Thread: Possible Method I just thought of to make money

So I was thinking recently I have pokemongo++ on my iPhone which allows me to choose any location I want to "walk" too without being detected, I was taking an uber in New York City playing Pokemon go and it hit me, what would disallow someone from using this fake gps app in the same manner as uber... Have two phones... Have one phone be the customer and request an uber far as fuck... Like 200 miles away, and then have the fake gps pick him up, "take him there" drop him off, and then rinse and repeat and mix it up and wait for uber to pay you...? Am I missing something... Cause I feel like this is really possible

This isn't allowed here, and it's a stupid ass method too.

Wait 24 and check marketplace. Your method will be there.

Furious.

Go ahead and give it a try, see what happens to you.

Lol what can possibly happen my friend? They find out, track me down and shoot me? There's uber drivers that chest the system all the time... With friends and then just split the money. This just reduces the miles you put on the car

If you're so confident, go ahead and try this ?

People literally train 1000 pokemon go accounts to lv 25 daily with a simple script, what you're doing is completely unnecessary and you try too hard.

It takes 2 days to bot an account to level 25.

You could just bot accounts and then sell them for profit. No point wasting your time on that app.

where would the funds come from? the customer you are "picking up" has to pay up.

Guys he isnt talking about pokemon go. he is talking about using gps spoofing to fake picking up a customer that is far away and then get paid from uber

The way uber works is uber pays you

I DOUBT THE PROFIT MARGINS EVEN WORK OUT EVENLY.

Creativo - September 18, 2016, 5:01 pm

What? No, Uber does not pay you, You are paid by the costumer, uber just gets a small %, Which means u would actually be losing money since you are the one paying in the first place.
