

Forum: Hack Forums

Thread: Scam reports.

DoubleClickBTC - October 4, 2016, 6:37 am

Do scam reports get removed from your trust scan when resolved? Im not complaining im just wondering how it works. I was on holiday and had a misunderstanding with a customer but its all sorted now.

?

Guede - October 4, 2016, 6:38 am

it is classed as resolved 0/1 lol

DoubleClickBTC - October 4, 2016, 6:40 am

(Oct 4, 2016 06:38 AM)[Litty] Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) it is classed as resolved 0/1 lol

Ohh i thought it was one side is claimant and the other side is amount of defendant cases. Thanks for clearing it up

Zero_ - October 4, 2016, 6:43 am

(Oct 4, 2016 06:40 AM)MilkShakeModz Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Ohh i thought it was one side is claimant and the other side is amount of defendant cases. Thanks for clearing it up

It is exactly that.. he's wrong.

And it seems like that the TS DD is still there after you mark it as resolved in the DD DB.

You might have to junk your thread and/or delete the DD from the DB perhaps (if that's even possible.)

Ambien - October 4, 2016, 6:58 am

I think once the DD is junked it gets removed from your TS.

Neeeeeeeeeeel.- - October 4, 2016, 9:15 am

(Oct 4, 2016 06:40 AM)MilkShakeModz Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Ohh i thought it was one side is claimant and the other side is amount of defendant cases. Thanks for clearing it upAs Zero_ stated, it's exactly like you said. claimant/defendant.

I remember reading a thread here complaining about that solved disputes didn't get out of the trust scan. I don't know if it was fixed, but if no it should.

Maybe it's also a good idea to make a new row for "solved disputes". You may want to know if a user had any troubles dealing and how he handled it before dealing, don't you?

I've just checked OP's trust scan and I can confirm that solved disputes don't get out the trust scan. I will open a suggestion thread about this.

TheChi?f - October 4, 2016, 10:04 am

They only get out of the trust scan if Marked invalid by Omniscient himself.