Thread: No Bot Is Safe. Stop Posting "Safe Bots/Config"

funtela - August 23, 2016, 9:54 am

I see all of you posting things like

"safest bot"

"no bans"

"best config"

etc...

Point it, it doesn't matter what speed you're botting at. Once they see you've been using a third party application, you're already flagged. It doesn't matter if you were using it to walk 2km per hour. Until the bot devs figure out a safe way to bot, you WILL be banned eventually if you botted now or in the past.

My advice to you guys is to keep your accounts and stop botting them and hope that they "might" survive all the future ban waves. Which is a very small chance that they will.

If only I had reached this conclusion yesterday. #banned

I'm still sitting on 2 high level accounts but playing legit is SO boring

According to me, it should be something like - Buy at your own risk.

The only seller guarantee should be the working login credentials. And once the buyer successfully signs in, the responsibility of the seller ends.

That's why at the top of my thread it says "NOTE BOTTING OF ANY KIND IS NOT FULLY BAN PROOF THIS IS JUST MY SETTINGS!"

I think there are definitely some more safe than others. And some will last longer but I feel like in the end they will get banned eventually. I'm going strong 3 days with a few accounts so far taking breaks and only running one at a time.

I completely agree with Ryan. I do not think botting is safe at all right now, you will eventually get banned. I also think it is stupid to sell since they will most likely lose their money due to the ban.

Yeah, Niantic has been cracking down hard on botting and it's working really well.

Yeah I agree, I have botted 3 accounts in the past week that haven't been banned yet. I always change the device when starting to bot again.

I also have a level 27 what I botted when it first came out.

Yeah man, it truly is. The game is extremely repetitive and it just gets boring after getting to level 15. They need to add more gameplay. A broken tracking system as well, I can't begin to understand how people still find fun in this game. I know I don't anymore.

It was fun for like the first 2 weeks and then when I found out about botting I got bored.

Player vs player will make this game more interesting.

Hamekaze - August 24, 2016, 3:08 pm

All it is now is waiting until a new API fix rolls out, people are just being autistic when they ask whether or not it is safe to bot.

Lmao. Good point.

Is good to see that someone else on this section thinks the same way that I do. Is pointless to keep spending money on these accounts knowing they're not going to last longer than a week of anything.
