Thread: Riyu's 4 months feedback

Riyu - September 13, 2016, 1:54 pm

I joined this forum back in May because my friend (Omoi, Mavis etc) who is now closed ? told me I could make some money doing recoveries on xbox. I signed up and started posting and literally twenty minutes after joining I was invited to The Order. At first when I joined I kinda just watched everyone else posts just to get a feel on how everything worked. I enjoyed being apart of something like a group. After about a week I started to be a bit more active and actually post, I finally got around to joining the The Order discord chat and loved it ever since.

Around four days later I tried to buy BTC for the first time and ended up getting scammed for $14. After that I realized that not everyone could be trusted online. I learned to deal with caution and take the necessary precautions when dealing. Now I only deal with money that I can "afford" to lose. Considering no one can be trusted I rarely do deals over $300.

After about a week I finally bought l33t and I started to be a lot more active in the Marketplace again and even joined a Skype group that ParadiseDealz and Vyrez run. I met a lot of cool people in there. Being in that chat really helped me get a lot more sales and be able to see what people buy and what people don't buy. I ended up opening a recovery shop and it was pretty successful. I recently sold my RGH so I had to close down shop so that was over. I made around 300-400. Sales were booming when BO1 came out.

I've really enjoyed this forum and I don't understand how some people dislike Omni. I've been banned once but it was 100% my fault. After that I never really had anything major happen. If you follow the rules you should have no problem and never get closed/rk etc.

In my opinion groups have a great purpose but there's a lot of users who just join for the userbar which brings the activity down. My favorite groups have to be The Order and Echo. Every other group that I've been in is either dead or just a joke.

Some quick shoutouts

- Krave (You've been a huge help, thanks man.)

How you jump from barely affording to lose $14 and then give a sample bout $300. yo.

It;s a forum you shouldn;t have seen how other people posted to get the 'feel' you shoulda just done your own thing and be yourself ?
