Thread: [\[GROUP\] Beginner hacking group on SKYPE](#)

CyberGuard - September 13, 2016, 11:42 am

I've seen quite a few threads pop up and I think it's time to start this skype group.

If you are interested in learning more about hacking from professionals or together with like-minded enthusiasts. You have come to the right spot.

I'm setting up a skype group for beginner hackers so everyone can learn new things and get help with their issues from other members.

If you are interested in joining post it down here or PM me.

DO NOT ASK ME TO PM YOU OR EXPECT ME TO MAGICALLY KNOW YOUR SKYPE

Basic chat rules:

No open scam reports

No doxing, ddosing or threatening others

Use common sense or you'll be punished :)

Before you ask, I have no interest in moving the group to any other place regardless of what people say about privacy, this isn't some blackhat illegal club.

Yeah, gotta agree with this.

I'm not really super concerned about security to be honest as you said we're not doing anything blackhat, but Skype is just such a shitshow all over. It's slow to load/send messages, the interface is horrid and it doesn't have any channel support. If you really want a free server that you manage, Discord might be a better way to go, as you still have voice/text chat and has channel support, but I have an IRC server you could use if you want just for text stuff or in case shit does go south and starts to get sketchy.

I mean, XMPP is also an option as well, but who the fuck wants to be sending memes with XML lmao. Also, I'm not particularly familiar with it's group chat options, although it's probably similar to IRC.

Global Elite - September 13, 2016, 5:00 pm

Fantom4242 - September 15, 2016, 7:15 am

@CyberSecurity, I'm a afraid I cannot use the PM priority yet, but I'm fairly acknowledged in hacking. I'd like to participate in the group by contributing information regarding cyber security (not a lot nor deep, but still worth knowing).

So, for that reason, I kindly request you to PM me your skype, so that I can add you. Thank you in advance!

Please, excuse me for this post. I did read the OP and understood.
