

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Looking to get into photography, recommend me a camera?

Voltageeee - October 2, 2016, 5:47 pm

Hey all. I'd love to get into photography, but as far as I understand the initial investment is expensive? How much do you think you need to initially spend on a "decent" camera .

Snow. - October 3, 2016, 4:43 pm

Hello,

You can check the Canon 650D. It's a great tool for beginning plus it's affordable, I've been working with it myself it's a nice one, good luck.

Uncle Momo - October 3, 2016, 9:48 pm

After researching for a good bit, I bought a d3200 I like it

Horizon - October 4, 2016, 7:13 am

You can pick up a fairly cheap second hand dslr from sites such as ebay. Keep an eye out for local ads too.

LogicGeek - October 4, 2016, 7:15 am

Nikon 3200D is perfect decision, Canon 60D aswell!

LemonOn - October 7, 2016, 3:27 am

The newer versions of the Canon Rebels are an excellent choice.

I started off with the T3i and been using it since release and still works to this date. Just upgraded to a 6D last year, but I still feel the t3i is easier to use.

With all the sensors and nice features in the newer t6i makes it such a great camera to start