Thread: Does Anybody Remember iCrypt Gold?

The good days of computer hacking, I miss them...

It used to be all iCrypt Gold, Fly Crypter, Father Crypter, DarkEyE, Cryptex, BlackShades RAT.... now it is generic products that don't get the job done right.

That was in the past, any good Crypter for now?

Regards!

Regards!Unless you pay The Old Warrior or Wardow a ton to code you a crypter or get in contact with KillaMuvz somehow not really...

KillaMuvz is better at coding crypters than Wardow, but has basically retired and is now off the scene completely.

If you want a NATIVE crypter though - The Old Warrior is undoubtedly the best coder you could possibly go to. Otherwise, Sikandar would be a good bet.

ICrypt gold? Really? Worst shit ever created. Fly crypter by BUNNN aka 001 was also crap. Took hrs to get it FUD. Sikandar is shit as well. This was a time when runtime was not a big problem.

Wardow? Autoit? Dont make me laugh.

TOW created a quality product. Rest is utter shit.

You talk about these simple crypters like they are gods. But in reality they are simple minded basic stuff. Did you ever look at alexkanvas or wtf his name is (cryptic i think) . Thats something completely different and quite much more impressive than all of these shit crypters put together.

I remember all those items. I had them all, my favorite was Fly Crypter. I had a private license for this for years. I liked all these products but if you look around there is quite a few new products around that can do what they did and better.

Memory makes all things better than they really were.
