Prefixed - September 25, 2016, 6:32 am

It's not even legit. Why would you release a FUD doc exploit? Won't last fud for an hour when you release the link.

And you have 1 post. Well, I don't think this program works - or even exists.

Can you stop digging this up? "Old Phantom" is one big scam. Also, some people keep making up those accounts telling everyone to PM them for "a free silent exploit" or a "free fud crypter". "rat sourcecode" blablabla.

This user registers, first thing he says is PM me, I got Old Phantom exploits (which are one big scam) and I give them out for free. He cannot even be PM'ed. Nobody who has a silent exploit is going to put it at a publicly available tool. If anyone has a silent based on a 0day, they will sell it for 60k USD underground. You wont find such things here.

Learn Russian and get down there if you got the money.

I know this isn't the place to post this but i'm desperate and really need help. Recently someone scammed $200 worth of skins via steam trading. Steam support can't refund the items, nor take them from the person. This person is doing it to multiple people and nothing is being done about it. What can I do? I'd like to get my items back and make them suffer at the same time, but the only way i'd get the items back is to manually get control of their computer and send the items, or get their ip address and mess with them until they send them back. PLEASE HELP
