In a group like dis, inactivity and child porn will not and can not be tolerated. We take shit so seriously, especially the CP.

I'm sure Grim can make an exception for a member like yourself tho.

With school and shit starting back up again, it's understandable that people have less time than they initially had when they joined the group.

How many posts do you think you can make in the sub forum per day? Well, shit, according to my post stats I post 3 posts a day. Veering away from that result, since 2014 I have only visited once every two to three months, but I post a shitton of stuff when I'm online, mostly in the CLI or C++ sections to help the kids that can't get their C++ code to compile because it's void main(). A majority of my posts since March are in this section, you should remember.

How many posts do you think you can make in the sub forum per day?

Probably around 10 or more in the beginning.

I actually like the thought of everyone helping each other out.

So after some time the posts will rise because I get ambitious at trying to help or discuss something.

And besides that I'm working from 8am to 4pm everyday, hope that's not a problem for you guys.

How many posts do you think you can make in the sub forum per day? Really, it depends on how active other members are. Assuming good activity, I will realistically say 10-15. I could do more on weekends but due to school, that number isn't as high as I'd like it to be. Starting my own threads is also a thing, I'll try to think of new topics at least twice a month.

I personally believe I can hit no less then 20 post a day 5 or 6 days a week.

What are your goals if accepted to nightmare?:

I am hoping to put forth legitimate effort towards group projects, offering services and hosting giveaways in the name of nightmare and eventually work my way into other factions of nightmare. If accepted I will wear the nightmare user bar at all times as well as it is the only group I will be joining.

Anything else related to this app?:

I want to thank you in advance for taking your time and considering my application to this group. I look forward to reading your response on October 3rd.

How many posts do you think you can make in the sub forum per day? It all depends how active the sub-forum is and if the threads interest me or not. I can easily reply to every thread for post count, but there is really no point if the topic does not thoroughly interest me, or if I feel I am receiving nothing from it; Which tends to be the case with most posts in The Lounge. I guess you could say the same goes for starting threads as well.

How many posts? Depends on the topics. Probably 10+

How many posts do you think you can make in the sub forum per day? 100.
