The only benefit you have with your name is that you no longer have to say "I take it in the butt", as your username does it for you.

Muddy Waters - October 5, 2016, 1:57 am

Yes I'm wondering this too, like what's the point? Everyone thinks its "rare" or "OG" or something to use silly emoji that doesnt mean anything? I mean come on how stupid is that. It looks stupid too.

Eloquence - October 5, 2016, 1:59 am

Nobody can compete in the username game with ????, and I. We are clearly superior at the name game.

I think I'm too old for this, I simply respect your choices in life. If this new trend is to change usernames to emoji's then so be it, but I will not be in it.

Sift - October 5, 2016, 2:41 am

Purple Drank - October 5, 2016, 3:13 am

1 or 2 emojis after your name or some special characters that look like regular characters is all good.

But only emojis? no, just no, lowercase no specifically, a peaceful no.
