Thread: Fifa 17 - Fifa points accounts - how?

Confound - October 6, 2016, 12:20 am

Hey guys,

I am sure you have seen fifa coin selling websites offering Fifa Point accounts with 11,000 fifa points on them.

Does anyone know how they are obtaining those fifa points and then being able to sell them for much cheaper?

I am fairly curious to see if anyone here on HF knows the answer to this.

They buy accounts with fifa points and sell them higher on their website :)

I mean the Chinese have been selling pre loaded accounts for ages so my guess is they know some kind of exploit just like for coins but fifa points can still be carded and till last year you could SE some points not sure if it still works this year..

Edit : Also if you are looking to buy them just don't man go instead for coins..

there is a way to get purchases from EA refunded with ease with no chance of a ban, unless you over abuse it on an account.

And please dont tell OP that theres a way on how to not being banned. I run a fifa community with 20k members and i have had all of these coins selling sites as sponsors and i know exactly how everything goin on. IF you ever buy fifa points or coins and get around the ban thing then it means you are lucky.

They prob set there account to a indian account. Buy xbox credits for cheap than buy it on fifa. Then resell.
