Thread: Search by username in repsgiven not working

Vitani - September 14, 2016, 1:50 am

First of all, this is in no way a big issue, but it would be cool to see it fixed.

So when you check your reputation on your profile, there is an option to sort all the reputations by username in the right bottom corner, as shown in the screenshot below.

When you sort your reputations by username, you can go through every page, and all the reputations that have been given to you are displayed in alphabetical order.

Unfortunately this feature doesn't work correctly on the repsgiven page. (repsgiven = the reputations you have given to other people)

When you try to sort all the reputations on the repsgiven page by username, it will sort it, but when you try to go to a different page (for example you are searching for the a username that starts with the letter z, so you want to go to the last page), it will no longer display everything sorted by username.

In short: Sorting by username does not work on the repsgiven page when you go to another page other than the one you are currently on.

Again, this is by no means a major issue.

You're probably on page 10 or 12 mate.

If so let me know if it works or not.

Works just fine for me. Here's from your profile.

This is the normal reputation details page which indeed works fine.

This thread is about the repsgiven page.

This thread is about the repsgiven page.Oh, my bad.

I can't check that page, sadly.

Ahh..I see why. The pagination doesn't have that parameter.

Fixed.
