WE ARE ACCEPTING PAYPAL NOW! [REBOOT 2017]

With other proxy scrapers, you can scrape about 20k proxies.

But after removing duplicates and checking them, there are only about 50-100 working.

The source that we use is a good source and proxies update daily, ontop of that you can add your own sources.

Best proxy scraper out there!

(Sep 26, 2016 03:59 PM)poild Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Alright I got a vouch copy.

The program is supported via net seal, which is pretty secure itself. When you purchase, you're given a .zip file that has everything you literally need to know.

When I opened the program I was actually surprised how fast the functionality was. The GUI is pretty simple in it of itself. I've used many proxy scrappers before and RIGHT when I click start, the proxies were scraped immediately. Of course this might take a delay if you add your own scrapping sites and bulk up the list. Default wise, it grabbed 1.4k proxies within 4 seconds. Checking them wasn't too much of a hassle either. You can just click start and it'll start checking the scrapped proxies or you can import your own proxy list and check those.

You can add your own links via the program itself, choose if you want the program to appear on the startup of your computer, and see how much of your computer resources this program takes up. It's really not a lot. I would recommend buying this due to simple and clean coding, and fast functionality.

Sorry if this review isn't a review, it's my first time writing one. :)

OP, can you tell me the difference between your proxy checker and the other checkers on the market. And by that I mean different sources where you're grabbing them from. Are you using only public sources or private sources aswell. How HQ are these proxies, I need some info :)
