Actually, Strike the Blood is a good ecchi with a good plot. Better than most of the highschool things you see nowadays.

Senpai needs to crowd fund to get money so we can buy null and revive AnimeFAN!

Very excited for this, but I hope its better than that 2 part OVA that we got at the start of the year. That was a disappointment.

SkullCandy - September 26, 2016, 12:41 am

Considering the amount of love this show is getting here, I might give the first one a go :)

I don't mind ecchi if it is good - I don't like some though, I tried to get into DxD but I just couldn't. Finished the first season and just haven't picked it back up - took me like a year to finish one season anyways. It is like a really shit version of Fate/stay night with loads of boobs which tries to compensate for it's lack of any substance.

I do however like Haganai, Prison School and a few other Ecchi titles - and Taboo Tattoo is like borderline. So I hope this is actually as good as you guys claim it to be. Been wanting for an Ecchi action with a good story.

If you want a borderline try going with Masou Gakuen HxH, I've just finished third episode and it's nosebleeding AF, can't tell the story tho.

I tried it when it first started airing - please tell me Strike the Blood was better than that; I really wanted to like it, but it was so shit. The only one like that I even remotely liked was Asterisk War, and still that wasn't amazing.

Watch it bruh, I swear to God you won't regret it. Also, the music used in the trailer (for the 1st season, not the 2nd, it's a modified version) is the best music ever.

Guess this is where true anime fans show... lets go watch it raw and see who can understand... put all your anime years into testing XD

Just had this crazy idea... how about we try to translate it our selves?? doesn't have to be perfect, just something for fun. If everyone watches the raw video and writes down few lines, we might come up with something XD
