I always wanted to start CPA but never got into.
Is it worth it man?
Also how much time did you spent setting everything?

Fidel Castro - September 19, 2016, 6:31 am

Nice earnings man, is it hard to start the CPA? :)
Also, how much time did you spend setting everything up + traffics?

Not really, but depends on method/niche of course.

Also didn't spend anything, all my traffic is gained via my methods.

Was set up almost instantly, maybe few hours.

Yes it is fam :)

Boys I've been working with in the past made up to 4-5 figures per month.

YES this was thanks to a lot of investments, but we started all the same:

1. Create youtube videos related to a niche (whitehat preferably)
2. Redirect your visitors (who watched your niche, proof and other valuable info) to your CPA/PPI site (cpa = like PINs/ survey. PPI = like installing apps to continue, higher Conv % but lower amount per "lead/install").
3. Let the traffic go viral at your site, by adding social lockers (like, tweet, google plus to continue) this is good for SEO & creating viral content
4. Adjust your videos, site, descriptions, images when needed
5. Repeat until it's "perfect" and then bank hard from 1 niche (repeat process with other niches to maximize your profit).

Tools:

GSA tools (to do SEO relative cheap)

YouTube video uploader / mass uploader

Photoshop (to edit your videos for "real" proof)

Recommended networks based on reviews / opinions of myself and others:

www.cpagrip.com

www.ogads.com

www.adworkmedia.com

I hope this was enough to get you started bro :)

Damn homie. Thanks for that.
Seems like a pretty hard start, but I am thinking now about it.

You don't have to do any of that though,

You can use whatever you like, not just YouTube.

YouTube is great for beginners though, just look at getting onto more advanced/unsaturated sites unless you know a great niche.

Youtube is also great for experts.

It's just easy to earn money from without having to invest.

Instagram, facebook (ads / pages/ comments), SEO, blogs, Vlogs, products selling (and offering them for free in exchange for a "lead") will work as well.

You could even do content locking, offer walls for rewards and more.

What I described to Danny is how I made money which was incredible easy.

Ranking them with GSA in a few days, using photoshop to edit my videos (with camtasia) and the rest of the day I was just creating new sites / videos which was a nice amount of traffic :)

If you're more advanced you can start to optimize it.

Optimize your offers, your videos, use backlinks, create a great channel, invest in comments/likes/dislikes, etc. ?

Sounds like a pretty basic but working strategy. But my question is, how would you rank your video without any investment? Is it even possible? Thanks!

This is my thread for my YouTube ranking eBook (100% free).
It's made by me, photos took by me and written by me.

I used this method before I used SEO tools like GSA + VPS :)

ailo - September 19, 2016, 11:49 am

Congrats man,i've always wanted to try this but never managed too.

Fidel Castro - September 19, 2016, 12:18 pm

plier33 - September 19, 2016, 10:27 pm

Good explanation, but still looks like alot of effort to just start off and I bet there's alot of more to make something outta that. Was always sceptical about CPA thing, but have seen countless people making bank outta this :/

Probably will consider giving it a try in future :)

Why are you not doing it anymore? Because it doesn't work. I made thousands of youtube as well. But it doesn't roll that way anymore.

Just so people won't be dissapointed when they fail to earn.

edit; i received his method, it's good and this will maximize your chances of video ranking up, but we are not in 2010 anymore and it will be a lot harder to get a good rank, hence most will be unsuccessful in my opinion.
