Thread: High Quality vs. Low Quality

minimalist - October 4, 2016, 5:47 pm

Posting without putting much effort into the presentation of your words makes users see you differently. Make a habit of it and they'll see you as the same old low quality member.

But what is quality on an Internet forum? Why are we judged by the quality of our posts? Why should we need to upkeep a fake persona to impress others? Do we really care about helping others?

The way I see it, and the thing that I've learned, is that the answers to the questions above are, in order:

- an arbitrary figure
- because we are taught to appreciate this arbitrary figure
- we don't
- sometimes; usually no

What I'm trying to get at here is, don't take this forum too seriously as I have in the past. We're all going full-circle and the quality of our posts shouldn't define who we are.

And yes, I'm salty about not getting into Red Lions. Fuck off.

minimalist - October 4, 2016, 5:49 pm

See? These words have gotten to your heads. Keep it up.

Gachi - October 4, 2016, 5:50 pm

This thread is pretty LQ, hating on other members.

Nevieth - October 4, 2016, 5:52 pm

You didn't get into Red Lions? Something is wrong man, lets riot together.

Rubixa - October 4, 2016, 5:52 pm

Vouch for Minimalist, have done deals in the past, all went smoothly. Good luck with sales.

I have to say, without trying to suck dick, that you currenty contributed much more to the forum than any Red Lion member.

Heart - October 4, 2016, 5:54 pm

u got rejected from red lions because they already have a staff member, they dont need a wannabe one too

Dredd - October 4, 2016, 5:54 pm

Nice thread, I'm salty about not getting in any groups tbh I applied to every single one all through UserCP guess the leaders just don't know true talent when they find it, shame really.

Coton Pker - October 4, 2016, 5:55 pm

I hear buying awards is the best way to get to high quality status.

More research still needs to be done, but the correlation seems to be there.

I do know the more posts you have, the more you can shitpost, while still remaining "HQ" by ratio.

No one has to be high quality if they don't want to be and they don't have to pretend like they care about helping members when they don't, but there's some people on this forum who do and it's important for them to do so. Apparently Red Lions also admire this feature and accept those types of members into the group.

So, Minimalist pretends to care about others?

No, he doesn't put up a bullshit act like some of the others. I've never seen him to "pretend" to be anything he isn't.

Mafty Navue Erin - October 4, 2016, 6:16 pm

I consider myself just to be a normal member. My posts range from low to high quality. Well I guess it really depends how you perceive my posts though. I'm basically either helpful or I'm not.

I haven't known you long enough to be able to tell, in my opinion the content of the post should be more important than the grammar. I don't use autocapitalization and spell check, I've just gotten used to posting this way.

It's expressionism. He capitalizes it when he feels like he needs to be HQ and proper, but when he wants to stop trying he makes it a lowercase to make a point. Similar to how Codevade had the green, blue, and red shields.
