMR will reach such levels sooner or later, its innovations are honest and legitimate. simply get involved at /r/monero and you will see. stop thinking about money and drooling, stop playing off of your emotions; this isn't supposed to be about a simple gamble. xmr is the future

I hold everything and made money that way.

I also act as a broker for few people around me.

I think that DNMs that are accepting Monero are also using the Bitcoins in Escrow from buyers and seller to PUMP the price of XMR.

What are your opinions about that ? Do you think markets are using alot of the money they HOLD ( In Bitcoin ) to pump the price of the currency that they recently added ?

I might be very wrong. I'm just sharing thoughts

Deepweb Discussion

Deepweb is a phrase to describe hidden websites on the internet that are often, but not always, directly related to illegal activity such as child porn, carding, hitmen, and other very illicit material. As such we're not going to allow it here. Not even the slightest discussion of the deepweb will be allowed.

I really think the price will be @ +$100 and probably won't take to long, you saw what happened with the price when Alpha implemented XMR as a payment option. And more and more people will start sending, receiving, paying in Monero. The privacy and security aspect is something Bitcoin doesn't have... so that is a HUGE advantage!

Alot more services will start to implement XMR, especially darnket services....

Seems to have reached its peak to be honest. I'm down over $1000

Volume is low at the moment. Volatility has been exceedingly low compared to the last couple weeks.

Soon, we'll see the resolution of consolidation, and break one way or another

I believe the news is only just starting to spread to the more mainstream btc-only audience and many more will begin to join the party.

so i think for the same reason we will see XMR rising in the next couple of weeks to 15$-20$

Really depends whether other sites will start to use Monero and how well it's going on the dark nets it was implemented in.

G<sup>a</sup>NNicus - September 12, 2016, 9:25 am

I bought 175 XMR @ $11.5 and i'm still holding on.

You have to have nerves of steel when it dips under $10 tho.

Of course, this is normal crypto volatility. Wider adoption would be awesome ofcourse.

Variety of different events could push us up again. GUI wallet being released, wider market adaption, more publicity.

We were heading in to an extremely bullish weekend, and the opposite happened... like it often does.

People need to be patient with Monero. Great coin that has been around for a while and just recently has received wider interest due to being incorporated to more markets.

In my opinion, for a coin that rised 500% in one month, this drop was to be expected.

But again, I'm no expert in this field.

This. People will obviously sell more for cheaper since there's a influx of more paying customers, just give it a little while and the price will rise again.

I completely agree with Cameron. What planet are you living on Flyrect? You have topped one of the most uneducated comments I've read all day, maybe even this week for that matter.
What about when the GUI wallet comes out? What about all the holders at the moment? You think this is a huge, multi BILLION dollar coordinated pump and dump? You've got to be kidding me.
The jump in price was not for no reason, it's because of the adoption in the deep web and the recognition of XMR's privacy features. I can go on and on about the rise in price.

G<sup>a</sup>NNicus - September 15, 2016, 7:37 am

The price will definately rise, but i don't think the GUI wallet release will have much of an impact on the price. But who knows, right?

Definetely still excited about the coin and his features.

There is ALOT of potential and money to be made with XMR on trading platforms, i think a BIG price rise would be other exchanges implementing XMR on their platform, like Coinbase. As of now Poloniex has a sort of monopoly market on XMR.
