Thread: Design your own character - \$20 AUD contest

Mr. Robot - September 14, 2016, 5:30 am

So a few people have mentioned they enjoy making games whether it's for android/ios or PC.

I figure, if you have the time - try draw your best representation of a main character from a game you would play. It could be a monster, human, dragon, hybrid - give it a story too.

Watermark your images if you make anything or if you get too inspired while drawing something up, PM as there are always investors looking to invest in a new game.

I can only offer $20AUD unfortunately and only 1 winner.

Contest ends in 5 working days time -

Must have a back story for the character

You may enter more than once.

The image doesn't have to be the in game character model- could be just artwork like "fanart" of your character.

Optional to give an idea of what type of game such as rpg/tcg/arena

Winner will be decided by Shoe and myself.

Your story for the character might be 10x better than your drawing, that's perfectly fine.

Hopefully we get some eyes on this thread and someone might pick you out to design something for them in the future.

Example of entry (detailed)

Ash Ketchum is a young boy who has a dream to become the greatest pokemon trainer in the world.

At some point in his early life, Ash went on a field trip in a rainy forest and got lost. Scared to the point of tears, he was forced to hide in a hollow tree trunk. A group of local Pokémon joined him and cheered him up, which was partially what motivated him to become a Pokémon Trainer.

Ash also enrolled in Professor Oak's Pokémon Summer Camp when he was young. One day, another camper named Serena got lost in the forest and wounded her leg after getting startled by a Poliwag. Ash, who was looking for the Poliwag, came to her rescue and wrapped a handkerchief around the wounded knee to brace it. He then helped her up and guided her out of the forest.

At some point before starting their journeys, Ash was friends with Gary Oak until they both fished out a Poké Ball on both their lines. After arguing about who would keep it, they broke it in two, each keeping one half as a reminder of that day.

This contest is pretty cool. Too bad I suck at drawing though. Maybe I can ask my friends and post for them here?

You definitely can mate, but the main point is to show your creativity in writing, graphics or both so someone might notice you in the future if they need either done.

This is a great idea, if only I didn't have the drawing skills of a fingerless 6 year old.

That's perfectly fine man, as long as we get what you are trying to put across, better to be in if nobody else enters right?

Try draw something simple, you can even just photoshop different parts of people on to animals or whatever you are going for, then turn the image into a stencil without even drawing.

You might need to focus a bit more on the backstory however.

Working as a team with someone who can draw but not story their character could also work.

TLDR at bottom

Year 2169, Human kind is in the brink of evolution.

A new generation humans called 'Transcendent' have emerged. They are born with abilities labeled as 'Gears' that enables them to have control over certain elements/objects or even life forces. Though many have accepted the Transcendent as the next stage of humanity, even more saw this as an abomination and labeled the Transcendent 'Mutated'.

The most common abilities transcendents posses are the control over the Earth, and better physique than that of a normal human being. Control over air is impossible and control over water is a rarity. Those who could are often treated as nobility. Control over fire however, is considered an abomination even to the transcendents because those who are born with such abilities always never lives for they are unstable and their birth lead to violent deaths for both infant and carrier.

A private organization called 'Light' rallied humans to wage war against the transcendents either because of jealousy or the fact that they consider this evolution as heresy. The first war occurred at the summer of 2201. The event is remembered as 'War of the morning star'. The Followers of Light defeated the force of the Transcendents by using Bioweapons that would cause the Transcendents to lose control over their powers while it becomes unstable eventually consuming them. The war ended at the year end of 2205, convincing even more humans to have hatred towards the Transcendents.

After the war, most transcendents were made slaves and 'Light' became the rulers of humanity with their newfound religion based off on their hatred towards the transcendents.

Transcendents were injected multiple times with objects that not only made the use of their abilities painful, but also made them controllable by those who wishes to do so. Most transcendents were sent to death mines to harvest resources, many made to be for entertainment, and some for experimentations.

Light also found a way to stop the evolution of humans into Transcendents thus preserving his followers instead of executing those that have evolved.

The story of 'Elos' starts on the year 2215, 7 years after the end of the first war. His parents were Transcendents who escaped slavery and joined the new found rebels that opposed the rule of Light.

Elos was born with the ability to control Fire. Before his birth, his parents agreed that he should live even though his ability is considered an abomination amongst their people. He was extracted from his mother, taken straight from her belly in order to live.

He was then placed into a specialized tank in hopes of him not losing control over his abilities.

Elos survived his birth and childhood without the knowledge of his abilities. He was informed that he was a 'defective' Transcendent, those who has evolved but has no control over anything.

He found out about his abilities at the age of 14, when confronted by humans. He was beaten up an inch to his death when he sparked his first flame, burning those around him to ashes and almost burning himself as well. He ended up with half his face melted by his own fire.

When elders of the new rebellion found out about Elos' new found knowledge of himself, they counseled him and told him of his true purpose.

To be the sword of the coming war.

TLDR:

Hummies evolved and gained powerz

Many unevolved hummies got angry/jelous

War war war

Evolved hummies lost and got enslaved

Cringe much. I suck at writing.

I've thought of this story when I was 16. I can't remember my inspiration for this tho.(no not avatar)

Here are my friends two entries with both Halloween and Christmas coming shortly :

The Headless Horseman:
Spoiler \(Click to View\)

The legend of the Headless Horseman goes way back in Sleepy Hollow, New York, during the American Revolutionary War. Traditional folklore holds that the Horseman was a Hessian artilleryman who was killed during the Battle of White Plains in 1776. It was said that he was decapitated by an American cannonball, and the shattered remains of his head were left on the battlefield while his comrades hastily carried his body away.

The comrades were so disgusted by the mutilated headless body, that he was buried by himself in the cemetery of the Old Dutch Church of Sleepy Hollow. He wasn't given a proper burial and none of his comrades would come to visit his grave.

On Halloween night, his body arose. Upon not finding his head, he finds a pumpkin. But it's not just an ordinary pumpkin, the pumpkin has magic powers that allows the horseman to see. His sight enabled him to see how his body was treated by his comrades. He was disgusted that they pissed on his grave and had no respect for the dead. He walks to a barn and touches a horse with the pumpkin.

The horse is transformed into a demonic warhorse. It's now time for the headless horseman to confront and kill his comrades that disrespected his dead body.

Bad Santa:
Spoiler \(Click to View\)

Bad Santa was known as Nick Daimon. In his early childhood, he would always get into fights and never followed the rules. His father, much worse than him, was a serial killer. Around Christmas time, his father was going to be executed and Nick decided to write a letter to Santa that if he saved his father, he would do good and get his act clean. Days later, his father was executed and from that day forward, he vowed to get revenge.

You know how Santa only comes to kids who are only nice and have been good, but doesn't give presents to the ones who are naughty? Well there's a new Santa Claus in town, and he's the Bad Santa.

In this post apocalyptic world, evil exists. Bad Santa only gives presents to the kids who have been naughty. The ones who have to steal to make it for a living, for example.

Though Santa isn't dead and very much alive, his powers are weak since the amount of good has fallen and evil has taken over, giving Bad Santa powers that one couldn't imagine. His strength is no match for Santa and he's coming for Old Saint Nick.

Saruna is a creature from the deeps of Arceus a desolate planet filled with nothing but sand and death. Though the planet may seem dead from the outside, it's teeming with life near the molten core where the Arcesith calls home. Above the melting point of steel is where these creatures call home due to the high temperatures they've developed a special biological shell that absorbs energy which is one of the reasons why no one has seen one die. Though they may look like worms they're nothing of the sorts, due to their energy levels they can emit a type of plasma which they use to evaporate materials in their way.

Saruna is one of 3 Arcesith leaders, guarding the molten core they call home from their only threat, Galeku the titans of the planets. Galeku can grow so fast at birth because of the amount of energy they absorb from the core that it's not uncommon for them to sometimes get stuck in rocks forever. They do not die from natural causes as long as they're close to an energy source. When the time comes that the planet finally free's a Galeku that have been stuck in rocks for millions of years they've gone insane and goes on a rampage to the core. No knows why they do this some believe that the core energy is the only thing they've known all their life and therefore is the only way they can go. But at this event Arcesith who lives closer to the molten core need to fight these titans because they've accumulated so much energy a single titan can swift the flow of the core and ultimately destroy it.

Sorry I'm on stims, usually suck at pixel art so had to make due with what PS offered.

Year 2169, Human kind is in the brink of evolution.

A new generation humans called 'Transcendent' have emerged. They are born with abilities labeled as 'Gears' that enables them to have control over certain elements/objects or even life forces. Though many have accepted the Transcendent as the next stage of humanity, even more saw this as an abomination and labeled the Transcendent 'Mutated'.

The most common abilities transcendents posses are the control over the Earth, and better physique than that of a normal human being. Control over air is impossible and control over water is a rarity. Those who could are often treated as nobility. Control over fire however, is considered an abomination even to the transcendents because those who are born with such abilities always never lives for they are unstable and their birth lead to violent deaths for both infant and carrier.

A private organization called 'Light' rallied humans to wage war against the transcendents either because of jealousy or the fact that they consider this evolution as heresy. The first war occurred at the summer of 2201. The event is remembered as 'War of the morning star'. The Followers of Light defeated the force of the Transcendents by using Bioweapons that would cause the Transcendents to lose control over their powers while it becomes unstable eventually consuming them. The war ended at the year end of 2205, convincing even more humans to have hatred towards the Transcendents.

After the war, most transcendents were made slaves and 'Light' became the rulers of humanity with their newfound religion based off on their hatred towards the transcendents.

Transcendents were injected multiple times with objects that not only made the use of their abilities painful, but also made them controllable by those who wishes to do so. Most transcendents were sent to death mines to harvest resources, many made to be for entertainment, and some for experimentations.

Light also found a way to stop the evolution of humans into Transcendents thus preserving his followers instead of executing those that have evolved.

The story of 'Elos' starts on the year 2215, 7 years after the end of the first war. His parents were Transcendents who escaped slavery and joined the new found rebels that opposed the rule of Light.

Elos was born with the ability to control Fire. Before his birth, his parents agreed that he should live even though his ability is considered an abomination amongst their people. He was extracted from his mother, taken straight from her belly in order to live.

He was then placed into a specialized tank in hopes of him not losing control over his abilities.

Elos survived his birth and childhood without the knowledge of his abilities. He was informed that he was a 'defective' Transcendent, those who has evolved but has no control over anything.

He found out about his abilities at the age of 14, when confronted by humans. He was beaten up an inch to his death when he sparked his first flame, burning those around him to ashes and almost burning himself as well. He ended up with half his face melted by his own fire.

When elders of the new rebellion found out about Elos' new found knowledge of himself, they counseled him and told him of his true purpose.

To be the sword of the coming war.

TLDR:

Hummies evolved and gained powerz

Many unevolved hummies got angry/jelous

War war war

Cringe much. I suck at writing.

I've thought of this story when I was 16. I can't remember my inspiration for this tho.(no not avatar)
Been thinking if I should write something like a novel or try making a manga for it. "try".

I hope you like it. ?(°??? °)?
obviously this guy will win ?

As a gamer, we are just sit front of a common screen, waiting. After a black veil we can see Alula, standing and watching "us". He tells I'm "conscious" about the "Fourth wall", but maybe "I" can help you ?

As a gamer, always sit on a chair, we see now on the screen a profile to edit, with some emotionnal situations. Alula is not here anymore but we can see various situations and questions : "In this deep darkness, what emotion do you feel ?", "Next to that animal, what emotion do you feel ?", "Near to that fire, what emotion do you feel ?" etc. After we edited all these emotionnal situations with our own feelings we can see Alula again. He tells us "Do you really know yourself ? Don't answer me now. Let's simulate an adventure and try that feelings you just edited previously, and see if you can bypass or comply/conform to them. After your own reactions what will you think about yourself ? That's just a question. Let's move on and see.".

Second black veil. We see again Alula, in a <personal>situation</personal>. That's the beginning of our adventure.

NB : Alula (symmetry). No "life container" (health) or "level" here.
