Any screenshot of the payment that has been sent? Provide more proof + put the $ that you may have been scammed in your title.

That sucks OP.

User did not get scammed. This user did indeed bought the snapchat @threat from me and it was delivered to him as promised. At first I took sometime to reply with the account credentials because of a family emergency but once that was resolved I immediately sent him the account he purchased through PM.

Have you tried with capitals or lower case letters? Maybe he gave you the right password but might of left a capital letter out or something.

I mean he did say he was busy with family emergencies. I would try contacting him again and see if he replies. Did you have his skype and etc?
