Thread: Invite for invite should not be allowed.

Sift - October 1, 2016, 3:19 pm

So over the months/years group owners have been giving each other an invite for an invite to other leaders. This is weird it should be against the rules because it shows no loyalty however to their group..

Feel free to reply with your own opinion.

This is the most retarded thing I've heard all day.

Yeah we should prevent leaders from adding other leaders.

Leaders can also only add members who are regular members and are in 0 other groups too.

Also, members with positive reputation should automatically be blacklisted from groups.

This post made me cringe sorry, roger.

You'd think that if you paid thousands of dollars for a group, you'd be able to invite/remove members as you please.

I'd think inviting other group leaders to your group for a invite is retarded due to the fact that all they seem to care about is how many user groups they are in.

That's because you want to be in all the usergroups on hf.

Owners of groups can do whatever they feel like doing with their groups. After all they did pay a fuck ton for it.

Mind your own business OP.

You seem to be caring a bit too much about groups, did you get kicked from a group and now you want revenge cause you're butt hurt?

What's to stop me from trying to be in every usergroup?

Why does it matter though? Usergroups are a symbol of expression (of homosexuality), just let them do as they please.

He obviously mean within the context of their own groups.

You're literally only looking for trouble it seems.

Don't be a complete utter retard then maybe you wont get scammed. Good luck with life OP, seems like you need it.

Varane - October 1, 2016, 3:28 pm

When they purchase the group, they can invite whoever they want to their group. That is about it.
