Thread: Titans Carnival?

Roger Waters - September 28, 2016, 4:35 pm

My fellow members,

Does anyone remember what happened to the Titans Carnival? I think it twas about a year or so ago where they hosted this event and everyone joined the group and we all had a grand ol' time. I think they should bring this back, does anyone else think likewise? We are surely overdue for one of these awesome events as we haven't seen one like that for about a year or so now.

Would like to know what y'all think. Let me know in the comments below.

Thanks.

Lmfao, yeah I guess this is a good question to ask xD

We're proud to announce Titan's next community event to everyone. Carnival is a mix of mini-games where users can play against each other to earn Tittens. Tittens is our very own currency which will be used to purchase prizes at the end of the event. This will be our second carnival event we run for the community so far. Titans will continue running community events like the Carnival, Casino, etc. Hope you enjoy our events and have a fun time competing with and against other members!

Carnival will begin Monday, Oct. 5, and will run until Friday, Oct. 9. Saturday and Sunday of that week will be when you and other players can redeem prizes with your earned Tittens. On Monday, Oct. 12, all players will be removed from Titans as that is the end of our Carnival event. You can now apply to Titans from the Group Memberships page with anything in the 'Reason' field. We will not accept you until Monday, Oct. 5, but we are allowing you to apply ahead of time to prepare for the event. If you played in our previous Carnival event, you should be familiar with how it works. Our newcomers will find guides on how to play each mini-game and will quickly learn how Carnival works.

A warning to all, but mainly to those userbar whores: We reserve the right to remove you from our group for any reason. We don't have to tell you why either. If you don't play in the event and we believe you are just in the group for the userbar, we'll remove you from Titans without any warning or notice.

Any questions? Ask away! :) ?

If people want the Carnival then idc if we have another one lol. Guess I can see what the members of Titans think.

Everytime we host an event it just means that I have to pay out money for prizes lol.

Roger isn't even in Titans and is only asking a question. Nobody on this thread that is in Titans has said we are having a carnival right now xD

Yet I still have declined 10-12 join request concerning this Carnival thread Imfao.

Yeah I was going to ask you about that, got removed for no reason when I was more active.

Also, this thread should show point that there's interest in something your group should do again so you should probably get on that.

Realizm - October 3, 2016, 8:35 am

End of the month, just need time to get it ready. New games maybe, balanced points tracking, better and faster points tracking, etc. KoH helped me clear up some of the Titans subforum but he accidentally deleted a bunch of the old event threads so we have nothing to go on from the past Carnivals. So we will have to try our best to get the points system right and everything to go smoothly.
