

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Botting - No Pokeballs in Inventory

BTB™ - August 28, 2016, 11:41 pm

Hi,

Suddenly this has appeared. All Pokeballs have finished.

And surprisingly, it is not even getting items from Pokespots.

confused.

Mr.Peanut - August 28, 2016, 11:45 pm

(Aug 28, 2016 11:41 PM)BTB™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hi,

Suddenly this has appeared. All Pokeballs have finished.

And surprisingly, it is not even getting items from Pokespots.

confused.

I think this is how they ban some users. I could be talking out of my ass here but I heard they do something like this.

Up In The Smoke - August 29, 2016, 12:09 am

It could be a ban, sometimes I see it happens on PokeMobBot which I just leave running and it sorts itself out.

SIM-403479 - August 29, 2016, 1:31 am

If you visit too many pokestops within 24 hours you will get this sort of ban. The ban usually lasts so the full 24 hour cycle runs.

I suggest you either bot less or turn your speed down on the bot you're running.

How much XP are you receiving per hour?

Charlie Sheen - August 29, 2016, 1:34 am

As Jamieeee said, you hit too many pokestops within 24 hours. I ran into this earlier, I just logged off for about 4-5 hours and now it's working again.

Ratt - August 29, 2016, 1:37 am

You're visiting Pokestops too fast my friend. Try taking more breaks during botting or even slowing it down if possible.

Some bots like Pokefarmer can do this themselves. I hope you're able to get this resolved as it's simply a type of ban Niantic has.

PrettyboyFredo - August 29, 2016, 1:59 am

This is a ban coming from Pokemon. Pokemon is banning people who are botting their pokemons.

hekktikk - August 29, 2016, 6:24 pm

(Aug 29, 2016 01:59 AM)PrettyboyFredo Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is a ban coming from Pokemon.
Pokemon is banning people who are botting their pokemons.
Imao i don't know why but this had me loling irl