Thread: Autoclick/botting 99 mage

Ger? - September 2, 2016, 12:19 am

What's the safest way to auto click or bot 99 mage? I know there's always going to be a risk of me getting banned but I plan to do it on a new account and I'm going to take breaks and everything. I wanna get 99 mage so I can make a 50 att 1 def pure and I don't feel like stun alching for hours again.

Has anyone had any success auto click alching all the way to 99?

I haven't used it for Magic myself, but I have for several other skills. I'd recommend using a proper, random interval auto clicker (don't wanna get banned for using bad software). The one I use is called MurGee, just look it up.

Good luck!

I heard that their detection system can tell if you use public programs like MurGee. I'm just going to be getting 99 mage on a new pure that I'm making, so I won't really care if I get banned.

Has anyone successfully used an autoclicker like MurGee for 99 mage?

I've autoclicked 99 mage on my main and my pure and I was never banned, I used it with random intervals, autoclicked in the grand exchange world 2.

Can't remember what it was called but as long as it has random intervals, you won't get caught unless you do it 24/7

The way I always see it.

If you care for the account don't bot. If you don't mind getting banned then go ahead and bot as much as you like.

But if you're like me and know all the ways they detect auto clicking just make an auto clicker to counter that, and so far I've been doing it perfectly safely. If you want to figure out their detections just use logic.
