You were one of the few who had the domain listed by spamhaus. Despite all resources nothing could be done, and your domains were replaced.

Further, that dispute is still ongoing with spamhaus.

But you told me these were shared domains ^.^ which probably wont help

If you're looking for a cheap, and stable DNS service, hit me up! :)

You can set up your own DNS and VPN, it is fairly simple and there are a lot of tutorials here and on other places. The DNS server is even easier to setup. You can get a really good server (near you for speed), for about $7-8, and use it as a DNS/VPN.

Users have the option to privatized domains... I offer it all, people are just cheap and dont want to pay for the higher end services.

And that is the users choice, Neos07 offers a great guide to doing so.

Tbh you cant really do anything against Spamhaus... But delisting yourself is not hard though and shouldnt take too long. By the way I am not sure why you want your dns to live this long because if you wanna keep your clients safe then you should rly just get a botnet and a good private crypter.

And honestly the best vpn there is just never use your home internet get a hotspot and then use a vpn. You can never expect that the vpn will save your ass!
